USE OF DOGS IN WAR.

Result of the Experiments Made By the German Army.

The use of dogs in war dates back The lase of togs in war dicks out to the Greeks and Romans, but the modern idea of training them for spe-cial military service was born in 1886 in Gormany, and for the past 10 or 12 years each battalion of German jag-ers has had eight or ten dogs assigned to it for this training. The two or that right by force, which would be more costly than beneficial, from pany are placed under the care of a noncommissioned officer and two men, and each regiment has an officer detailed to superintend their instruc-tion. The dog is to be used for various special duties, such as the service of information and security or scouting on marches and reconnoissances and in patrol, sentinel duty with the out-posts, as measengers on both these duties, as carriers of supplies and am-munition on the battlefield, and to hunt up the wounded after battle. Our Several Postal Schedules.

It is pointed out that at the present time the United States and Territor-ies and Colonies of America are afies and Colonies of America are af-flicted with five separate and different postal schedules. These are (1) the domestic American system, which is familiar to most of us; (2) the Porto Rican system, which is the same as our own for letters, but with a higher rate for fourth-class matter; (3) the Hawalian system, the Hawalian rates within the islands and foreign rates within the islands and foreign rates with the United States; (4) the Cu-ban system, with a modification of the old Spanish system in the interior and foreign rates between the island and the United States; (5) the Philippino system, within the Islands as the Spanish left it, but with domestic let-ter, newspaper and parcel rates be-tween the archipplago and the United States. There are a great many peotween the archipenago and the Unitsd States. There are a great many peo-ple, including not a few American business mea, who would urgently recommend Congress to take meas-ures to unify and harmonize these various systems in some way.—The Manufacturer.

Immense Wooden Building. The Parliament Building in Well-ington, New Zealand, is the largest wooden structure in the world. In Weilington and some other New Zealand towns almost every house is con-structed of wood. Large churches and important business premises are built of the same material.
