Horseman—That is a remarkable fine animal you are driving, madam.
Lady—Oh, I wouldn't part with this horse for the world. He's just as gentle as a lamb, and real fast, too.
Horseman—So I should judge. Has he ever been backed against any noted trotters?
Lady—Well, I don't know, but it seems to me he back against pretty much everything in the street every time I attempt to turn around.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Wise Man's Ignorance.
"Why is it that so few people seem anxious to talk to Mr. Carpington? He seems very well informed."
"That's just the difficulty," answered Miss Dimpleton. "He's one of those dreadful men who know enough to correct your mistakes when you quote the classics and who don't know enough not to do it."—Washington Star.

Mean Thing.
Rosalie—Have you chosen any of your bridesmaids yet?
May—Yes, Fanny Lyon.
Rosalie—Why, I thought you hated her.
May—No, not exactly; but the bridesmaids are to wear yellow, and you can't imagine how that will go with Fanny's complexion.—London Fun.

They Will Hold More.
"Do you ever wish you were a girl?" asked the visitor who was waiting in the reception-room.
"Only at Christmas time," answered the boy, who was lingering in the doorway.
"Why do you wish it then?"
"Because of the stockings they wear," was the prompt reply.—Chicago Post.

Editor Lynch of "Daily Post," Phillipsburg, N. J., has tested the merits of Foley's Honey and Tar with this result: "I have used a great many patent remedies in my family for coughs and colds and I can honestly say your Honey and Tar is the best thing of the kind I have ever used and I cannot say too much in praise of it." Sold at Armstrong's drug store.

Costume All Ready.
Backlots—Are you going to the fancy dress ball?
Subbubs—Yes, I'm going as a tramp.
Backlots—Have you got your costume all ready?
Subbubs—Yes, I'll wear my dress suit. My wife forgot to put it out of the way of the moths last spring.—Buffalo Courier.

J. W. Bryan of Lowder, Ill., writes: "My little boy was very low with pneumonia. Unknown to the doctor we gave him Foley's Honey and Tar. The result was magical and puzzled the doctor, as it immediately stopped the racking cough and he quickly recovered." Sold at Armstrong's drug store.

THE POLITICAL TIDE

It Is Running High In All Parts of Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURG AND THE "RIPPER"

Governor Stone Astonishes the "Natives"—Republicans Dismayed, the Democrats Delighted—Already Shaping Campaign Thunder—To Fight For Legislative Districts—The General Outlook.

Pittsburg, Since my letter of last week, telling of the impending clash of faction in Pittsburg, the "ripper" ax has fallen, and the official head of Recorder A. M. Brown has rolled into the basket. Simultaneous with the swift dismissal of Major A. M. Brown came the appointment of J. O. Brown to the recordership, and a lightning-change round-about of the minor municipal officials, who up to that time felt that they were fixtures in the scheme of city government. It was a good deal like one of those plays in which the first act takes place in Hoboken and the next in Paris, without a word of explanation, and all the leading characters transferred to "the gay capital" with no other apparent object in view than to furnish amusement or excitement to the spectator. According to the point of view from which you regarded the application of the "ripper" act you were excited or amused, or possibly indignant. Three things stand out prominently in the operation. These are Governor Stone's remarkable address and "postscript" to the people of Pittsburg, attributing Major A. M. Brown's removal to the latter's wholesale dismissal of subordinates against the repeated protests of the governor; Major Brown's emphatic denial of the salient points in Governor Stone's statement, and United States Senator Quay's clean-cut dispatch to The Gazette disavowing sympathy with Major Brown's denunciation, declaring that it was done against his expressed wish, and predicting that the political results would be far-reaching and disastrous. There is no doubt whatever in the minds of Pittsburg Republicans that Senator Quay was sincerely anxious for the retention of Major Brown in the recordership or that he is cherished over his removal. State Senator Flinn and his supporters, among whom may be numbered the new recorder, J. O. Brown, are greatly elated over the turn of affairs. They claim that it is an illustration of the familiar adage: "As things come to him who waits," and that Mr. Flinn has waited for his day of triumph.

DEMOCRATS ARE DELIGHTED.

The Democrats, from Colonel Guflay to Tim O'Leary, are simply delighted. According to their way of thinking, the Republican party has been damaged beyond repair in the state by the latest application of the "ripper" law, and hopelessly split into two factions that will make next year's campaign easy for the Pennsylvania Democracy. Indeed, so pronounced is this opinion among Democrats, and so sanguine are they of success next year, as a result of the divisions created here and elsewhere by the Stone-Elkin administration that more than one name is now prominently mentioned for the gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic side. The name of ex-Governor Pattison leads the list, of course, but with what is deemed an increased prospect of success, other names have been brought forward in the past few days, including those of ex-Judge Gordon, of Philadelphia; Mr. Hall, of Elk, and Mr. Cochran, of Williamsport. It is an indication of growing confidence among the Pennsylvania Democracy, based on United States Senator Quay's prediction as to the possibly disastrous consequences of recent events at Harrisburg and in this city. Democratic hopes have risen wonderfully within the week, and it is equally true that thoughtful Republicans who desire to see their party successful in next year's important campaign, when governor, United States senator, congressmen and members of the legislature are to be elected, view the outlook with apprehension. The feeling among Republicans does not amount exactly to dismay, but there is a good deal of anxiety lest the evil genius of conflict should be carried too far and a factional candidate nominated for governor.

HOW TO AVERT DISASTER.

If this should be done, then the disastrous consequences predicted by United States Senator Quay will be averted. There is one way to avert this, and that is a wise recognition of facts as they exist, and by nominating a man like Colonel L. A. Watres, of Lackawanna, for governor; one who represents in his personality and public service the highest ideals of the Republican party as a whole, and who has at heart the maintenance of its continued power and prestige in the state and nation. The assertion of factional strength is easy for the man in office who is not amenable to the visitation of the "ripper" law's reverses; but to assert such strength in putting forward candidates to be voted for by the people would be a supreme act of folly in the present temper of Pennsylvania. Party managers must get close to the people next year in choosing a Republican candidate for governor if they hope to win, and failure to do so will most assuredly be followed by disaster at the polls. One does not have to be much of a prophet to make this prediction with the returns of the recent election before him. Those figures should admonish the leaders that its shroud there is safety, and that success can best be achieved by the exercise of discretion in the choice of candidates. The candidacy of Colonel Watres is the most hopeful prospect on the political horizon. His well-known position in favor of party regularity and unity, and his aversion to faction in any form make him at once the most available, the most desirable and the strongest candidate before the people. His name is mentioned with increasing favor among Republicans who are more anxious for victory than for mere revenge in next year's campaign; and revenge would seem to be the capital prize for which factionalism contends.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZED FOR SUCCESS.

If anybody imagines that the men who are doing the thinking for the Pennsylvania Democracy are contenting themselves with glittering generalities, or with reading out Republican squabbles he simply deludes himself. The men at the head of the democratic management in this state are more wide-awake than they have been in the past decade or more. Formerly, except in those years when victory was virtually handed over to them, they contented themselves with urging some modifications of the Republican policy. Now, they are working earnestly and they believe, effectively for success. They seem to think that Republican liberalism is in Pennsylvania Democracy's opportunity, and they are proceeding along the lines of a well-planned program to carry the democratic party in the commonwealth, and into every legislative district. The presence, in addition to ex-Governor Pattison, of ex-Judge Gordon, Senator Hall, of Elk, and Mr. Cochran, of Williamsport, in the gubernatorial contest, has given zest to the struggle and a tremendous effort will be made not only to elect a governor next year, but to capture the legislature and the United States senatorship. Colonel Guflay, ex-Governor Pattison and all their lieutenants are working as never before at this stage of a campaign, and a methodical system of organization and missionary work is in progress. The legislative districts will be the subjects of special attention, and the forty or more that are considered doubtful will be worked for all they are worth, to the end that the prize of a Democratic United States senator shall be won by the party in next year's battle. With a factional Republican candidate for governor it is completely believed that the district will positively go Democratic, and so insure a Democratic legislature, and a Democratic United States senator to succeed Senator Penrose. This is the situation at the present writing, and it is impossible to converse with Democrats who have been through the mill, and who are good judges of conditions, without noticing the buoyant elation with which they regard the outlook. Nothing would delight these hopeful Democrats more than to see the Republican managers run their ship on the rocks by nominating a faction candidate for governor. That is the one thing the Democratic leaders want, the rest will be easy. There will be such a tidal wave of Republican indignation against any attempt to nail the party to the stake of a faction candidate for governor that Democratic success will be within grasp, and the leading Democrats are already organizing and working for it. They believe they cannot miss the prize this time, if the Republican leaders will only accommodate them by making the monumental blunder they expect and so, they are strengthened and encouraged by the glittering prospect of a sweeping victory. In that event this would be the result: A Democratic Governor, A Democratic United States Senator, A Democratic Legislature, A Democratic Congressmen.

STORING CAMPAIGN THUNDER.

The "ripper" act, as it affects Pittsburg, Allegheny and Scranton, and as it may possibly affect other cities in the state in case its advocates obtain control of the next legislature, is regarded by the Democratic leaders as a great campaign document and will be used for all it is worth in the gubernatorial fight. Next in importance is the municipal franchise law passed at the last session of the legislature, under which certain privileged persons secured street railway franchises worth millions of dollars. To these two political thunderbolts will be added Governor Stone's "postscript" to the people of Pittsburg explaining why he removed Major Brown from the recordership. In the "postscript" the governor outlined the alleged charges that he received $150,000 for approving certain bills passed by the "ripper" legislature. This "postscript" will be used as a challenge to anticipate a threatened exposure; still conservative Democrats regard it as an unfortunate magnifies what was merely a rumor until the governor gave its contradiction currency. Those who know what municipal campaign thunder is usually made of already recognize the use to which this "postscript" will be put in next year's election should any member of the governor's household become conspicuous as a candidate for state office. While no prominent Republican believes for a moment that Governor Stone's official approval of any bill becomes merchandise, it is greatly regretted that the standard of the insinuation in connection with the "ripper" act, and the legislation known as "the trustee franchise grab." No matter who is nominated as the Republican candidate for governor he will have to go up against these ugly allegations, which the Democrats will take care to saddle on the entire party, and it will require a Republican candidate of exceptional force and clearness of character and freedom from factional leanings, to come unscathed out of the ordeal in the fight for the governorship. As the party responsible for the administration of the Republican party will necessarily be placed on the defensive, and if it is forced by folly into the position of having to defend the candidate, as well as the record made at Harrisburg during the last session of the legislature, it will find itself in an unenviable position, a position such as only the enemies would like to see it occupy. However sanguine or jaunty those who are in power may be in predicting victory, and seeing at the suggestion of defeat, the clear-sighted recognize that the Republican party will have no plie in Pennsylvania next year, no matter who is nominated for governor, and it becomes all the more imperative, therefore, that a man like Colonel L. A. Watres be put forward, through whose garments there is no smell of smoke, and in whom the Republican hosts will recognize a party representative who will need neither explanation nor apology.

Chas. Replogle, Atwater, O., was in very bad shape. He says: "I suffered a great deal with my kidneys and was requested to try Foley's Kidney Cure. I did so and in four days I was able to go to work again; now I am entirely well." Sold at Armstrong's drug store.

ess can best be achieved by the exercise of discretion in the choice of candidates. The candidacy of Colonel Watres is the most hopeful prospect on the political horizon. His well-known position in favor of party regularity and unity, and his aversion to faction in any form make him at once the most available, the most desirable and the strongest candidate before the people. His name is mentioned with increasing favor among Republicans who are more anxious for victory than for mere revenge in next year's campaign; and revenge would seem to be the capital prize for which factionalism contends.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received by good fortune. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good children from it. I was a slave, chained with purtic sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overpromised yourself, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-sized bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, NEW YORK, Jan. 8, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO., Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-sized bottle.

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER, AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 15 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 19th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noted a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M. D., Feb. 6, 1901.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 25 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable. HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would never recover.

I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noise ceased, and the hearing in my right ear was restored. I have since been hearing in both ears, and I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 725 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation. Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost. INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.
