STATE POLITICS—ACTIVE

Auditor General Hardenbergh Declares in Favor of Watres.
SAYS HE MUST JOIN PROGRESSION

The Northeastern Counties Continue to Declare For Colonel Watres—The Rising Tide of Sentiment in His Favor—Qualities That Strengthen His Candidacy—Growing Demand For "Watres and Victory."

Harrisburg, March 10.—The most significant feature of the political situation this week is the outspoken declaration of Auditor General Hardenbergh for Colonel L. A. Watres for governor. It is a strong indication of the rising tide of sentiment and shows that the candidacy of Colonel Watres is endowed with a potent and constantly increasing vitality. Mr. Hardenbergh is a member of the official family on "the side" as which Attorney General Elkin belongs, and he would naturally hesitate to declare himself for Colonel Watres were he not convinced of the strength and sincerity of the popular demand for that gentleman's nomination which prevails in Northeastern Pennsylvania. Auditor General Hardenbergh is the Republican leader of Wayne county, a stalwart and unwavering supporter of Senator Quay, and an eminently practical man. He knows that in his home county, in common with all the surrounding counties in the northeastern, Republican sentiment is unanimous for Colonel Watres, and will send a solid delegation in his interest to the state convention, and he voices the will of his section of the state in announcing his choice for governor.

HARDENBERGH FOR WATRES.
Auditor General Hardenbergh was freely quoted by Philadelphia papers last week. The Ledger says that when asked as to his attitude in the contest he unhesitatingly announced: "Both delegates from Wayne to the Republican state convention will vote for Colonel Louis A. Watres, of Lackawanna county, for the Republican nomination for governor. It is true that I have been, and am, a warm friend of Attorney General Elkin, and would like to see him nominated for governor, but the sentiment of the people in Wayne county is unquestionably in favor of Colonel Watres, and there is no disguising that fact. The mother of Colonel Watres, who won fame in the literary world, under the nom de plume of 'Stella of Lackawanna,' resided for many years in our county prior to her going to Lackawanna to live, and her former friends and neighbors are anxious to honor her son by assisting in the election of delegates who will support him for the nomination for governor."

In addition, there is a company of the Thirtieth Regiment, of which ex-Lieutenant Governor Watres is colonel, located in our county, and the "soldier boys" are naturally anxious to honor their commander. Pride of section is also an element in favor of Colonel Watres, and he will, no doubt, receive the full support of the counties surrounding his own. I can only repeat that it would be a pleasure for me to assist John P. Elkin to secure the nomination for governor, but our people are for Colonel Watres, and I must join the procession."

THE NORTHEAST FOR WATRES.
The Ledger's comment on Auditor General Hardenbergh's interview is interesting. It says: "Mr. Hardenbergh said nothing about the half dozen county officials to be elected in Wayne county in November, and the certainty that the Democrats would elect their candidate if Elkin were the Republican nominee for governor. Wayne county is very close politics are very decided on election there. The auditor general, however, instead of attributing his support for Colonel Watres to fear of the result in his county, ascribes his attitude to local sentiment, Luzerne, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Sullivan, Tioga and Bradford counties are taking advantage of it in abandoning Elkin. These counties form the northeastern section of the state, and the leaders claim that in supporting Watres for governor they are voting to sectional sentiment, while protecting the utmost friendship for Elkin."

This is the Ledger's view of the case and I quote it to show how the situation is regarded by a conservative and perspicacious Republican journal, more anxious to present facts than to serve faction.

WHAT DEMOCRATS HOPE FOR.
There can be no gainsaying the fact that the Democratic politicians hope to see Mr. Elkin nominated. This is particularly true of all who are especially interested in the county elections, as well as in the results in the congressional and legislative districts. Aside from the general result in the state it is felt that with Mr. Elkin at the head of the Republican ticket this year a Democratic nomination for a county office, or for congress, or the legislature, would be most desirable, and whenever it is asserted that "the powers that be" will insist upon nominating Mr. Elkin there is undoubted Democratic belief among "the faithful" and a corresponding amount of what a famous editor once described as "shonitish gloom" on the part of their party organs and oracles.

Observing Republicans fully appreciate this condition and even those who are friendly to Mr. Elkin and would like to see him governor, realize the unwelcome of his nomination and the disastrous effect it would have on the party generally. There is no class of men, outside of the financiers of the country, more practical than the politicians, and however much they may respect a candidate, if his nomination means defeat for him, and then they are not, as a rule, guilty of the supreme folly of putting him forward as their standard-bearer. Sometimes this is done, however, but it is not the result of sentiment, but of over-confidence. Viewed in the light of friendship there is more kindness in not nominating a man who is certain to be beaten than in giving him a nomination. Veterans like Senator Quay understand this, and are chary about expressing their preference before feeling the popular pulse. This is probably why the "wireless telegraph" between St. Louis and Harrisburg has not been working of late. They are the thoughtful who imagine that the state can be carried by storm, no matter who is nominated, but I have good reason to believe that this opinion does not prevail at headquarters, and that the wisdom of making a winning nomination is receiving the attention to which such a serious proposition is entitled.

MODERATION AND FIRMNESS.
Among the Republicans of the state, those who are in close touch with public sentiment, there is no question as to the necessity of having a candidate for governor who will inspire the party with enthusiasm from center to circumference. They want a man who will lay the specter of a doubt, and lift the standard of success. In Northeastern Pennsylvania Colonel L. A. Watres is unanimously recognized as such a man. With him at the head of the ticket the very best men in the party will be willing and anxious to accept nominations for county offices, for congress, for the state senate and the house of representatives. They know that he would inspire enthusiasm and invite victory, and this knowledge is founded on accurate observation.

Men acquainted with Colonel Watres recognize him as the possessor of two great qualities which pre-eminently fit him for the office of governor. These are moderation and firmness. Never an extremist, he has always adhered unflinchingly to the principles of his party. There is no acerbity in his make-up, and while recognizing the right of others to differ with his views, love of order has become with him a fixed rule of life. His equable disposition, and his varied experience in business and in public affairs, as well as his firmness of heart, in administrative matters, qualify him particularly for executive responsibility. Those who are best acquainted with his career have no hesitation in saying that he would make an ideal governor, in whose keeping the constitution and the rights of all the people would be secure. With such a man for its candidate, the Republican party need have no misgivings as to the result of this year's campaign, and there is the firm belief with Colonel Watres as the nominee victory would be certain.

ANOTHER COUNTY FOR WATRES.
Following close upon Auditor General Hardenbergh's declaration that Wayne county is for Colonel Watres, comes the news from Susquehanna that the delegates from that county, also, will support Colonel Watres in the state convention. Susquehanna honors the re-election to congress of Hon. C. F. Wright, its present representative in the national legislature. There has been a spirited rivalry between Colonel Pratt and Captain McCausland for state senator, but the dispatches say that so far as the election of state delegates is concerned, the sentiment in favor of Colonel Watres, and it has been agreed by all parties concerned that he is to receive the hearty support of the delegates chosen to represent the county in the state convention.

Few Republicans in the last house of representatives were better known or stood higher than Representative A. A. Philbin, of Lackawanna county. Although a stalwart in his devotion to party and country, he stood up courageously and consistently against the invasion of the people's rights by riparian and kindred "commercial legislation." Mr. Philbin is owner and editor of a paper called the Archibald Citizen, published in an industrial community, and he knows what he is talking about when he says in an interview given to the issue of the Philadelphia Press that "the sentiment in Lackawanna is decidedly favorable to the nomination of Colonel L. A. Watres for governor." This, Mr. Philbin adds, is not due so much to local pride as to the fact that Colonel Watres is regarded as the man who will harmonize the party.

In noting the shifting nature of party majorities in the anthracite counties, Mr. Philbin directs special attention to Lackawanna, which gave a majority of 7,899 for McKinley in 1896, and swung over to the Democracy last fall with a majority of 4,099 as a result of the ripper legislation and other causes for dissatisfaction. He says: "If any one who has been prominently identified with the present state administration is nominated for governor this summer I feel sure that the experience of last November, when the Democrats carried the county by a large majority, will be repeated." Mr. Philbin pays high tribute to Colonel Watres, his party services, locally and in the state, and to his winning qualities, and declares: "His nomination would unite the party as it has not been united in many years, and it would inspire Republicans everywhere in the state with confidence and hope for the general success of the party next fall." WATRES and VICTORY are the watchwords of the Republicans in Northeastern Pennsylvania.
