HE WROTE THE CHECK.

Denver Bank President Did Not Hesitate When Confronted by a Desperate Man.

David H. Moffatt, president of the First national bank of Denver, solved to his own satisfaction the question of whether a man should give up money to an assassin or not, states the Philadelphia Press.

Several years ago a man came into the First national bank and went into Mr. Moffatt's private office. In his hand was a bottle containing a light-colored viscous fluid.

"Mr. Moffatt," he said, "I am a desperate man. This bottle contains two ounces of nitroglycerin. If I explode it, you and I and the bank building will be blown to smithereens. I want $25,000. I want you to write out a check for that amount, take it to the cashier, get the currency and give it to me."

"I didn't believe," said Mr. Moffatt, "that the man had nitroglycerin in the bottle. I didn't believe that he would have used it if he had. But at the same time there was a chance that he did; there was a chance that he was a fanatic; there was a chance that he would have killed us both."

"I figured the thing out in my mind quickly—a man's mind acts readily under such circumstances—and I came to the conclusion that it was better to give him the $25,000 than to run the risk of my life, for $25,000 was only a couple of weeks' income. Death was eternity. I went to the cashier's desk, wrote the check, got the currency, gave it to the man, and he walked out with it and has never been seen since."

A PAIR OF WEDDED LOVERS.

Car and Carina Are Said to Be Without Eyes But for Each Other.

It is amusing to hear the remarks of those who saw the car and carina at the camp house they attended while in France. They behaved like a newly-married couple at a table d'hôte, with neither eyes nor ears except for one another, says London Truth. She spoke so much to the car that the Betheny lute that M. Loubet, who was at her left hand, imagined an old graybeard like himself was de trop, and chatted continuously with his other next neighbor, Mme. Casimir-Perier.

Nicholas was full of anxiety. He filled himself the empress' glasses when champagne or other wines were handed round. Mme. Loubet next to him, but she showed, by conversing with her other neighbor, that she did not wish to bore him. When he and the empress chatted, the latter looked animated and as if she enjoyed herself. As soon as she spoke to Mme. Loubet, the expression of the imperial lady changed, and she gazed without the slightest animation, as if absent-minded.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which Is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be reprinted free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York city.

The Rock Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, an experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk of Warrenton, Sullivan county, said: "Last season one small adv. brought me five guests."

La Rae Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we receive applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad in the Eagle."

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

Of the 6,519 Protestant Episcopal churches in the United States, 4,750 are reported to make no contribution to missions.

Six thousand dollars has been given by Charles B. Baird, of Philadelphia, the income of which is to be used toward founding prizes for senior class oratory at Princeton.

Dr. Stiles, who was the president of Yale college from 1778 until 1795, tells in his diaries that about the time he became president there were three professors and as many tutors, while to-day there run into the hundreds.

A writer in a Boston paper makes this pointed comment on Admiral Evans' recent utterance relative to high schools: "Might not a New England high school education have saved Admiral Evans from such a sentence as 'that every boy and every girl should be taught to work with their hands?'"

When the present archbishop of Canterbury was, nearly half a century ago, principal of a government training college for teachers, he always made a point of personally initiating his students into the mystic art of gardening, and plied spade and rake in his shirt sleeves, as a teacher and exemplar should.

AN IMPORTANT ITEM.

A Valuable Suggestion for the Young Housekeeper Just Starting In.

The young matron buying her first housekeeping outfit will do well to set aside a generous sum for the purchase of bedding. Good hair mattresses, made of the best quality of hair, represent considerable investment at the time, but will last a lifetime and furnish always a delightful bed, says the New York Post.

If possible, no substitute for this should be taken. In the same way five-gauge-leather pillows, once bought, are practically a lasting possession. They can be renovated indefinitely, and are satisfactory at every moment of use. Much cheaper feather pillows are to be had which, when new, seem almost as good, but they are largely mixed with hen's feathers and soon disclose their poor quality. In buying muslin sheets, cloth woven from a rather coarse thread should be selected, though a finer quality at first may seem preferable. Old housekeepers still insist that unbleached muslin is better, but it becomes whiter in the end, than the bleached variety, but young housekeepers do not like the transition process. They may consent, however, to choose the half-bleached variety, which really whitens so rapidly in consecutive washings as to prove very satisfactory. Allow full two yards and a half after hemming to every sheet, as a short sheet is an abomination. At least a couple of pairs of linen sheets should be included in the first purchase of bedding, and after that the purchase of a pair a year will easily keep up the necessary supply. Cotton sheets are so generally used—are preferred, indeed, by many—that the great store of linen bedding, dear to the hearts of our grandmothers, is superfluous.

Interesting to Asthma Sufferers.

Daniel Banta of Otterville, Iowa, writes, "I have had asthma for three or four years and have tried about all the cough and asthma cures in the market and have received treatment from physicians in New York and other cities but got very little benefit until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar which gave me immediate relief and I will never be without in my house. I sincerely recommend it to all." Sold at Armstrong's drug store.

Is Bryan dead? The loud cheers which greeted the announcement of his name in the Indiana state democratic convention would indicate that he is still a live factor in democratic politics. The convention, however, gave silver a black eye, recognizing the increased output of gold as providing sufficient money for circulation.

Was Washing Away.

The following letter from Robert R. Watts of Salem, Mo., is instructive. "I have been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years. I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." Sold at Armstrong's drug store.

The democratic party is said to always have its face to the front. Unfortunately for it, it never dares to look around or refer to any of its illusions or speeches after they are a year or so old. It cannot contemplate its record.

Ten Years in Bed.

R. A. Gray, J. P., Oakville, Ind., writes, "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of the kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." Sold at Armstrong's drug store.

The democratic party is like a drove of live stock. It is constantly changing its face. The democratic issues seldom last more than two years, when they are abandoned for "new ground."
