Do your CHILDREN ASK QUESTIONS?

Of course they do. It is their way of learning and it is your duty to answer. You may need a dictionary to aid you. It won't answer every question, but there are thousands to which it will give you true, clear and definite answers, not about words only, but about things, the sun, machinery, men, places, stories and the like. Then, too, the children can find their own answers. Some of our greatest men have ascribed their power to study of the dictionary.

Of course you want the best dictionary. The most critical prefer the New and Enlarged Edition of WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

If you have any questions about it write us.

THE NEW YORK WORLD
Thrice-a-Week Edition

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken

The Thrice-a-Week World was a brilliant success in the beginning and has been steadily growing ever since. Time is the test of all things, and has set its seal of approval on the Thrice-a-Week World, which is widely circulated in every state and territory of the Union, and wherever there are people who can read our mother tongue.

This paper for the coming winter and the year 1922 will make its news service, if possible, more extensive than ever. All events of importance, no matter where they happen, are reported accurately and promptly.

The subscriber for only one dollar a year gets three papers every week and more news and general reading matter than most other papers furnish at three or six times the price.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and democratic and republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political campaigns.

In addition to all the news the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best local news, elaborate market reports and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $4 per year and this price is for 136 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Five Century News together one year for $5.

The regular subscription price of the 136 papers is $2.50.

A COMEDY JAIL.

Town courthouse in Pennsylvania that is merely a convenience for prisoners.

Blumbergh, the county seat of Essex, in the Adirondacks, possesses a comedy jail, according to the Philadelphia Ledger. It is small, having windows secured by wooden bars and a jailer included by a solid fence of three-quarter-inch boards, which a healthy male could push over with his shoulder. But the prisoners rarely, if ever, attempt to escape. Some good stories are told by Judge Kellough, Judge Hand and other residents. It is a custom to allow the prisoners out on parole, so that they may cut the grass on neighboring farms, do garden work, or repair roads for the village or county. Recently one prisoner, who should have returned at eight o'clock, did not apply for admission until nearly an hour later. The warden sternly demanded to know the reason, and added: "Don't let this occur again, or I will not allow you to come in. I look the door at eight o'clock and won't open it in the future for you." Another accused of a violation of the law for not returning, overstayed his parole and pleaded as an excuse that as it was Saturday he thought he would go and spend Sunday with his wife, returning to the jail on Monday morning.

A Jamaica Pest.

Land crabs are a pest in Jamaica. They are black or brown and look like a woolly spider about the size of an ordinary crab. They penetrate everywhere, frequently seeking sleeping persons by moving about the rooms of dwellings. Once a year they migrate to the seashore for breeding. At these times they cover the land like a plague. They are not venomous.

Kiss in Keep House.

"Housekeeping has made rapid progress lately," says the Delphos (Kan.) Republican, "toward the desired end, which is the greatest good with the least effort. About all there is to do now for breakfast is to knock in the head of a big yellow box and call the children."

PROMINENT FOREIGNERS.

The Duke of Norfolk is not only premier Duke of England, but also premier earl.

The young king of Spain is a first-class horseman and enjoys largely the form of exercise. He has good taste in horses, and when he rides—as he does every day—it is his pleasure to distance the guard, which usually accompanies him.

Among his other gifts Lord Milner has a facility, almost amounting to genius, for mastering languages. It is said that within a very few weeks of reaching South Africa he was so proficient in the Dutch language that he was able to converse fluently with Mr. Kruger, and with hardly an exception the leading languages of Europe are literally at the tip of his tongue.

Carl August Walbrodt, whose death is reported from Berlin, was one of the well-known masters of modern chess, and among the Germans was ranked second only to Tarrasch. He was only 30 years old, yet had been a conspicuous player for about a dozen years. His early successes were remarkable and unbroken until 1904, when he was badly beaten by Tarrasch. He was a player of the intuitive sort and could never be induced to take up the profound theoretical studies in which most German chess players delight.

Londoners are laughing over a story in which Lord Roberts, the diminutive warrior, is a central figure. It concerns a prominent man of great physical proportions, who, on being introduced to Lord Roberts, shaded his eyes in a worldly-wise attempt to simulate difficulty in seeing the small person of the earl and remarked: "Ah, Lord Roberts, delighted. I have frequently heard of you, but I have never seen you before." To which his lordship calmly replied: "And I have frequently seen you, but I have never heard of you before."

TRICK OF A SHREWD BROKER.

Flouted Lipton's Shares of Stock on the Market and Made Himself a Fortune.

One of the shrewdest and most successful of London's stock brokers was Panmure Gordon, recently deceased. He was known as one of the best of good fellows, as he was one of the most dandily dressed of brokers who ever made a shrewd bargain for clients, or a shrewder one for themselves. In the early days when the glamour of Panmure Gordon's flotation of Lipton's was still over the city he figured often in the newspapers with his horses, his charities and his neckties. But of later years the great firm of Panmure Gordon, Hill & Co. has been steadily amassing wealth without achieving any such sensational coups. An illustration of his methods is given in an account of how he did the brokering in the Lipton flotation. There was, of course, fierce competition for the work. One day Mr. Gordon, dressed in a plain beyond perfection, as he ever was, dropped in on Sir Thomas Lipton and hailed him with the following: "Give me the job and I'll put a quarter of a million in your pocket." The offer was terse and to the point.

"How?" queried Sir Thomas.

"By charging you five shillings a share premium," was the significant reply, and the deal was made there and then. So, too, was the promised £250,000 of sheer profit.

"It worked badly."

First Village Dame—Did I bring you back that basket you lent me last week?

Second Dame (emphatically)—No, indeed, you did not.

"That's a pity, for I just came round to borrow it again!"—Punch.

GOSSIPY GLEANINGS.

Mr. Herbert Booth, who has been in command of the Salvation Army forces in Australia, is the sixth of the brothers to quit the army.

When M. Louhet, the French president, was in St. Petersburg he left 25,000 roubles for the poor of that city. It has since been decided not to distribute this money, but to build with it a house in which poor families can live without paying rent.

Five generations of one family are living in the town of Pillow, Dauphin county, Pa. They are Mrs. Henry Feagley, aged 91; her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Leuker, aged 60; Mrs. Leuker's daughter, Mrs. Frank Snyder, aged 44; the latter's daughter, Mrs. A. B. Deblider, and her son Russell, aged three months.

Joseph H. Rosenthal, a wealthy Montana pioneer, who died the other day, owed his riches to accident. In the early days he kept a miners' boarding house and one of his boarders, being unable to settle his bill gave Mr. Rosenthal an interest in a claim he was working. Shortly afterward a pay lead was struck and the mine became one of the most profitable in that region.

A Viennese journalist compares the late Polish painter, Sienkiewicz, with his countryman, Sienkiewicz, whose "Quo Vadis" owed its great success to traits similar to those which made Sienkiewicz's "Living Torches of Nero" the sensation of its day. Sienkiewicz lived many years in Rome and spent much time also at Pompeii. He was an diligent student of archaeological details as Alma Tadema.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

Black ostriches with white wings are to be seen in Uganda.

Lions have been scared away from the shores of Lake Victoria-Nyanza by the newly built railway.

The American bittern has only been seen 14 times in the British Isles. A specimen was recently shot in Ireland.

Elephants cause trouble in some parts of Africa by rubbing against telegraph poles and making them fall. These pests are of steel, as wood is liable to be devoured by ants.

The only antelope in captivity in this country died recently at the New York zoological gardens. There is only one other ox in captivity, and that one is to be found in the zoological gardens of Hamburg, Germany.

It is related that two peregrine falcons exhibited remarkably eagerly recently. They had often been seen to follow trains in Croatia. No explanation was offered until one afternoon the train suddenly put up a covey of young partridges. One of the hawks swooped and carried off a partridge. The cunning bird of prey was using the train as a baiter.

GLITTERING TRIPLES.

A beautiful hair ornament is a dragon fly with outstretched wings of pearl.

Rubelle or pink tourmaline is among the latest effects shown by the jewelers.

One of the prettiest of hair ornaments is a lily with leaves made of shimmering silver sequins. This is fastened in the pompadour and is very effective.

Coral is the fad of the hour and coral loggnette chains are being worn. They can be found in the usual coral or in coral beads of varying size that range in color from the palest pink to dark red.

Among all the dazzling array of head, pearl, coral and jet chains are those of gold and platinum, which are to be much worn. The prettiest ones are made like a serpent's scales and end in a serpent's head, with ruby or emerald eyes.

Boy's Life Saved From Membranous Croup.

C. W. Lynch, a prominent citizen of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My little boy had a severe attack of membranous croup, and only got relief after taking Foley's Kidney and Bladder Cure. He got relief after one dose and I feel that it saved the life of my boy." Refuse substitutes. Sold at Armstrong's drug store.
