CHARTER NOT VALID

In the county for a wholly distinct purpose 30,000 acres of land, a quantity almost equal in area to the ordinary township; this is to be absolutely owned, controlled and improved for the exclusive use of the stockholders; taxation is limited to a valuation put upon unseated wild lands of the state, a valuation squalling probably one or two dollars per acre. Certainly the residents and taxpayers of Pike county were interested in the subject of the bill. But the title does not intimate in what county of the sixty-four counties the Park is located; it may be in Philadelphia county or any other. If the title had read Bloomingdale Park Association in Pike county this might have attracted the attention of those interested in the subject of the bill.

But not only does the name fail to call attention to the location but we think it misleading. The subject as seen from the body of the act, to our mind, not only does not indicate a park in the ordinary common conception of that term but it plainly points out something entirely different. It may be conceded, that the word "park" has been used in other ages and in other countries, occasionally to mean a tract of land enclosed and stocked with beasts of chase, such as that described by Xenophon as belonging to Cyrus, King of Persia, filled with the wild beasts which he hunted on horse back; but we doubt whether the ordinary citizen of Pike county got his notion of a park from Xenophon. Nor is it probable the members of the General Assembly had his Anabasis before them when they passed the bill, at least not in the original Greek letter which the learned counsel for the appellee have so aptly quoted and printed in their paper book. Nor do we think they got their meaning of the word from Abbot's Law Dictionary. "A portion of one's ground which he has by lawful right enclosed and stocked with beasts of chase. There are other somewhat exceptional definitions which would perhaps fit certain parts of the subject described in the act, but the American meaning of "park," is that given in the Century Dictionary No. 3. "A piece of ground set apart and maintained for public use and laid out in such a way as to afford pleasure to the eye as well as opportunity for open air recreation." This definition gives the common understanding of the term. It fits Fairmount Park, Philadelphia; Central Park, New York; Highland Park, Pittsburgh, and probably every public park in the country. It is not applicable to private inclosures enjoyed by the few to the exclusion of the public; it is not applicable to a Game and Fish Preserve, which the subject of this act clearly is, as understood both in this country and England. By this title the resident of Pike county, even if he knew the park was to be located in his county, would assume it would be an open place for his and his family's recreation along with others of the public. He would not dream that it was for the exclusive enjoyment of the few; that he would be halted before a magistrate by a deputy sheriff, fined and possibly imprisoned, if he set foot upon it. We think therefore, while the title did not express the subject of the act at all, it was at the same time misleading, because it would prompt belief, that it had reference to a wholly different subject. Dorsey's Appeal, 72 Pa. 195.

It must be noted, that this act was passed in 1871, three years before the constitution of 1874 went into effect; and while the amendment of 1864 had cured the evils arising from "omnibus" legislation, there was another evil not yet touched, that of reading bills by their titles alone and at once passing them. It was not unusual at that time to pass a score of bills in an hour, that were read only by their titles; this can no longer be done; by Article 3 of the Constitution every bill must now be read at length on three different days in each house besides must be printed for the use of the members before the final vote be taken.

While the main objects of this bill are commendable, we doubt if some of its penal provisions could have obtained a majority of the General Assembly if the entire bill had been read in both houses on three different days, and printed for their use before a final vote. However this may be, we are decidedly of the opinion that the subject of the act is not clearly expressed in the title and the act is therefore unconstitutional.

WANTED - FAITHFUL PERSON to travel and supervise fairs of salespeople and make collections for manufacturing house. Straight salary $20.00 a week and expenses. Superintendent, 224 Dearborn street, Chicago.

PAUPAC.

This decision does not affect the property of the association, except to again cast it upon the stockholders as individuals. While there is no artificial person to hold it, there is nothing to hinder their organization under the general laws of the Commonwealth to carry out their avowed purpose under this act, with such reasonable protection in their object as the general laws afford.

As to the remaining two reasons for reversal specified in the assignment of error, to wit: 1. That the bill contains more than one subject. 2. That it deprives the defendant of his right of trial by jury, it is not necessary to consider them, as what we have already said is decisive of the issue.

The judgment of the Superior Court is reversed, and that of the Court of Quarter Sessions is affirmed for the reasons given in this opinion.

An accident occurred near the pier of the Barret bridge Tuesday morning when Byron William and his two children, Karl and Bessie, and Mrs. A. J. Owens and daughter, Bessie, were thrown in the river by the capsizing of a boat in which they were crossing the river to take a train. The water is not deep at that point presents of mind in clinging to the boat until parties rescued them probably saved their lives.

SANDYSTON.

One of the most atrocious tragedies occurred in this town Friday evening that ever happened in this vicinity. Friday evening about 7 p. m. Victor E. Bevans and his wife were sitting by their stove conversing when some person fired two loads of buckshot through the window wounding Mrs. Bevans so that she died without regaining consciousness at 5 a. m. Saturday morning. The buckshot, of which there were eight in each load, struck her in the right temple and face while Mr. Bevans' jaw and arm were shattered. He ran to the phone and called Elvin Smith, his neighbor, and also Ky Smith merchant at Bevans. The news spread rapidly and soon there were scores of excited men on the grounds. It is thought Mr. Bevans will recover providing blood poison does not set in.

Mrs. Bevans, wife of Victor E. Bevans who died Saturday morning from the wounds received in the shooting of the night before, was about 44 years old. She was an estimable woman and her many acts of kindness will long be remembered in this community. To sum it up she had not an enemy.

Last week the writer attended the annual meetings of the Reading Insurance Co. at Three Bridges, N. J. The announcement made by one of our county papers that Sussex had gone broke is not correct. While the county is financially in a bad way that fact would be remedied if Hardyston township, or the Franklin Zinc Co. rather, would pay its past taxes. Why not change the board of freeholders for the three commissioners, according to the laws of 1902, it might prove beneficial to the county financially and otherwise. But not one of our county press will peep on the three commissioner method.

Loren Shay of Newark came home Saturday on an indefinite vacation.

The marriage of Marlon Williams of Paupac and Frank Gilpin of Greentown took place at the bride's home October 21st. The bride was attired in a handsome dress of blue silk trimmed with point lace and carried a large bouquet of white roses. The happy couple was united by Rev. Simpkins of Hawley. The rooms were beautifully trimmed with evergreens and autumn leaves while over the heads of the bride and groom hung a large wedding ball of daisies. After the marriage which took place at exactly twelve, by the time the guests were well filled with the good things that usually accompany weddings. Dinner over, the newly wed pair tried to slip away from their good friends unobserved but being unsuccessful were well showered with rice and serenaded with horns. They left in a carriage beautifully decorated with bolts, shoes, boots, signs, etc., and took a trip through Milford, Stroudsburg, Easton, Delaware Water Gap, Greentown and then went to Hawley where they intend keeping house, and no doubt think the world was made for "only you and I."

"Congratulations you and thank you heartily on behalf of American people" was the message sent by the president to the American representatives on the Alaskan Boundary Commission, when the award was made known last week, in London. Owing to the fact that Lord Alverstone, the British commissioner, was convinced of the justice of the American claim a majority of the commission was able to reach a decision, which is final and settles for all time the long disputed question of the Alaskan boundary. The two Canadian commissioners refused to sign the award although they signed the map as that agreed upon by the majority. The line established gives us nearly all the territory in dispute and runs so far east as to shut Canada off from all the bays, inlets and other means of access to the sea, from Portland Canal to Mount St. Elias. This gives us entire possession of the Lynn Canal which is the main entrance to the Klondike region and the territory which Canada was most anxious to obtain. The Portland Canal, together with the Islands of Pease and Wales, was given to Canada, but the two smaller islands, which lie just outside and are of immense strategic value, remain in our possession. The islands also command Port Simpson which is to be the terminus of the new transcontinental railway. The Canadian commissioners are bitter in their criticism of the award while the Canadian public calls in question the honesty of the British government and its representative, the Lord Chief Justice Alverstone. They declare that the formalities of the international tribunal were used merely to trade Canadian territory for the friendship of this country, and that Canada will no longer dare to trust her interests to the care of the British government. Sentiment in England is divided between those who say that Canada has just cause of complaint and those who declare that the refusal of the Canadian commissioners to sign the award, as well as the general attitude of the colonists, is undignified and an insult to the highest judicial representative of the British Empire. The Canadians relieve their feelings by talk of annexation and independence, but no importance is attached to such talk here, except as an indication of the independence of feeling in Canada as well as of her loose connection with the mother country. It is of interest however to notice that the resentment of our northern neighbors is directed against England and not against the United States.

Do Good - It Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds - some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say: "My good friend, cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by Balch & Swo, Matamoras, all general stores in Pike county.
