With twelve cranks at the White House to see the president during a single week, some of them well beset with shooters and Texas toothpicks it seems that congress could do worse than make some sort of an enactment looking to the protection of the lives of the Presidents of the United States and a suitable punishment for attempts upon their lives.

Secretary Shaw's annual report takes an optimistic view of the condition of the country, indicating that any financial crisis has passed and that the coming months will show appreciation in values of all kinds.

A recent official statement of the government receipts—customs, internal revenue, public land sales, etc.—from what is known as the "Oregon country," from 1851 to the present time shows the immense total of $51,869,067. This is the country which such an eminent statesman as Webster declared was a fit habitation only for wild beasts and wilder men and that he would never appropriate a dollar to acquire or develop it.

HEALTH HINTS.

A hot strained inhalation of camomile flowers is useful as a lotion when the eyelids are inflamed.

Cold cream rubbed around the nails will counteract the tendency to crack and will keep the skin around the nails soft and fresh looking.

To cure corns take white pine turpentine, spread a plaster, apply to the corn and allow it to stay on until the corn comes off itself. Repeat this several times.

Children in schools should be carefully watched in order to guard against trouble with the eyes, as shortsightedness is becoming yearly a more common defect. They should not be allowed to hold the books near or the eyes than fourteen inches, and must not stoop over their work.

A good remedy for sleeplessness is to wet a towel and apply it to the back of the neck, pressing it up toward the base of the brain, and fastening over this a dry cloth to prevent too rapid evaporation. The effect will be found prompt and pleasant, cooling the brain and inducing a sweet and peaceful slumber. Warm water is better than cold for this purpose. This remedy will prove useful to people suffering from overwork, excitement or anxiety.

The "no-scap-on-the-face" fad would win more adherents if so many of its advocates did not carry on their faces more or less blackheads—the very thing that cold water and "no soap" are supposed to banish. There are without doubt some skins so tender that a smart scrub with a brush, warm water and soap roughens and breaks them. There are also many young women living in so country who have charming complexions notwithstanding that cold water—and hard water at that—is their only cosmetic. It is plain, however, that for most women who live in a large town, where dust and grime are rampant, soap in some form is a necessity if they would keep their faces clean. Pleasant bathing with cold water after the face bath with complexion brush and soap is a necessity, but taken by itself, it generally works mischief.

ABOLISH HUMAN SUFFERING.

Medical Reliefs That Have Been Discovered for Frightful Maladies.

The current year promises to be notable among other things, for the important additions which it will make to medical science and to curative agencies in general. While the wonderful work accomplished by Dr. Lorenz may perhaps hardly fall within the class thus indicated, the stimulus which the famous Viennese surgeon has given to undoubtedly help to make the year additionally memorable in the annals of human suffering. Among the most important of the year, thus far in the direction of medical discovery may be included that of serum cure for hay fever, made by Professor Dunbar, American head of the Hamberg Hygienic Institute. While hay fever is not to be regarded as a fatal disease, it is a most distressing malady, and if anything can be devised to cure it a great boon will be conferred upon the human race.

Of far greater importance is the announcement that a probable cure has been discovered for blood poisoning, a malady which carries off a large number of people each year, and which has hitherto resisted, in many cases, the best medical skill. Recent experiments with formalin in hospitals in New York and elsewhere seem to show that this agency may be relied upon in many cases to arrest the process known as blood poisoning and effect permanent cure. If this proves to be the case it will be one of the most important contributions to medical science in this generation." Still later than these comes the news from Rome, that Professor Cornaghi, of Pavia, has discovered the microbe of hydrophobia. It has been the general impression that this disease was being successfully treated with the remedy devised by Professor Koch, but if this new discovery leads to something still more efficacious, the world will have reason to be profoundly grateful. Hydrophobia is by one of the most frightful maladies known to humanity, and whatever tends to diminish its ravages or to deprive it of its terrors will be of untold benefit.—Lancet's Weekly.

BRIDGES COAL MINING.

The question of how far the miner's employment in our coal mines is really unhealthy is one that has often been discussed by medical men by coal owners, by the miners themselves and by the general public. Statistics demonstrate that while the labor in our coal mines is not entitled to take rank as an unhealthy work with agricultural labor and other outdoor occupations, it is very far from being as unhealthy as the general public are disposed to believe. Another general idea is that the work of the mine not only tends to shorten life, but to disable men from following their occupation at a relatively early age. The Iron and Coal Trades Review has analyzed the figures on the question given in the recent census. In the United Kingdom, and the result is both instructive and in some respects unexpected.

In every district of importance a number of men are still following the laborious occupation of hewing coal at the age of seventy-five years and upward. In Glamorgan seventy-nine men of that age were employed underground in the census year; in Durham, thirty-nine; in Northumberland, twenty-four; in Yorkshire, forty-five, and in Lancashire, twenty-six. Between the ages of sixty-five and seventy-five the numbers were naturally much larger. Of hewers so employed there were 711 in Flanorgan, 532 in Durham, 238 in Northumberland, 509 in Yorkshire and 480 in Lancashire. This is not at all a bad record for an age that is likely to average about seventy, which is a period of life when comparatively few men can continue to follow exhausting and continuous labor.—Philadelphia Ledger.

BURDEN OF DRESS.

One Woman Who Longs for a Regular Uniform.

Such an every true woman loves her pretty gowns and becoming hat, she has periods when the question of dress becomes a burden: when the bravery of laces, ribbons and other gawwags pains upon her spirits, and the choice and necessary work attendant upon the arrangement of a winter's or summer's wardrobe becomes a trial almost too heavy to be borne.

"I feel that I shall never be a contented or capable woman," said a pretty young matron recently, "until I adopt a uniform. This never-ending perplexity and worry at the beginning of every season takes altogether too much out of me."

"I do not say but that in a way I enjoy it—that is, I like it if everything goes well; if I feel that I get the worth of the money I spend and am well dressed for every occasion, I take a great deal of pleasure, not only in the pretty clothes themselves, but still more in the complimentary remarks which I receive in consequence. But there are times when dress, with all its concomitants, seems a vanity of vanities, and the amount of time and thought expended upon it almost criminal. Then it is I long for a uniform and almost make up my mind to adopt one for the rest of my life. If you ever hear of my becoming a domestic, you may know it is not altogether from religious motives that I have joined the order, but chiefly that I may wear a uniform without being considered eccentric."

"As women grow older the enforced necessity of spending a great deal of time and money in selecting any buying their clothes grows more and more irksome, and yet if they mix with the world and go out more or less in society it seems a necessity."

Wonderful Clock Plant.

Pierre Van Landingham, Sorist at Purdue University, is the proud possessor of a plant known as the diamond green, or better known to the botanical world as the "clock plant," on account of the peculiar action of the leaves of the plant when placed in the sunlight.

He obtained the plant several years ago from the national botanical gardens in Washington. From his original plant he has developed several other, and all are now in excellent growing condition.

The clock plant, as it is familiarly known, is peculiar in many respects. It is a native of the jungles of Borneo and in its native state never exceeds three feet in height, while those in this country never come anywhere near this height, the ones at Purdue being only three inches tall. The bloom of the plant is pea in shape and lilac in color and is quite fragrant.

The name of "clock plant" is derived from the action of the stem on the leaves. The plant has three leaves, one large one in the center and two smaller ones at the base of the large one. These when acted upon by the sun oscillate like the pendulum of a clock, the large leaf making a movement forward and back and the smaller ones in the course of their oscillating motion moving toward the large leaf. The former makes one complete movement to and fro in 45 seconds. This time corresponds to the hour and minute hands of a clock. This action occurs only under the circumstances mentioned above.

IF YOU HAVE PAIN IN YOUR BACK

Do Not Be Deceived. You have Kidney Trouble, and You Do Not Need a Physician to Tell You So.

Pain in the back is an almost infallible sign of kidney disease; a sure sign is the condition of your urine. If you have a pain in the back, then look to the condition of your urine. It is easily done. Take a glass or tumbler and fill it with urine; after it has stood 24 hours, if it has a sediment, if it is milky or cloudy, if it is pale or discolored, stringy orropy, your kidneys and bladder are in a dangerous condition and need immediate attention, or the consequences may prove fatal. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the one medicine that really cures all diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation, and it will take you but a short trial to convince yourself of its wonderful curative power.

G. F. Sumner of No. 409 Toga street, Syracuse, N. Y., in a recent letter says: "I was afflicted for years with severe pains in my back and kidneys. I tried many doctors and many medicines, but got no relief. I bought a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it has entirely cured me."

It is for sale by all druggists in the Now 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose. Sample bottles—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Randolph, N. Y.

It would be quite awkward should Colonel Bryan, as some dinner function in Europe, lose sight of the personnel of the company and launch forth in one of his oldtime torrents of invective against plutocracy and capitalism.

If the Panama canal builders will now get to work and show the same energy and unflinching zeal which Senator Morgan has in opposing the project we will have cheap excursion tickets to the palm gardens of Manchuria in short order.

The Washington Post says that the president declares that he will keep his hands off the Delaware political muddle and suggests that perhaps he is going to use his foot in disposing of the case.

Great Britain was a little late in appointing a commission to visit King Mendik of Abyssinia. Our own special agent, Skinner, is already nobbling with Mr. Mendik in the interests of American merchants and anyway when it comes to the delivery of the goods the American manufacturer can beat his English cousin hands down.

Maryland terrapin is becoming extremely scarce and is only used in Washington for congressional or other dinners where very large interests need promoting. This species has been well named as "diamond backed terrapin." Some years ago it reached the stage approaching extinction when it was worth more than its weight in gold as an aid to smooth lobbyists.

It is understood that the hospitable people of Manchuria have insisted on eating Christmas dinner with those Russian guests who first insisted that they must leave for home September eighth.
