MATAMORAS.

Miss Nettie Lord was very pleasantly surprised Saturday evening by about 25 of her young friends who assembled at her home at 7.30. W. H. Allerton, the Port Jervis artist, has presented to Matamoras school a fine panoramic view of the village of Matamoras and Port Jervis.

Miss Jennie R. Ridgeway, a grand daughter of Warren Ridgeway, met with quite an accident Thursday morning as she was on her way to school. She slipped on the ice and fell, dislocating her ankle.

L. B. Eighmy, the driver of Geo. Hays, Jr.'s, bakery wagon, met with quite a serious accident on Thursday morning on his way to Milford. Just before he arrived at James Rose's place the sleigh was overturned by a high gust of wind. The sleigh was broken some, and Mr. Eighmy had a few scratches on his hands and his hip was injured a little.

Miss Jennie Ridgeway was very pleasantly surprised Monday evening at her home by a number of her young school mates calling on her. She was equal to the occasion and entertained them in fine style. Refreshments were served which was very much enjoyed by all. Various games were played. The young people left early, all wishing Jennie many more pleasant surprise parties.

Mrs. George Strait was very pleasantly surprised at her home Monday evening when about 8 o'clock 20 of her most intimate friends called to congratulate her birthday. She welcomed them in and gave them a pleasant reception. The evening in a very pleasant manner. Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a birthday surprise.

Miss Hazel Hornbeck, substitute teacher of the Matamoras school, taught the pupils in Miss Van Aken's room Monday, Miss Van Aken being absent on account of sickness. She returned to her duties Tuesday. S.

PAUPAC.

A. L. Bishop and wife and Mrs. Gilpin of Hawley spent Monday with C. E. Williams and family. He joined another phone 'box to No. 3 line, and the Williams' are now "right in it."

May and Benjamin Wilson of Philadelphia, after spending a couple of weeks with their brothers, Horace and Charles, in Chicago, arrived in this place Saturday last. They are now visiting their parents, G. W. Wilson and wife.

Mrs. C. A. Fellett, who has been visiting in Scranton, returned home Saturday.

The entertainment at the Red school house, on March 8th, is to get a library.

At the last meeting of the Eastern Stars, in Hawley, Mrs. Wilmer Hopps and Lela Clark became members.

The sick list seems to be increasing, although at present all are doing nicely.

Mrs. B. F. Killam and daughter returned from Scranton the 22nd.

SILVER LAKE

Dan Smith, who is employed near Porter's Lake, visited his mother at Centre a few days last week.

James Bensley of Lehman was here last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Harold Seeds of Philadelphia made a brief business trip here recently.

The ice on the lake is now 2 1/2 feet thick.

Abram Bradley of Coles made a trip to Camp Lauriston last Friday.

Mrs. August Merdler is recovering from a severe cold.

Maurice Young of Coles Corner called in this vicinity last week.

Thomas Whittaker and wife of Milford visited in this neighborhood recently.

John Heater has purchased a new horse.

Joseph Judd of near Coles had the misfortune to cut his foot recently, and had to have five stitches taken in the wound.

KIMBLES

Louisa Dodan of Lackawaxen returned home Monday after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. George Daniels.

Mabel Schink and Carrie Peison of Hawley were guests of Elizabeth Oakins Sunday.

Katie Kerkendall returned home last week Saturday after spending two months with Scranton friends.

R. W. Kelly filled his ice house last week with ice twenty-two inches thick.

E. S. Jones of Beranton with his paymaster was in town last week Wednesday to pay off his employees for January, the pay roll amounted to 2,900 dollars.

Spring Humors

Come to most people and cause many troubles,—pimples, boils and other eruptions, besides loss of appetite, that tired feeling, fits of biliousness, indigestion and headache.

The sooner one gets rid of them the better, and the way to get rid of them and to build up the system that has suffered from them is to take

SANDYSTON.

Thomas R. Clark, who went to California sometime ago, has returned to Jersey. Tom has seen a good deal of the Pacific slope and speaks in glowing terms of that country, but prefers Jersey every time.

In the rustle at the dance at Layton, a Pike county youth lost his watch. His coat was found in one place, his vest in another and his watch 20 feet from either garment. The watch was handed to me to be properly identified and the owner may receive his property.

A petition has been liberally signed and forwarded to the Court of Pardons asking the parole of Andy Conklin from prison. The petition was sent on Wednesday last.

Miss Cora Belle Shay, formerly a resident of this town, but lately of Monroe, N. J., was married to Chas. Luck of that place on February 21st. As her teacher at one time I extend congratulations.

The Sussex County Historical Society is now an established fact. On Friday last, at the meeting, officers were elected and a constitution and bylaws adopted. There are many historical facts connected with the county's history, and these will be compiled and preserved.

Mrs. Edna Day of Montague has been engaged to teach the Layton school the balance of the school year. She began her work this Monday morning. The school has had no teacher for the past month or more.

Daniel O. Hunterdon, the mail carrier from Layton to Flatbrookville, is fragile and feeble yet. "Danny" has stood the recent severe cold and storms almost as well as a more robust man. He reaches Layton at 8.30 a. m. every morning, varying only a very few minutes at any time.

Fred Layton, son of Wm. Layton, of Bovans, while at Hainesville on Friday fell breaking his collar bone. He is doing as well as can be expected.

Bert Dalrymple is investing in a fine lot of goats, and now has on his place near Tuttle's Corner about sixty of those frisky animals. I understand that J. J. Van Sickle will stock one of his farms with those animals this spring.

The prospect of having an exhibition at Layton is being talked over. If those talking it don't get a move on pretty soon there won't be any exhibition.

Town meeting matters are getting much warmer than they were last week. While it may be somewhat exciting, the voter should not lose sight of the fact that only taxpayers should hold any town office from poor master on up.

The chicken pie supper held in the M. E. church, at Layton on the 23rd was not largely attended. It is getting rather late in the season for those things.

Prospective buyers should not forget the R. T. Layton vendue on the 9th of March, as it will be the biggest sale held in this valley in years.

John J. Van Sickle returned to Jersey on Sunday evening, and will remain here a few days before going back to Ohio.

John B. Rosenkrans, our miller, is in receipt of a car load of corn, and will be able to supply his patrons in the line of feed stuff.

Veracious Account of the Artist and the Dairy Maid.

"A! What have we here?"

"It is in the United States and rising as a farm scene in New Jersey. The grass sparkles with dew, the songs of the lark gladden the heart, and the cows in the baryard chew their cud in peace as they wait for the dairy maid to appear with her pail."

"Is that the dairy maid tripping lightly down the path toward the barn?"

"Oh, no. That is an artist from New York, who has arranged to spend two weeks on the farm to study animal life according to nature. He is going to paint a picture with seven or eight cows in it, and he will call it 'The Morning Milk-Stock or, How We Worked the Racket on the Innocent Cows.' It has been his ambition for years, but he just got around to it."

"But why does he carry a pail and a stool?"

"Oh! he's going to begin on the ground floor and work his way up. He never milked a cow, but always thought it would be so romantic. He will carefully study the hind legs of Bessy as he fills the pail. If any critic gives him a roasting on his painted cows he can get back at him by saying he has milked a cow and ought to know which way her legs cross."

"He seems undecided which cow to begin on."

"He's studying attitudes and wishing he had his sketch book at hand. There is far more grace in a cow than he ever dreamed of. Now he approaches a cow and takes a graceful position on the milk stool. The cow looks at him queerly, as you will observe, but that's because she's farrow and being fattened for market. It's about a year since any one sat down within reach of her hoof."

"I can no longer see the artist, for the cloud of dust. Is he still there?"

"Oh, no. He left ten minutes ago and brought up against the old wagon box under the shed. He has a corn cultivator down the back of his neck, an old fanning mill flung into his ear, and his legs are tangled up with a patent drag and a potato planter. The kick won't kill him though. He will continue lying there until fully rested, and then go to the house to arrange his canvas."

"Will he ever be a bilious and happy artist again?"

"Oh, yes, but not in the cow line. He will probably turn to moles or hogs and give cows the go-by, and in due time he will be able to get the porous planters off his back and call up nerve enough to approach a cow within half a mile without being stuck in the knees."—Detroit Free Press.

Our Friend the Pirate.

The pirate laughed gleefully as he hoisted the Jolly Roger. "What ha! ha!" he exulted.

"What's the matter?" he nervously inquired, wondering meanwhile whether he had just hatched some fiendish and diabolical plot regarding our immediate future.

"Ha! ha! ha!" he repeated. "Mabe he's an Englishman and has just seen the point of a joke that he heard on his last cruise, muttered James. (James would crack Old Nick himself over the pate with a joke.)

"Ha! ha! ha!" the pirate continued. "What is it?" we begged.

"See that Jolly Roger?" inquired the pirate. "That belongs to my mother-in-law. It's (ha! ha!) her petticoat. And she can't come out of her cabin till the cruise is over because it's the only one she has on board."

Whereupon we all laughed boisterously. Although we noticed that our friend the pirate blanched fearfully whenever he chanced to hear the outraged cries of the old lady rising shrilly above the pealing ebullitions of our mirth.
