Wyckoff's New York Store Weekly News BIDDING FOR YOUR BUSINESS

This store makes its bid for your business in a plain, common sense, straightforward manner. It doesn't offer you good, reliable merchandise at the beginning of a new season at half what it costs to produce that merchandise...

AS TO STYLISH OUTER GARMENTS, LISTEN

This store is justly proud of its garment showing. Suits, jackets, skirts, the cream of the best makers' products, are here; and you don't pay a fancy price for them, either.

MEDIUM WEIGHT UNDERWEAR FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Its time for it, and you'll find all of our offerings pregnant with economic interest. Advance in the price of cotton does not figure in these purchases, bought before the raise.

RAINY SEASON NOW. HERE ARE UMBRELLAS AND MACKINTOSHES

April and May are more or less teary in their character. It brings the umbrella and mackintosh into requisition. Our umbrella stock is in the very best of shape to meet your demands.

NEW COLLARS, CUFFS AND ECLIPSE SHIRTS ARE READY

Little or no change is to be noticed in collars and cuffs this season but the newest are here. Neckwear, whether it be a four-in-hand, string bow or neck, was never prettier, never priced more to your liking.

THE ERIE CONTRIBUTES

Mr. D. W. Cooke, General Passenger Agent of the Erie, who was called on recently by an executive committee representing the Business Men's Association of this section, with regard to aiding in advertising the resorts hereabouts, has manifested the very gratifying assurance that his company will contribute $400 to the scheme.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to William M. Travis of Montague, N. J., and Sarah Elizabeth Hubbard of Dingman township. It is reported that the ceremony will take place next Sunday afternoon at the Union school house at the close of services.

An "Ex." that is what the Dispatch calls us, when it appropriates a particularly interesting item without giving credit, contains a letter to us concerning the merits of a brand of patent paint. We have tried it and if any one wishes to know our opinion of its merits they can have it p. d. q. by inquiry.

To Consider the Pew Question

A meeting of the Presbyterian congregation will be held in the lecture room Monday evening, May 21, at 7:30 o'clock to consider the question of seating the audience room with pews. For many years chairs have been used, and, though reasonably comfortable, they are not fully in accord with the popular idea as to how a church should be furnished.

The Black Knight

We understand that arrangements are partially completed to have Rev. J. H. Hector, the noted colored temperance reform speaker in Milford, May 11th. Mr. Hector is a full blooded negro of fine physique, who fought in the Civil War and was five times wounded. He is known throughout the United States and England as the Black Knight of the moral reform forces; to his remarkable natural ability he has added a self education that enables him to compel the admiration of the largest audiences. Mr. Hector is accompanied in all his meetings by the famous contralto of the Old Fisk Jubilee Singers, Madame Abba Wright Lyons, and Milford people will be fortunate in an opportunity to hear them.

OBITUARY

RAMUEL COLE Samuel Cole, mention of whose serious illness was made in last week's Press, died at his home in Dunmore, Tuesday, April 19th, of paralysis. He was born in Sussex Co., N. J., about 56 years ago, but for many years resided on a farm in Delaware township, this county. He married Sarah, a daughter of the late Henry Beardsley, and about sixteen years ago moved to Dunmore.

His wife and two sons, Percy of Honesdale and Harry of Dunmore, survive him. The Kansas City Journal is authority for the statement that the New York Sun has figured out that the democrats may carry the county this year providing only they can get enough votes.

Ex-County Treasurer G. F. Rowland is in town today.

William Hineline, an aged resident of Lehman township, died Tuesday.

Rev. E. M. Smead has been appointed representative to the Presbyterian General Assembly which meets in Buffalo in May.

The Grand Jury of Wayne county found a true bill against John Stoltz, Wednesday. He is accused of the murder of Mary O'Keefe at Hawley, March 4th.

The New York state court of appeals has fixed the week beginning June 13 for the execution of Albert Koopling for the murder of John Martine.

Miss McCormick, for some time Western Union operator here, has been transferred to Port Jervis, and Miss Sallie Matine now has charge of the office.

Considerable of the iron for the New York end of the Barret bridge, has arrived in Port Jervis and the work of erecting it will begin Monday morning.

J. C. Chamberlain, who for some time was confined to his house with rheumatism, is able to be in his office and his estimable wife who was also a sufferer is much improved.

Frank McNamara, who it will be recalled, shot and instantly killed George R. Jennings, in the office of the Adjustable Shade Company in Brooklyn, has pleaded guilty of murder and will be sentenced to Sing Sing for life.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to William M. Travis of Montague, N. J., and Sarah Elizabeth Hubbard of Dingman township. It is reported that the ceremony will take place next Sunday afternoon at the Union school house at the close of services.

Reformed Church Notes.

(By Rev. A. J. Meyer of Montague.) Sunday school next Sabbath at 9:30, preaching service at 10:30.

The Dorcas Society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss May Bevans.

The Ladies Aid society meets next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Armstrong, and the Willing Workers society will hold their regular monthly session next Friday evening.

The pastor goes as delegate to Particular Synod at Claverack, N. Y., May 3-4.

An entertainment will be given next Thursday evening, May 5, at 8 o'clock. Vocal and instrumental music will be rendered and a clever play will be given by local talent.

Miss Maud Flintoff, who has a splendid reputation as an electionist, will route. The proceeds are for the benefit of the church. Admission price to be paid at the door. A cordial invitation is extended to all and a delightful time is promised all who attend.

Congress has decided to investigate the condition of the natives in the Congo country.

It is to be hoped that the scrutiny will be more thorough than that of the committee which investigated the Arizones and New Mexican countries with a view to determining their suitability for statehood.

Mr. Bryan continues to annoy and embarrass real democrats. "What is a dollar good for," he asked in Kansas City the other day. The gold democrat would like to forget these unpleasant little references to sound money but they are compelled to answer that a dollar is worth probably something more than double what it would have been if Mr. Bryan's iam had prevailed.

Although Judge Parker has said nothing it is affirmed, upon credible authority that he believes that Mr. Bryan will be "amenable to reason." This being the case we are inclined to suspend judgment as to whether the Judge would make a safe President. Any one with such a superabundance of faith in human nature might loan the Treasury surplus to Central American republics.

If the recommendations of some members of Congress are followed, old clerks who have served the government the best years of their lives will, like old horses which are worn out from work, be turned out of office when reaching the age of seventy, and even then without regard to whether they are, from their long experience, of value to the government or not.

Russia is objecting to the use of the wireless telegraph by the correspondents. The basis of news reports has been entirely too one sided. Should she be able to win a few notable victories she would doubtless be quite willing to extend the fullest facilities to wireless telegraphy and any and all other methods of transmitting news.

Col. Gaffey and his democratic friends at Harrisburg the other day took the customary fall out of the tariff and gravely announced that that hydro-headed monster was the mother of the trusts. Of course, Col. Gaffey does not claim probably, to his friends, that this is anything more than guff but it is nevertheless amusing to hear this statement at periodical intervals from a state like Pennsylvania, a hive of manufacturing industry and a center of enormous wealth due to a protective tariff.

If you want folders for leap year parties or dances, The Press has handsome ones at an easy price. Just remember we do any kind of printing from a large post card to a beautifully engraved card, and at reasonable rates. Will be glad to have orders for venue bills.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

THE LATE YELLOW HAMMER.

He Was Remarkable for His Industry and Indefatigable Energy. Recently the Journal gave an account of the death of Yellow Hammer, one of the few remaining Modoc Indians, who was killed by lightning while riding in his wagon along a street in Oswego. The following unique biography, or obituary, of Yellow Hammer is given by the Baxter Springs News:

"Yellow Hammer was a good Indian before he died and was one of the features of the big Baxter reunion, where he annually gathered the remnant of his tribe and held the familiar war dances of his people in a big Cogler tent to the admiration and enjoyment of thousands of visitors.

"Yellow Hammer was of royal blood, being a younger brother of Shach-Nasty Jim and first cousin to Princess Mary. When he was brought here from the lava beds of Oregon, after his tribe had been almost exterminated in their war with the United States, Yellow Hammer soon became reconciled to civilization, threw off his blanket and feathers, and took up the white man's burden with store clothes, a plug hat and a white woman for a wife. He joined the Quakers at first, but said they were not quick enough for him, and so he went into farming and horse trading, with an occasional venture in the Wild West show business.

"The deceased married a white woman of good family and was an affectionate father, a kind and indulgent husband, a fair Christian, a good medicine man and a moderate drinker. In appearance he resembled Paderewski, and like him was quite efficient on the Indian drum or tom-tom. He was always pleasant, affable, cheerful, and a great favorite with the children; he was remarkable for his industry and indefatigable energy, always willing to work, and never borrowing or asking a dollar in charity. He set an example many others might follow, and will be missed by his nation more than any other man in it."

Why She Was Frosty.

A young gentleman whose gallantry was largely in excess of his pecuniary means sought to remedy this defect and save the money required for the purchase of expensive flowers by arranging with a gardener to let him have a bouquet from time to time in return for his cast-off clothes.

It thus happened one day that he received a bunch of the most beautiful roses, which he at once sent off to his lady love. In sure anticipation of a friendly welcome, he called at the house of the lady the same evening, and was not a little surprised at the frosty reception he met with.

"You sent me a note to-day," the young lady remarked, after a pause, in the most frigid tones.

"I—a note," he inquired, in blank astonishment.

"Certainly, along with some roses."

"To be sure I sent you some roses."

"And there was a note inside—do you still mean to deny it?"

With these words she handed the dumfounded swain a scrap of paper, on which the following words were written: "Don't forget the old trousers you promised me the other day."

Are You on the Bench Now?

A worthy shoemaker had acquired quite a good property and retired from his useful employment. From his dignified and judicial demeanor he had gained among his friends the title of "Judge."

"Once an eminent stranger was visiting the town, and the citizens were making an effort to show off the place and give a reception to the visitor. The "Judge" was on the committee of entertainment. The stranger, hearing him called "Judge," thought to do a graceful thing by asking: "Judge, are you on the bench now?"

The "Judge" turned on him a good-natured face and replied: "Why, bless you, I haven't waxed a thread for twenty years!"
