It is the concealed truth, or the half truth, which often works more harm than the bare fact. An article in the Dispatch in a recent issue enumerating the offices captured by the republicans in Milford Borough, the democrats lost all but collector, and the article is being copied in near by papers. One would think from reading it that the democrats won out on that office, when the fact is they did nothing of the kind. The republicans, who held their caucus before the democrats held theirs, nominated J. F. Terwilliger, democrat, for tax collector, because he makes a good collector and the republicans were not so imbued with partisanship as to be blind to the best interests of the town. The democrats at their caucuses endorsed the nomination, hence he was the only candidate, but he knows full well clean down to the bottom of his boots that had the republicans put up another man he would have gone the way the rest of his ticket, and probably by a large majority. We only cite the above unimportant matter to show that a frank statement of the facts would be more to the credit of the Dispatch, than the attempted effort to show that the democrats carried something in to them.

At the election, in Port Jervis Tuesday the three propositions to buy a building for municipal purposes to pave and oil the streets were carried by large majorities. The voters declared good sense in this effort to improve conditions needed in that city.

The new trolley company in Port Jervis has asked for a franchise to run lines thru the streets of the city. It is proposed to build a tunnel under the Erie at Fowler street, come up King to Pike and then to the Barret bridge. It would seem that a less expensive and more satisfactory way out of Port Jervis would be to go down East Main to Tri States and come down on the Jersey side, crossing the river at some point between there and Milford or even to cross the bridge here. The distance would be little more and the road would run thru a section which would afford considerable traffic.

The Foker Only.
 An old Scottish lady was being closely cross-examined in court regarding a case of assault, in which her husband was alleged to have played a conspicuous part.
 "And now, my good woman, tell the court what sort of weapon it was your husband struck you with."
 "Who said he used a weapon?"
 "You said so yourself when you gave your husband in charge," answered the astonished lawyer.
 "I said one six using, for the thing that our John struck me on the head with was something more or less than the poker." At this the laughter had subsided the lawyer tried to show her that it was not always well to call a spade a spade. "Well, yes," answered the old lady, "ye may ca a spade what ye like, but I maintain, tae my deuch's day that our John struck me wi' the poker, an' wi' naught else." The old lady gained her point.

Not That Color.
 Willie lost his pet dog and was much distressed. He spent his time searching for it, and so often did he run into the house crying, "Come quick! there's Fido! I saw him!" the family grew somewhat dubious. One day Willie rushed in more excited than usual. "Mama, mama!" he cried, "I've seen Fido! I've seen Fido!"
 "Oh, no, I guess not," replied the patient mother. "It must have been your imagination."
 Willie looked at her, much aggrieved. "Well," he said, indignantly, "I guess my imagination isn't white behind."

A Sure-Enough Knocker.
 J. A. Harmon, of Ligonora, West Va., says: "At last I have found the perfect pill that never disappoints me; and for the benefit of others afflicted with torpid liver and chronic constipation, will say: take Dr King's New Life Pills." Guaranteed satisfactory. 25c at C. O. Armstrong Druggist.

Fannie Tornis, Nellie Hanners and Willard French of Matamoras won scholarships in the Gazette contest. Evelyn Hotalen of Milford was 18th in the list. We regret that she did not capture one of the prizes for she is a very deserving young lady.

The stations at Shohola and Parkers Glen were entered by burglars on Wednesday night. At Shohola they got about $20, some cigars and a coat.

Some Uses of Hot Water.
 Hot water is far more of a medicinal property than many believe or know. The uses of hot water are many. There is nothing that so promptly cuts short congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism as hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly. Headache almost always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and back of the neck. A strip of flannel or napkin folded lengthwise and dipped in hot water, wrung out and then applied round the neck of a child that has the croup, will bring relief sometimes in ten minutes. Hot water taken freely half an hour before bedtime is helpful in the case of constipation, while it has a most soothing effect upon the stomach and bowels. A goblet of hot water taken just after rising, before breakfast, has cured many cases of indigestion, and is widely recommended by physicians to dyspeptics.

The Much-Used Kitchen Table.
 My zinc covered kitchen table is such a convenience to me that I want to describe it for the benefit of other workers. It is so simple that any one can duplicate it at small expense.

Take any ordinary table and carefully cover the surface with sheet zinc, being careful to smoothly adjust the edges. These should be turned under and securely tacked down. It is best to have the hardware man do the work, unless there is a "handy man about the house" who knows how to use a hammer with judgment and precision. Once accomplished, you will wonder how you ever got on without your zinc table. It is so easily cleaned I wash mine daily with soap and occasionally with a cloth dipped in kerosene to keep it polished. Hot dishes can be placed upon it with never a thought of their burning through and spoiling the usual oil-cloth. It is a sanitary table, too, for it is so scrupulously clean.

Try These Useful Hints.
 Burn dried orange peel throughout the house frequently, it purifies the atmosphere, dispels any musty odors and leaves a dainty fragrance that nothing can surpass.
 White clothes that have become yellow from age may be restored by soaking in butter-milk for several days, changing the milk each day.
 Never pour sugar over the whites of eggs while beating them, but add from the side of the platter, a little at the time, in order not to break the air cells.
 An excellent remedy for sore throat is pineapple syrup, taken a teaspoonful at the time.
 If a painful of lime is kept in the closet with preserves and jellies, it will prevent them from moulding.
 Salt water will clean bamboo furniture, Chinese and Indian furnishings and will prevent it from turning yellow.

For Sweeping and Dusting.
 Remove chairs and all other movable articles out of the room. Pour a little household ammonia into a basin of water; take an old newspaper and crumple in water; scatter the wet paper over carpet, then begin to sweep. The wet paper collects the dust.
 If you have a carpet sweeper, use sweeper first, then use broom. Carpet swept in this way have a nice clean look.
 Dust piano, table tops, etc., with an old piece of velvet; the dust clings to the nap. For other articles use cheesecloth, as it is soft and nice. When dusted in this way there is no lint.

A Little Previous.
 A gypsy, upon release from jail, met a friend.
 "What were you in for," asked the friend.
 "I found a horse."
 "Found a horse? nonsense! They wouldn't let you see for finding a horse."
 "Well, but you see I found him before the other lot: him."

Southern Critic Much Impressed by Shakespeare's Blackamoors.
 One of the most candid tributes that the Edwin Booth ever received was rendered to him on his last Southern tour by one who knew neither of his presence nor of his identity in his play. Mr. Booth told the story to his friend Dr. John M. Girdner.
 "We opened our engagement in Atlanta Ga. with 'Othello,'" said Mr. Booth, "and I played Othello. After the performance my friend, Mr. Malone, and I went to the Kimball House for some refreshment. The lounge was so crowded that we had to go around the corner of it before we could find a vacant space. While we were waiting to be served we couldn't help hearing the conversation of two fine looking old boys, splendid old fellows with soft hats, flowing mustaches and chin tufts, black string ties and all the other paraphernalia.
 "I didn't see you at the theatre this evening, Cunnel," said one.
 "No," replied the other, "I didn't help seats till this mornin', and the best we could get were six rows back in the balcony. I presume, sah, you were in the orchestra."
 "Yes, Cunnel, I was in the orchestra, and she first man. Madame and the girls were with me. We all agreed that we never attended a mo' thrilling play. The company was good, too, an excellent company. And do you know, Cunnel, in my opinion that blamed steguh did about as well as any of 'em!"

One Way of Looking at It.
 During their recent political campaign, the job of a certain United States Senator, was running for office. Naturally he was not so well known as his father. Consequently his friends very often had to appeal to the popularity of the father.
 "I do not know the candidate," said an old farmer, who was appealed to by his son.
 "But you know the father?"
 "Yes; I know him, and he's a grand man."
 "Then you will surely vote for his son won't you?"
 But the Scotch farmer was still doubtful, "I'm no' so sure about that," he replied; "it's no' every coo that has a can't like herse!"

UNHABITUAL HABIT.
 Mrs. Regis—Shure, a disrop, now an' thin, is a comfort; but Mrs. Hinessey, arn't ye afraid ye'll get th' habit?
 Mrs. Hinessey—Niver a bit! Me, could man's been drinkin' at steady these forty years past an' he's never got th' habit!
