French "Tommy's" and Their Bread.
 The little loaves of bread supplied to the French soldier have from time immemorial been known by the name of "boudes de son" (literally "bran balls"). Their origin dates back to the First Republic. In the Middle Ages the French "Tommy Atkins" received no rations, and had to depend on what he could get from the enemy. At a later date a commissariat department was created, and the soldier was allowed two loaves, of twelve ounces, per diem. In 1790 the troops received free rations of bread without any deduction from their pay. This bread contained a little flour, but bran predominated—hence the name, "bran balls." In 1870 it was decided to supply bread made of flour only, but the loaves continued to retain their old name. Now the "boudes de son" is about to disappear absolutely, and the "braves soldats" will henceforth have bread lighter and more nourishing than hitherto.

A Busy Joy.
 The diminutive office boy had worked hard on a "salary" of three dollars a week. He was a subdued little chap, faithful and quiet. Finally, however, he plucked up courage enough to ask for an increase. A writer in the Kansas City Star tells the tale.
 "How much more would you like?" inquired his employer.
 "Well," answered the lad, "I don't think that two dollars more a week would be too much."
 "You are a rather small boy to be earning five dollars a week."
 "I suppose I am," he replied. "I know I'm small for my age, but to tell the truth, since I've worked here I've been so busy I haven't had time to grow."
 He got the "raise."

Don't Snub Children.
 Children love to be treated with courtesy and respect. They resent having their opinions and sentiments snubbed, and parents might learn a good deal from them and about them if they would encourage them to talk more freely of all they think and feel. We are hardened by the gathering years, and we have lost our keenest sense of what is the very truest and the very best. The contact of a child's mind with its pure vision is straight from God.

Freddy's Point of View.
 There was company to dinner, and the son and heir listened to the conversation. During the meal an animated discussion arose regarding the feeling between the North and South, and the minister said: "The time is coming, not far off, when there will be no North, South, East, nor West, and"—"Won't that be splendid?" interrupted little Freddy. "Why, what makes you think that?" "It wouldn't be hard a bit to study geography!"

Sized Temperature of Athletes.
 Professor Flack of the London College Hospital, records some curious observations on the blood temperature of runners. The normal blood temperature in man is about 98.1 degrees Fahrenheit. A young man, after a run of 200 yards, showed a temperature of 100.78 degrees; another a temperature of 100.34 degrees; a third a temperature of 102.5 degrees after a run of half a mile. A mile run produced an internal temperature of 102.8 degrees with one athlete and 102.6 degrees with another. After a three-mile run one young man had a temperature of 105 degrees. But this runner's normal blood temperature was 101 degrees, although he was in perfect health.
