Easton has been dropped from the Atlantic League, one reason given being that the attendance at that town was poor. It is alleged however that it was because of base ball politics to keep other clubs ahead. This only verifies what we said last week about the game becoming more or less a speculation of the managers or owners of the teams.

Some newspapers which cried out a couple of years ago that the New Capitol grafters would not be punished, that powerful political influence would protect them, and that the republican party could not follow convictions of any of its prominent officials, should now be frank enough to admit that their predictions were dictated by malice rather than good sense. The grafters have been prosecuted, convicted and they will be punished and newspapers which sought to make capital out of the steel stand rebuked.

The Three Ages of Man.

Report by a young English school-girl of a lecture on "Phases of Human Life—Youth, Manhood, and Age": "In youth we look forward to the wicked things we will do when we grow up—this is the state of innocence. In manhood we do the wicked things of which we thought in our youth—this is the prime of life. In old age we are sorry for the wicked things we did in manhood—this is the time of our dotage."—Christian Register.

Taming the Automobile.

A bright but inexperienced young woman consented to take charge of the boy infant class. She found them jumping from the tops of the steam radiators. Fifteen minutes later the superintendent found fourteen meek masculine "infants" seated sedately in a tightly squeezed room before the teacher, every eye fixed intently on the lady's bright countenance. "How in the world did you accomplish this?" demanded the astonished superintendent. "Oh," she replied, "I just piled all I couldn't get my arms round in a heap on the bench and sat on them until I got them interested in a bear story."—Youth's Companion.

The Williams Family

A. D. Williams of Scranton is making a brief visit here with his cousin Mrs. A. Mottler and yesterday they went over to Beaufort to see the old homestead.

Mr. Williams is President of the Williams family association of the Lackawanna valley, and is interested to learn who was the father of John Williams. The family originally came from Connecticut to New Jersey, but after a short residence there one, the father of John, went to Cohecton, N. Y. with his family, in an Indian raid he was killed and the mother started with two young daughters and her son John, only 9 days old, to go back to New Jersey. She was some three weeks reaching the Minnieka and went over to near Sussex, N. J. There her son John grew up and married a Miss Rutan. It is this branch in which Mr. Williams is interested.

Mathematics Versus Poetry.

Some men are so practical that it is utterly impossible for them to take in even the barest idea of poetical expression. They are like people who look at all beautiful things with eyes that seek only for what use may be made of them. It is said that a young professor of mathematics in one of our universities once boasted to a friend that he neither knew nor cared to know anything about poetry, for it was "all a lot of unpractical rot." His friend thought he might feel differently if he read some stirring poem by one of the greater writers, and gave him Tennyson's "Charge of the Light Brigade" as a test. The mathematician took up the volume and read thus:

Half a league, half a league, half a league onward.
Then he banged the book down on the table, snorting, "Bah! if the man meant a league and a half, why didn't he say so!"

Birds That Deceive.

"All birds are not so innocent as they would seem," says a naturalist. "Take, for instance, the goose. Most people have heard a goose hiss when threatened by danger. Well, that is a trick on the bird's part. In past ages when the mother goose was sitting on her nest among the reeds, she somehow learned that this action made her head and neck simulate a snake. So it formed a fine defense.

"The lawing is another deceiver. If you approach her nest, she will set up a dismal outcry and run backward and forward, trailing one wing on the ground, as though it were broken, thinking to pick her up, you follow. Thus she lures you away from her young.

"In times of drought the thrush acts a lie. He will beat upon the ground with his claws like a dancer. By this he makes the earthworms think it is raining. Up they come, and then the wily thrush dines luxuriously."—Lion and Ass.

MORE Milk from cows!
Work from horses!
Protect your stock from flies and you'll make more money.
Animals that are pestered by flies simply cannot properly digest their food.
Why spend money buying special feed and then let the flies rob you of your profit? Shoo-Fly kills every fly it strikes.
Free your stock from flies by spraying them with SHOO-FLY and they'll take on flesh immediately. Your cows will give one-third more milk and your horses will do more and better work.
Protect your stock and get the profit that belongs to you by spraying them with
Shoo Fly The Animals Friend
It will keep off flies and all other insects longer and more effectively than any insecticide. Animals tire themselves and injure flesh, head and joints more by stamping than they do by work. Half a cow's worth covers three acres of milk a day. One gallon protects 3 animals a whole season. Saves its cost immediately. A trial will convince you.
Cures all sores. Dries it quicker and avoids infection by keeping off flies. Heals flies from the bottom with practically no scab. Shoo-Fly better for goats. Previous labeling. Used and recommended by leading veterinarians and dairymen since 1871.
Poultrymen everywhere find it invaluable for killing all lice and mites in poultry houses. Come in and let us tell you all about this excellent preparation. We know from actual experience what it will do. You can't afford to be without it.
