C. B. Stikney, editor of the Wantage Recorder, is publishing a series of historical articles in his paper and the last one is devoted to William Rankin, a celebrated educator, who died at Mendham, N. J. in 1876. The paper says he was born in 1776, but of course that is misprint. After teaching in Deckertown for a number of years he went to Chester N. J. The historian does not relate if he knows, one of the main reasons assigned by Mr. Rankin for his removal.

A recent issue of a Port Jervis paper under large head line of a pathetic case relates how an old man who was on his way to his daughter's home at Middletown was put off the cars at Port Jervis because he had no ticket. The paper says "his case was pathetic," and an effort was made to raise money to buy him a ticket to his destination," fare probably 65 cents, "but it did not succeed," and the old man set out to walk the 17 miles. It is somewhat necessary, or is this so characteristic of Port Jervis that the paper does not see any satire in publishing the facts.

It is understood that outside parties are buying up stock of the Matamoras Water Company, and will put in a plant to supply that Borough. Matamoras citizens should own their own company. It is a mistake to allow foreigners to control what is essential to the welfare of the citizen and water stock is generally a gilt edge investment. Especially would it be so in a growing place like Matamoras.

Delaware Notes
A fair this week held at Center district in Delaware was most successful. The liberal patronage of people from Ohio, Michigan and other sections swelled the net proceeds to $50.64. With private subscriptions this more than pays the district's share of salary.

The manager of the Broadhead farm gathered last year 100 loads of hay and this but 40 showing the falling off in the crops generally in this section.

Reil Garris and wife of Oxford N. J. are the guests of Howard Garris and wife of Bushkill.

Miss White, as a Prussian Countess, won't have to return to the United States when her father, Henry White, so many years in the diplomatic service of his country, comes home.

Beautiful Muriel White.

Good Fortune of the Daughter of American Ambassador to France. Just because the father of the bride-to-be was soon to retire from his post as United States Ambassador to France didn't interfere in the least with the wedding plans of Miss Muriel White and Count Herrmann Scherr-Thoss, officer in the Royal Prussian Outrigger.

Notes and Comment
Of Interest to Women Readers

BEAUTIFUL MURIEL WHITE.

All Europe realizes the good fortune of Miss Muriel White. She became allied to one of the most distinguished families in Europe, possessed of estates so large that in comparison her father's money appears but a drop in the bucket. As for a match for money or title—it is not to be considered.

Joan of Arc Beatified.

In St. Peter's, Rome, the Beatification of the Maid of Orleans has taken place and Canonization will follow. The French heroine's character emerged triumphant and spotless from the crucible of Merciless examination of the Roman Catholic authorities.

Mixed Paragraphs.
A small boy, writing a composition on Quakers, wound up by saying that the "Quakers never quarrel never got into a fight, never claw each other, and never jaw back." He added: "Pa is a Quaker, but I really don't think ma can be."

MORE Milk from cows!
Work from horses!

Protect your stock from flies and you'll make more money. Animals that are pestered by flies simply cannot properly digest their food. Why spend money buying special food and then let the flies rob you of your profit? Shoo-Fly kills every fly it strikes.

Free your stock from flies by spraying them with SHOO-FLY and they'll take on flesh immediately. Your cows will give one-third more milk and your horses will do more and better work.

Protect your stock and get the profit that belongs to you by spraying them with

Shoo Fly The Animals Friend

F. J. HERBST

It will keep off flies and all other insects longer and more effectively than any other. Animals die themselves and injure limb, hoof and muscle more by stamping than they do by work. Half a cent's worth saves three quarters of a day. One gallon protects a animal a whole season. Saves its cost immediately. A trial will convince you.

Cures all sores. Does it quicker and avoids infection by keeping off flies. Heals from the bottom with practically no work. Nothing better for galls. Prevents itching. Used and recommended by leading veterinarians and dairymen since 1889.

Poultrymen everywhere find it invaluable for killing all lice and mites in poultry houses. Come in and let us tell you all about this excellent preparation. We know from actual experience what it will do. You can't afford to be without it.

Knows a Had Egg.
Nat Goodwin was examining a canvas at an art exhibit in Boston the other day, when the painter of the picture approached him and said: "You seem to like that picture?" "Like it," answered Goodwin; "the man who would perpetrate a thing like that ought to get six months." This was too much for the artist. "Why, what do you know about painting?" he exclaimed; "you're only an actor. How can you know a bad picture. You never paint one." "No," drawled Goodwin; "that's true enough. But I know; had egg when I run across it, and would you believe it, I never let one, either."

The Toad in the Rock.
Of late days I have noted, says a recent writer, a considerable number of reports of cases of the occurrence of live frogs and toads in what were alleged to be solid rocks. This is, of course, an old, old story that appears to possess perennial powers (like the toad) of revivification. I had thought that Dean Buckland (father of the general Frank) had exploded the toad in the rock myth once for all. The Dean inclosed toads and frogs in cellulose in blocks of stone, and buried them three feet deep in his garden. Here the conditions were even less rigorous than those under which the amphibians are reported to survive for ages in the "solid rock." Dean Buckland's toads were nearly all dead by the end of the first year of entombment, and none survived the second year.

Butterfly Jewels.
There is a new way of wearing jewelry which affords delight to the young woman who likes to be an embodiment of glitter and scintillation. This method is called the butterfly coil. The basis is a structure of puffs and coils arranged in the manner becoming to the pretty face beneath it. Scattered over it is a swarm of jeweled butterflies. There are a hundred different ways of arranging gorgeous insects, almost any of them likely to be becoming. The aim is to secure as brilliant effect as possible. The general feeling in regard to this fashion seems to be that the larger the butterflies the better, but when they are made of very rare jewels their possessor is usually content to have them of moderate size.

The most exquisite of these ornaments are made of diamonds finely set in the butterfly's head, the markings upon the delicate wings being formed by brilliant rubies, emeralds, and sapphires. Now and then, however, there is a butterfly whose beauty is dependent upon less costly gems. A specimen whose counterpart may be seen any summer's day, poised on some delicate garden flower, is made of clear yellow topaz. Black pearls are set at intervals along the wings.

Almost as Good.
Little Ike came up to his father with a very solemn face.
"Is it true, father," he asked, "that marriage is a failure?"
His father surveyed him thoughtfully for a moment.
"Well, Ike," he finally replied, "if you get a rich wife it's almost as good as a failure."

Very Singular.
"That second speaker was a very singular man."
"There was nothing in his appearance to indicate singularity."
"But didn't you notice that when he got up he didn't say the toast-master's introductory remarks reminded him of a story?"
