James P. Van Etten has taken ground on his lots on Hartford Street for the erection of a concrete block house.

Henry Bradford of Parker's Glen was in town yesterday.

The use of motor vehicles for commercial purposes is being increasing in Europe, and it is predicted that in a short time they will almost entirely supersede horses for such purposes.

Rev. C. A. White and family returned from their vacation today. Mrs. White is much improved in health. Mr. White will occupy his pulpit Sunday.

David Newman of Pond Eddy visited relatives in town this week.

Wallace Newman, who has been very ill for some time, is somewhat improved.

The auto tags for 1910 will be blue enamel bearing the State name, year and number in white letters. License are raised according to the horse power of the machine, and drivers will have to buy badges costing $2 each. Those under 18 years running machines must obtain certificates.

The United States Steel Corporation will invest ten million dollars in buying up the nine breweries in Fayette County so as to control the sale of beer in bulk to co-workers.

The corporation claims that its work is greatly benefited with and it suffers much loss by reason of the work men being able to buy beer in large quantities.

A cross in the party square does not vote the Amendment. To do that you must mark in the square opposite each one.

John Berkebine, Chairman of the Water Supply Commission, and Farley Garrett, State Engineer, accompanied by Hon. Alfred Marvin visited Cave Bank this week. They also inspected the dike at Matamoras.

A shortage in the broom corn crop in the West has caused a great advance in the price of brooms. They will likely be 30 per cent higher.

The man Otto Mueller who shot his wife in a lonely piece of woods in Long Island a year or more ago and whose skeleton was found recently admits he has been married eight times and has a wife now living and had when he married Anna Lithas the sixth girl. The woman he sits down in the electric chair the better.

Brook trout for 1910 may be secured by making application to Fish Commissioner Meahan, before Jan. 1st.

Sunday night is Halloween. Boys behave.

E. S. Wolfe is building a shed for a new planing mill on his lots near the upper mill.

There are several ways to break a colt, but doing it with a club is not success.

The Women's Society of the Presbyterian church will have a party on Thursday evening Nov. 4. C. C. etc. will be served.

If you have to use a lantern to do your chores in the barn never set it down on the floor. Have a convenient hook or nail where you can hang it and it won't be knocked over and your building burned.

Cashier John C. Warner has been confined to his house this week with grippe and Robert W. Reid has been confined to the bank.

From the number of cuts in the Philadelphia papers it would seem that about every engaged young lady and these soon to be married are largely illustrated.

Henry Thoms contended that he is illegitimately obtained at Matamoras has been overruled by the N. Y. Court of Appeals. "Let us have peace now."

The trial of Henry Brink, charged with the murder of Congressman Carl Tri State last January, has been postponed until December.

John J. Astor, leader of New York's "trust-busters," has sued his husband for divorce. It is the scandal.

We are enjoying the "banquet" moon.

Quite a number of town children are whooping it up.

Teachers institute was held at Matamoras this week.

Barnard Van Jaarsen, widow of the late Webb W. Cortright of Matamoras, and a former resident of Milford died at the home of her son in Port Jervis last Monday aged about 81 years. The funeral was held Wednesday and interment in Milford Cemetery.

Next Tuesday is election and many statements will be removed from off the sections soil. Some will be mad and declare that a great majority of them are liar.

A man named Barrell who was with Dr. Cook when he climbed Mt. McKinley came out in a statement that they did not reach the summit by about 8000 feet. Now a former partner of Barrell says that he heard him say he was present when Cook made the ascent and they reached the top.

School authorities in Scranton have discarded vertical writing, one reason given being that business men would not employ those using that style of penmanship. There is no more legible or rapid style of writing than the old fashioned slant.

Upon the advice of friends, Mr. Peary has decided to do less talking until he has something to say.

One of San Francisco's convicted grafters has sued the judge who presided at the trial. Probably if successful he will tackle the jury next.

If W. J. Bryan would state his preference in the New York mayoralty contest there would be little trouble in picking a loser.

Mr. Hearst is bound to be in a more or less demand as a candidate with a "history" and a well organized and reliable publicity department.

It will be remembered that in his earlier career Mr. Roosevelt himself occasionally grew more or less impatient with his superior in office.

Knights Pass Averted.

"I would have been a knight for life, from a terrible cut on my knee cap," writes Frank Disberry, Kelliker, Minn. "without Buckler's Arsenic Salve, which soon cured me." Infallible for wounds, cuts and bruises, it soon cures Burns, Scalds, Old Sores, Blisters, Skin Eruptions. World's best for piles. 25c. at All Druggists.

Personal Canvas For A Judgeship.

The Democratic candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court C. L. McNe Mullan is swinging around the State collecting votes to put himself on the bench of the highest judicial tribunal in the Commonwealth. He is going into the counties, holding conferences with the politicians of his party, and individually seeking voters.

This is something new. The people of Pennsylvania have never before been diverted by so interesting a spectacle as a candidate for the exalted place of Judge of the Supreme Court whirling around in a personal canvas of the State. Searching back through all the years since the adoption of the present constitution, the Democratic candidate himself would be unable to find a precedent for it. The sentiment made and ever maintained by the people which holds high judicial office above such methods, has always been respected heretofore by those who have been honored with a nomination.

The Democratic candidate seems to have a less exalted view of the place he seeks, and to think he can promote his cause by thrusting aside what has become an unwritten and should be an inviolable law. The duties of a judge of the Supreme Court are of the most delicate and responsible character—to expose to a compromising personal campaign for votes. The office has never been pulled down to that level, and no one has ever before thought he could pull himself up to the office by such methods.

The Democratic candidate will not benefit by those methods now. The people of Pennsylvania have too high an appreciation of the proprieties to be won by either flattery or favor upon a personal canvass by a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court.

From the Democrat, Pa. J. Truth.

Bel Racks In River

The Delaware river above Port Jervis and to be frequently filled with ice racks, the low water has multiplied building wing walls and retaining walls along the stream have advanced the opportunity. A rack has little chance by there existing his hidden the under takes to move around, such in his element, but so far he has pretty well preserved his life and liberty from the racks. An osprey he cannot avoid is said to be the large quantity of rack which comes from logs floated down the Schuylkill creek. At Port Jervis the racks are made of bark and wood like fine sawdust. This is taken in the gills of the fish and suffocates them. Reports say that ten miles of the river several days ago were found along wing walls of the racks and many dead eels are seen. There is no law in New York state permitting these racks or weirs to be placed in the river and none in this, but they are so numerous and conspicuous that the authorities of both states cannot help but know they are there. The law should allow their use to catch eels, which are said to be destroyers of the spawn of game fish, for they cannot be taken in any considerable number in any other way. Failure to enforce a law, to an extent, brings all laws in more or less contempt and subject to the whims of those who would violate them. If a law is good it should be enforced, and that without fear or favor, if it is bad it should be repealed. The question whether good or bad cannot be determined by those who transgress for their own purposes, because there are few laws passed which do not have their opponents, and if decision was left to the public solely anarchy would prevail.

We favor a law allowing oel weirs to be placed in the river, under certain restrictions and limitations, but until there is such law the weirs should not be allowed and if put in should be taken out by those in authority.

Depleting Forests.

A warning has been issued that the supply of lumber in the country is fast decreasing and that no adequate steps are being taken to preserve or replenish the forests. There seems to be a general apathy about replacing trees and great negligence in cutting them for lumber purposes. It is said in Scranton that farmers bring props to market which will hardly conform to the requirements of being six inches at the small end, and trade them for feed at the company stores. Why should the farmers raise their feed on their farms and save their lumber until it is worth cutting. This destruction goes on so fast soon there will be no more lumber for props and ties. Only a few years ago the price of timber such as is used in mines was from $8 to $10 a thousand, now it is from $22 to $25, and will go higher. This also affects the cost of coal for the increased cost of mining and accessories must be paid ultimately by the consumer. Those preserving timber lands would do well to cut no timber which will not bring a good market price and also take every precaution to preserve the young, growing trees. It will pay good interest to do so.

Be A Top Notch Doer.

Great deeds compel regard. The world crowns his doers. That's why the Americans people have crowned Dr. King's New Discovery the King of Throat and Lung Remedies. Every atom is a health force. It kills germs, and cures and is gripe vanisher. It heals cough-racked membranes and coughing stops. Sore, inflamed bronchial tubes and lungs are cured and hemorrhages cease. Dr. Geo. Mote, Black Jack, N. C. writes "I cured me of lung trouble pronounced hopeless by all doctors." 50c. $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by All Druggists.

To The Public.

The residents of Milford and vicinity are informed that John A. Watts is still active in the business of selling and installing the same old stand and in an honest and capable way. Mr. Watts is entrusted with the larger part by far of the patronage of the express business of the town and would be the residents not to mind all they hear from a competitor but take it from the source it comes. Past performances are a good guide for future developments.

Painting Fruit Trees

A correspondent wrote Dr. Sprague that a number of people who had painted trees with white lead and kerosene oil had lost them. The Dr. professes surprise at this and says he knows of thousands of trees so painted without bad effects. He recommends painting only apple, pear, and quince trees, but says he painted young peach trees and they bore an excellent crop. Painting keeps out borers in summer and is also some protection against mice and rabbits. If any one has had experience with such treatment it would be a great satisfaction to Dr. Sprague to learn the results, and especially the kind of oil used and the kind of trees painted.

Notes From Sandyston

The survey of the Tuttle's Corner-Layton road was not completed but surveying the road from Pine Hill toward Bevans delayed the work. The line row of shade trees set out along the farm of U. E. Harsh will have to be cut down.

The cow stables and surroundings of our dairymen are being inspected and the inspector found many with nicely white washed interior and concrete floors and others otherwise.

Blase Cole, son of Dr. Martin Cole of Hainesville, has received his commission signed by President Taft as a surgeon in the regular army and is ordered to report for duty at once at Fort Omaha, Nebraska. Blase is a graduate of Pennsylvania University at Philadelphia and for the past year has been one of the chief physicians at the Morris Plains Asylum.

Modest and unassuming he has a host of friends who all wish him success.

One of the saddest occurrences happened at Hainesville the past week. Miss Jeanette, the 16 year-old daughter of Rev. J. H. Frazer, suddenly went insane and on Thursday was taken to the Morris Plains Asylum. The stricken parents have the sympathy of all in their affliction.

Eddie Brown son of Ernest Brown of Walpack while picking apples last week fell from the tree breaking his arm and wrenching his ankle.

The Silver Spring Cremery at Bevans run by Mr. Seiler has been ordered to overhauled their plant and clean up.

Workmen are removing the old floor and will replace it with one of concrete.

The smell is something awful, but the place must be cleaned up.

W. U. Harsh has not yet received his commission as P. M. but undoubtedly will in a few days and then will remove the office to his place.

Elmer T. Roe of Walpack Centre is suffering from an attack of blood-poison in his right hand but it is slowly yielding to treatment.

Very little interest was shown in the Special School Meeting at Layton on Saturday.

He was for voting 700 dollars for school purposes and only 7 votes were cast, all affirmative.

J. J. Yastocke and wife returned to Jersey on Saturday from Bucyrus Ohio.

The dance in Grange Hall at Layton on Friday evening was one of the best of the series. The hall was comfortably filled good order prevailed and all had a good time.

Warren Bemer is about renting the mill of Mrs. Corrie Bemer located in upper Walpack, and better known as Keen's mill.

The mill has been standing idle since the death of Mr. Keen in March 1908.

Norman Benseley of Montagus has rented the dwelling on the Clark farm near Layton, and will soon occupy the premises.

The Local Optionists will hold three meetings in this valley this week, and I might say that it is just so much time wasted, for the voter has already made his choice of candidates.

Close Of Union's Contest.

The prize contest that the Post-Jervis Union has been conducting since the early part of September, came to an end at eight o'clock Saturday night and the Judges tabulated the votes. The adding mechanism of the National Bank was used to total the votes.

The following are the winners of the prizes: Miss Rose Hafner, $150; double diamond ring, 274,829 votes; Miss Mada B. Dobbs, trip to Bermuda, 116,650 votes; Miss Mable Lightmyer, trip to Bermuda, 114,490 votes; Mrs. W. G. Wells, golden oak side board, 89,754 votes; Everitt B. Aumick, $150 solid gold watch, 49,931 votes; John Power, aged twelve years, leather Turkish rocker, 47,955 votes. We congratulate the Union and the winners on the success of their contest.

SOON FORGOTTEN.

There was much pomp and grand display And men turned out in full array In homage to the man who lay In a gold lined casket yesterday.

All knelt and silent prayers were said, They paid full tribute to the dead, Then, quietly they homeward sped And the rich man lay on his marble bed.

To-day the earth revolves the same, The sun as bright, the soft winds come As yesterday and, scarce the name Is breathed of this great man of fame.

Your Duty Next Tuesday.

It ought not to be necessary to remind the Republicans of Pennsylvania of their duty on November 23. But the large majorities this State has recorded for the Republican ticket have made thousands of voters careless. They are stalwart Republicans, and when they go to the polls they vote a straight ticket. They are not indifferent to party success; they merely take the election of the Republican ticket for granted and do not go to the trouble of voting State Chairman Andrews a few days ago warned Republicans against over-confidence. He referred to the axiom of warfare that an army constantly must be on guard and appealed to every Republican to cast his vote.

The voters should respond to this appeal. No better candidates have ever been presented to the people of this State than A. E. Sisson, J. A. Stober and Robert von Moschelsker. They possess exceptional qualifications for the offices for which they were nominated. They should not merely be elected; they should receive an overwhelming majority, for they are worthy of such a majority.

The Democrats will endeavor to poll their full party vote. A reduced majority for the Republican ticket will encourage the Democracy in its hope of electing a Democrat the successor of Governor Stuart next year, and an increased representation in the Legislature and in Congress. Pennsylvania should take no backward step. Last year it gave the Republican national ticket a larger majority than any other State. That majority should be followed by another overwhelming majority this year. The Keystone State's title to the position at the head of the Republican column should remain unquestionable.

There is another reason why the Republican ticket this year should be elected by a record-breaking off-year majority. Within the past few days the newspapers have printed despatches from the West, telling of the plans of the low-tariff advocates to renew vigorously at the next session of Congress their agitation for "progressive" tariff revision. That is precisely the sort of tariff revision Pennsylvania does not want. The people of this State will have little patience with the efforts of the La Follette school of statesmen to keep alive tariff agitation. The Payne law re-establishes the protective system and it is restoring prosperity. Every voter who believes in it should join in an endorsement of the party that enacted it. By electing the Republican ticket by an impressive majority Pennsylvania will emphasize the fact that it demands the maintenance of the tariff policy, which has made it the greatest industrial State in the Union.

After a Divorce

Despatches from Omaha, Neb. say that Happy Theodora Bemer has begun an action for divorce from her husband in the courts there. Her support is the alleged cause. She is a daughter of the late Senator Van Wyck and wife who was Kate Brodhead of Milford and was born in Washington. Some years ago a sensational story was published of her engagement and that as she was about to be married she suddenly announced without explanation that she had changed her mind and withdrew at further ceremony left the place. Soon after she married Ferdinand Bemer and part of her time was passed here where she owns the old homestead but lately her visits have been few, most of her time being spent in traveling and in the West. The action will be no special surprise to many here who have been conversant with the conditions surrounding her married life.

Seeking New Route

The Stroudsburg and Water Gap Company which built a trolley road over the Foxtown hill, and which lately had trouble with the Monroe County Water Supply Company and has brought suit for $20,000 damages because the Power people shut them out and stopped the running of their cars, is determined to secure a route to connect with Philadelphia. If the Water Gap borough will not permit the company to lay tracks through the Gap the company may seek an outlet by way of the old Page survey which runs from Stroudsburg to Saylorsburg. This would be a direct line, then if the road could be built on top the river we might have excellent southern connections.
