STORIES OF BURIED TREASURES.

Wealth of Jewish Priesthood Concealed in Persian Ruins.

The actual prosaic instances of treasure trove and the Old World ceremonial involving "crowners quest law" to decide the legal rights are to be found in any text book on the subject. Since antiquaries, with a certain fascination of romance, is the reflection that even in our own country there are probably numerous buried hoards.

One cannot always ignore tradition, and throughout the length and breadth of the land are to be found old legends of hidden treasure, sometimes guarded by a curse, sometimes by a special warder. There is probability almost amounting to certainty that valuable were hidden by the Romans, and even more probably by the Romans of Britain. The treasures of the Incas and of pirates such as Kidd are still existent in theory; the buried wealth of India is among the rudimentary facts known to all students of the East.

But perhaps most startling and alluring of all is the theory that among the treasure trove to be at some time recovered from Persian sands or ruins are the Bagdad Breviary and the mysterious Urns and Thaumain of the Jewish priesthood.

New Light on Electricity.

Attention was recently called in this column to the remarkable observations of Professor Nipher of St. Louis on the property of an electric current, when passing round a sharp corner, of apparently projecting a discharge along its original line of motion. More recently Professor Cantor of Warburg has independently observed the same phenomenon, and now Prof. Sylvanus P. Thompson declares that this seems to be evidence of the existence of a true electric momentum, resembling that of water flowing in a pipe. Faraday had thought of the possibility of such a thing, but his experiments led him to conclude against its existence. Clerk Maxwell afterward raised the question again, and also decided it in the negative. But Professor Thompson points out that the phenomenon is in accord with the most recent theory of the atomic nature of electricity, which had not been worked out in Maxwell's day. At any rate, says Professor Thompson, we have now a newly acquired fact about electricity, whatever the ultimate explanation of it may be.

The Joy of Life.

Pray heaven that when your child is born he may have the joy of life. There is not a gift to compare with it. Riches will not buy it, ill health will not rob its possessor of it. Brains do not insure its possession nor lack of will prevent one from feeling the joy of life.

It must now and then amuse the gods when they see some long-faced and heart-heavy philanthropist "uplifting" some child of poverty whose delight in mere existence no noxious taint or the small amount of food he eats can take away from him.

That poor lame sea-boy, who basks on the warm edge along Newspaper row and whose knees peep out of his trousers and stimulate your sympathies as you pass by, needs neither your kind word nor your coin to make him happy. He happens to have the joy of life, and it will stay by him to the end, whether that end be the potter's field or a more fashionable burying ground.—Smith's Magazine.

They'd Be Lost.

Did you ever wonder what the women who are always talking about their own ailments would do for conversation, if they should ever get well?

D. B. Hill's Hat.

David B. Hill, former Governor of and Senator from New York, has a decided habit somewhere in the State who makes his high hats after elaborate plans drawn by Mr. Hill many years ago, and not changed since.

One night ex-Governor Odell, of New York, was giving a reception in Albany, and Mr. Roosevelt, then elected Vice-President, met Mr. Hill on the steps of the New York Executive Mansion.

Roosevelt wore a black rough rider hat and Hill had one of his peculiar skypleas.

"Senator," said Roosevelt, "you should wear a hat like this one that I have on. They are much easier on the head, preserve the hair and are altogether better than silk ones."

Mr. Hill looked at the coming Vice-President. "My dear sir," he said, "I haven't worn a hat like that since I went out of the show business."

Corned.

Five young men went into a shop recently to buy a hat each. Seeing they were in a joking mood, the shopman said:

"Are you married?"

"They each said 'Yes.'"

"Then I'll give a hat to the one who can truthfully say he has not kissed any other woman but his own wife since he was married."

"Hand over that hat," said one of the party. "I've won it."

"When were you married?"

"Yesterday," was the reply, and the hat was handed over.

One of the others was laughing heartily while telling his wife the joke, but suddenly pulled up when she said:

"I say, John, how was it you didn't bring one?"

The Artistic Nature.

An eminent painter was once asked if he thought art students did well to go to the continent to study. He said that undoubtedly the atmosphere was more artistic in Europe than anywhere else, but that Paris, as a city to study and work in, was overrated. To illustrate his meaning, he said that a certain rich man's son, after three years in Paris, wrote home to his father:

"Dear Father—I have made up my mind to set to work. Please let me know at your earliest convenience whether it was painting, architecture, or music I came to Paris to study.

W. L. DOUGLAS

MADE $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN

W. L. Douglas never cheapens his shoes.

While the high price of leather will make it impractical for other manufacturers to provide as good shoes as formerly, W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes will continue to afford those excellent styles, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities that have resulted in the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world.

This will make it especially desirable for those who have never tried W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes to wear them this season, and thus prove that they are better than any other $3.50 shoes and equal to footwear ordinarily sold at much higher prices. While such action by W. L. Douglas must of necessity impair profits, yet he is certain that the increased business which it assures will prove the wisdom of such action.

The County Commissioners have levied a 7 mill tax for this year which with the increased valuation will not about two hundred dollars more than last year when the total was $13,157.

Suit will be brought by the State to recover about five million dollars, the amount stolen by those concerned in the new Capitol trimming contracts. This money never may be recovered but the effect will be a lesson to gratters and trimmers to conceal their operations as not to be caught. It is comparatively easy to steal sometimes but successful hiding is a different proposition.

Martha Greening, a young Smith college graduate about twenty years old, was arrested by a Philadelphia policeman and locked up in a cell with characters of the lowest type because she walked along in front of a factory where there were shirt waist strikers. The charge was inciting to riot. Her treatment has provoked so much indignation that police methods are likely to receive some careful investigation.

The postal savings bank bill seemingly to pass in such shape that any objectionable features will be eliminated. It will provide for the payment of interest at the rate of 2 per cent and that money deposited shall remain in the locality and not be sent to money centers to be used for speculative purposes.

Captain Chancy Thomas, who was born at Shohola and who for a couple of years has been in command of the lightship station at Tompkinsville, N. Y., has been assigned as an aide to the Secretary of the Navy. The rumor is that he will receive the title of Rear Admiral. He was appointed a cadet by the late D. M. Van Auken when he represented this district in Congress.

The Democratic county committee for Pike has passed resolutions endorsing the services of Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer in Congress and cordially endorsing him for re-nomination and re-election. The resolution that under the rotation formerly in vogue Pike is entitled to name the candidate for 1910 and that by inference her wishes should now be regarded by the district, in view of some events would seem to emanate from minds as broad as barn doors and as deep as wells.

Mrs. Sallie Doty, a former resident of Dingman township, died recently at Waterloo, N. J., aged 94 years. Her husband David C. died in 1903 aged over 98 years. They were parents of the late Mrs. Wallace Newman of this place.
