Dr. H. B. Reed is finely educated, has ample time at his disposal and is every way qualified to fill the position of School Director. If a community is gaged by the class of men it elects to fill its offices it would be highly creditable to place such men as Dr. Reed in positions of responsibility. There is too much apathy on the part of patrons and directors in Milford to place the schools on the high plane on which they should stand. Parents can aid in the work, and in fact without their cooperation it is impossible to bring the schools up to a high standard of efficiency.

Directors can do much but without a proper interest in the community much of their labor is lost. There is no reason why the Milford schools should not rank with any in the State, but to attain such position there must be a general and favorable public sentiment which will exert its influence to that end. No matter how persevering or capable the teacher there must be behind the school room an awakened public determination to assist in the work. Can we have such a state of affairs here, and will the people aid in electing a man who can and will materially assist in bringing around a condition which will redound to the public credit.

WOMEN IN TURKEY.

HAVE TAKEN A LEADING PART IN RECENT REVOLUTION.

Countess de Rhozinska, Escaped to Paris from Harem, Leading the Work of Liberty for her Country Women.

Women have taken a great, though silent, part in the Turkish revolution which has exacted a constitution from the Sultan. The most remarkable of the Turkish revolutionaries is the Countess de Rhozinska, daughter of the late Nozry Bey, former under secretary of state for foreign affairs in Turkey, who, rather than bear the oppression of harem life, escaped to Paris and married a Polish count. She has since thrown her soul into the work of liberty for her country women. The revolution in Turkey is a fight for advanced ideas and higher ideals.

The marriage laws of Turkey are such that women are not held on a high plane. Monogamy is gaining ground and has been for some time, but the harems still hold leading place and the Turkish gentleman is not credited with having a home until he has married two or more women, usually his slaves. The expense of marrying a woman of rank owing to numerous wedding festivities and presents is enough to make the fondest heart waver. The marriage of a slave costs only the purchase money for the woman and for all that she may be a high-born lady.

THE COUNTESS OF RHOZINSKA.

The dreaded specter of a mother-in-law never troubles the Turk who has married a slave, but with all that he has his troubles with his many wives and they are never happy unless they adopt the oriental fatalism which leads them to believe that they have only one life to live and it matters little how it is spent.

More Than Microscopes.

The human heart concerns us more than poring into microscopes, and is larger than can be measured by the pompous figures of the astronomer—Emerson.

The attendant was showing the lunatic asylum to the visitor, and opened the door to the first cell. Inside was a man sitting on a stool and gazing vacantly at the wall. "Sad story," said the attendant, "who was in love with a girl, but she married another man, and he lost his reason in grief." They stole out softly, closing the door behind them, and proceeded to the next inmate. This cell was thickly padded, and the man within was stark, staring mad. "Who is this?" inquired the visitor. "This," repeated the attendant, "this is the other man."

ONE WAY OF PUTTING IT.

"How would you decide which to marry if you were proposed to at the same time by a man with money and one without?"

A Winner.

A gifted Southern woman said that her colored woman surprised her one day with the announcement that she was soon to be married again. The servant explained that she had attended a funeral six weeks before and that she was to wed "the husband of the corpse." She added that the bereaved widower had notified her at the funeral.

What He Needed.

The waiter girl knew a thing or two about table etiquette. So she snuffed scornfully as she said: "It's not our custom to serve a knife with pie." "Not!" remarked the patron in surprise. "Then bring me an axe."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread-disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarth. Hall's Catarth Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarth being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarth Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any disease that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Tol. O. Sold by all druggists, 75 cents. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

SEEING AND LISTENING.

Nearsighted Man Wears Glasses in Talking, but not in Reading.

"Here is a sort of queer thing," said a near-sighted man. "I am very near-sighted. Strong glasses are indispensable to me for ordinary general seeing, in my going about, but when I sit down to read I take off my glasses and bring the print up to my spectacles, and I would put them on and then say, 'Now, go ahead,' and read, with my spectacles on, with my deepest definition of things in general to the eye, I get the clearest appreciation of things said to me. 'So in reading I do best with my glasses off, but in understanding things said to me, in listening, I do best with my glasses on. There is one modification to this—where there is no light, as in a dark room, where I can't see, I can understand equally well with or without glasses.'

Electricity as a Tonic.

Victims of the Habit Constantly Dose Themselves With Shocks.

"Of all the habits, the one that sticks closest to a fellow is the electricity habit," said a young doctor. "The drink habit and the cocaine habit are more summer fancies compared with it. But there is one thing to be said in its favor; it is usually beneficial. 'The electricity habit is contracted just like any other habit. A few currents are administered during an illness, they strengthen and stimulate, and the first thing the patient knows he finds the tonic indispensable. Even after he gets well he craves the treatment. I know one young woman who makes a fair living by calling at the homes of electricity victims and dosing them with a few shocks from a galvanic battery. Most slaves to the habit have their own batteries, but they are afraid to apply the treatment to themselves. That is practically a groundless fear, for there isn't one chance in a thousand of a person giving himself an overdose. Still, they prefer an experienced hand to manage the current. Not all the electricity fluids are invalids, by any means. Many of them are now as well as they ever were, yet they have become so addicted to the habit that they require the weekly, semi-weekly, or even daily thrills to tone them up.'

Another Misunderstanding.

A South side man went home and told his wife that the doctors had discovered the craving for whisky was caused by auto-intoxication. "That's right," exclaimed the woman, who was trying to induce her husband to buy a machine. "Blame it on the auto!"
