QUEEREST OF CULPRITS.
Odd Court Episode Related By W. W. Jacobs, the Humorist.
W. W. Jacobs, the humorist, tells the following story:
A lawyer defending a man accused of housebreaking spoke like this: "Your honor, I submit that my client did not break into the house at all. He found the parlor window open and merely inserted his arm and removed a few trilling articles. Now, my client's arm is not himself, and I fail to see how you can punish the whole individual for an offense committed only by one of his limbs."
"That argument," said the judge, "is very well put. Following it logically, I sentence the defendant to one year's imprisonment. He can accompany it or not, as he chooses."
