MAY MORNING.

Dedicated to ALICE C. McCRAWLEY

The morning light is breaking
Over the hills away,
The larks are singing joyly
To announce the coming day,
The dewdrops on the flowers
Like crystals sparkle clear,
Soft south winds are blowing
And balmy is the air.

How sweet, how fresh, how beautiful
All seem this bright May morn;
A thousand greetings cheer us,
Afar the shepherd's horn
Is heard, the echo sounding
So flute-like seems to say;
Hail, hail a blessing calling
And then it dies away.

Oh this lovely Mayday,
It brings youth back once more:
The skies are blue, the flowers sweet
As in days gone before.
The trees, the fields, the meadows
As just as green and gay
And the birds sing out as sweetly
As in old time days of May.

Political Card

To the Democratic Voters of Pike County:
I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination for STATE SENATOR at the Primary Election to be held on Saturday June 4th and respectfully solicit your support.

HARVEY HUFFMAN.
Stroudsburg Pa., Apr. 27, 1910.

Candidates Card.

To the voters of Pike County
Upon the urgent request of voters of both parties, I announce my candidacy, for the nomination, to the office of REPRESENTATIVE IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. If nominated and elected, I will do all I can for Pike County.

ALFRED MARVIN

HUBBY TOO WILLING.

Wife Dried Her Eyes and Decided Not to Go After All.
In the midst of her tears over a late disagreement she announced that she would take a trip of three weeks in the country for a rest for his abuse. Hooray! Hooray!
He hurried to the station, bought tickets, hurried back home, pulled off his coat, plunged into the cellar, lugged out her trunks and commenced to pack.
Lying on a couch she watched him through her tears with great curiosity. From time to time, in reply to many questions, she advised him what articles would be useful in the country and they were eagerly included.
Perceiving and exhausted after some hours of preparatory detail for her departure, he sank into a chair and said:
"Everything is ready now. You have abundant time to catch your train."
"I have decided," she said softly, "not to go."

In Scraporia.

Surrounded by an admiring circle of reporters and sporting-men, the two noted pugilists were completing the arrangements for their decisive contest.
"There's one more detail," said one of the prospective contestants. "When is the fight to take place?"
The other pondered a moment. "How would the year 1924 do?" he asked finally.
"No," replied his future antagonist, with a frown. "That's too far off—the public wouldn't stand for it. Better make it 1919."
"All right," was the answer. "We can easily postpone it, I suppose, if we care to."
"Of course," responded the other carelessly.
Then the meeting broke up, and the reporters hurried away, so that the "extras" might be gotten out promptly.

Paved the Way.

The Father—It was a noble deed, young man, to plunge into the raging waters after my daughter. I suppose you realized the awful risk that you were running?
The Hero (modestly)—Yes, sir, I did, sir.
The Father—Good. Then you will readily appreciate the necessity of having a policy in the Skins Life Insurance Company, for which I am the chief solicitor.

Then There was Hair-Pulling.

"I have a riddle for you," said a frivolous girl to a friend. "If ten men proposed to me, what would that be?"
"What?"
"A tender."
"Very likely. And if one proposed to you it would be a wonder."

All Prepared.

Mr. Himer.—But my dear sir, in the selection of material for your paper don't you often think of the poor poet?

On the Job.

Miss Coy (at the garden party)—Let you kiss me! Certainly not! I've only known you an hour.

Not Responsible.

Workman—I've gotten married, sir, and I'd like you to raise my wages.

Sympathy.

ing you.
