REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS: ROBERT BROWN, Monroe Co.

FOR SENATOR: WINIFRED O. LEWIS, Carbon County.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE: ALFRED MARVIN, Matamoras, Pa.

Both the Republican and Democratic State tickets are being criticized and several papers in both parties have repudiated the nominations. That of Tener for Governor was quite unexpected though it had been suggested several days prior to the convention. It is a problem whether he will size up to Governor Stuart in ability, courage and independence and nothing less ought to satisfy the voters. Stuart has made an excellent official and the great Republican party of Pennsylvania, which is entrenched in power, cannot afford to take any step backward. It claims to be the party of progress and reform and it must sustain that reputation or the people, with whom the ultimate power resides, eventually will refuse to longer entrust it with the command. Wise leaders should stand in advance of the intelligence and sentiment which endow their party and give it men of the highest intellectual and moral stamp. Failing this they cannot long lead.

The Article by Dr. Dixon on Sav. the Babies, printed elsewhere, contains sound suggestions and deserves careful perusal. The summer months are hard on the little ones and the mortality among children is great it therefore becomes important for parents to heed all sanitary and dietary precautions. Dr. Dixon favors the old fashioned way of raising babies a way which has grown likewome to many mothers, but if they have due regard for the health of their offspring, for whose lives they are responsible, they will with a true mother's instinct forego some of the pleasures of their own lives for the sake of the helpless little creatures they have brought into the world. It may be hard to break up a fashion which largely prevails much of which arises from the selfishness of women who are not willing to assume the restraint which the care of their children imposes, but a woman is far more womanly nursing a baby than a poodle.

Every body having children should harden their hearts to their importunities for dangerous ways of enjoying the 4th. It may seem unkind to deprive them of their desires, but it would be more unkind to have them go thru life maimed or disabled. It is no other way take them out in the woods for the day, a few families might join together and give their children a picnic thus affording pleasure to both. Anyhow resolve that no one of your children shall be in the list of killed or injured if you can prevent it.
