When you are sick and in need of a physician, when you are in trouble and want good advice, when you are building and desire skillful workmen you naturally turn to men who have not only ability but experience. This is wise and good business precaution. Many States and districts, Congressional and representative, recognize the wisdom of retaining men who have energy and experience to represent them. A man without acquaintance, without skill and without experience, is at a great disadvantage among those of his fellows who possess these requisite qualifications, and cannot give his constituents the same value in services as other districts represented by the men who do possess them. Some districts in this State have been for years represented by the same men until their power and influence is felt and known throughout the country. We have said, and repeat, that if this Congressional district is to be represented by a Democrat it is wise to send a man of ability, no matter from which County, and keep him there. That only by so doing can we have weight or influence. We will be far better served by one who has learned the ropes, than by sending a green man who, no matter what his ability, has no acquaintance and no influence.

The same arguments prevail in the case of Mr. Marvin. He has twice represented the County and both times, within reason, has fulfilled his promises. He is well known at Harrisburg and is recognized as having influence. He has been appointed on important Committees and in all respects has served his constituents, without respect to party faithfully and well. Is it business policy and sound judgment to send a new, untried and inexperienced man? Do you honestly believe that he could serve you as well and successfully as Mr. Marvin no matter how good his intentions or earnest his efforts. He would be with the minority and minorities seldom prevail. Look at this matter in the same way you would a business proposition and then vote as good sound judgment dictates.

W. S. Ryman is in New York on business this week.
Dr. W. L. Angle of Stroudsburg visited Milford recently.
East Stroudsburg in future will have her distinctive name, and will be so recognized on railroad time tables. She has heretofore had no outside official existence.
Everitt, aged about 14 years, a son of John Owens, died in Port Jervis last week. The remains were brought here Saturday for interment.
Ed Drake says he is busy spotting bees trees and has located several which will pan out a lot of genuine sweetness.
John Vogt Jr has sold his hotel at Shohola to his son Joseph H. of Matamoras who recently conducted a hotel at that place.
Business men in Milford, except hotels, barber shops and drug stores, are considering closing their places during the winter at 6 p. m.

Algeron Gregory has gone to Aurora, Ill., where he will be employed by his uncle in a factory.
Chas Chedister, the Jersey chicken thief, pleaded guilty last week at Newton and got six months in the County jail.
Mrs. Eleanor Quinn has rented her house on Catharine Street for the winter to Frank Stateman of Easton.
W. H. Almer and wife are visiting friends in Warren County, N. J.
Joseph M. Huston architect of the state capitol was sentenced Wednesday by Judge Kunkel to pay a fine of $500, costs of prosecution and to serve from six months to two years in the Eastern Penitentiary. He appealed, which acts as a stay.
There was no intention in publishing the act of assembly last week in relation to minors visiting bowling alleys to in any wise injure any one. It is only fair that the public and proprietors should know the law, lest unwittingly both disobey it.

Concrete blocks made in any quantity by R. E. Humbert, Milford, Pa.
David B. Hill, ex-Governor and ex U. S. Senator from New York died yesterday at his home in Albany, N. Y., aged about 67 years. For many years he was a prominent figure in the politics of his State.
The Directors' Convention and Teachers' Institute for Pike County will begin next Monday at 2 p. m. at the Court House.
There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, it acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, etc.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Miss Agnes Dick spent Saturday at Narrowsburg and her sister Sophia went up Tuesday.
Peter Schott and wife are spending two weeks at his father's. Miss Wilhemina Schott also spent last week at her father's.
Mrs. S. S. Crawford was entertained at Capt. Hayes Sunday night. Monday she left for her N. Y. home.
The young people of this place enjoyed a party at Mrs. Jessie Campbell's Saturday evening.
Mrs. Bingham of N. Y. city is boarding at the Selden Manor.
W. H. Hankins has been very successful catching wall-eyed pike.
The boys and girls are enjoying themselves picking chestnuts of which there are many.
Mrs. Mary Bross is entertaining Mrs. Turner of N. Y. city and Mrs. Smith of Port Jervis.

The Secret Out.
What made my lovely complexion? Do not like to tell, for it was medicine but the secret a woman ever took. It was Lane's Family Medicine that did it. This is a pleasant herb tea which acts favorably on the stomach and bowels, purifying the blood and cleansing the skin like magic. It cures headaches and backache. Druggists and dealers sell it, 50c.

Strike Up The Fiddle.
Dedicated to Cells Agnes McGovern.
Strike up the fiddle
Play a merry tune,
Dance while you may
By the beams of the moon.
Dance while your hearts are bright,
Dance while your limbs are light,
Dance while Spring to Winter's night
Will come too soon.
Strike up the fiddle
Sing a merry song
All here are happy
We're a jolly throng.
Sing out each girl and boy
Sing out your songs of joy
Age, pleasures will destroy
When it comes along.
Strike up the fiddle
Dance care away,
Let it not enter in
Ere it should stay.
YOUTH will not always last,
Time drives his chariot fast,
He'll reach the goal at last
Let us now be gay.
Ceclia A. Callis.

Walnuts for Fighting Suits.
The United States Consul-General at the city of Mexico reports the arrival at Mexican ports of several Spanish ships, bringing in loads of English walnuts. The nuts are being distributed among ranches near Mexico city for use exclusively in feeding fighting bulls. The walnuts are supposed to put the animals on edge for ring encounters.—Washington Post.

Some of the fish found at a depth of about ten thousand feet by a German deep sea expedition, resembled the fossil species in the rocks of the Mesozoic era, when the earth's atmosphere was dense with carbon. These fish in many cases had special means of collecting light. Some possessed enormous eyes occupying nearly the whole side of the head and some were supplied with telescopic organs. Others carried their light on their heads in a manner similar to that of the glow worm.—Montreal Standard.

Origin of "Three Balls" Sign.
The origin of the three balls in front of a pawnbroker's office, says the New York World, was a corruption of Italian merchants, known as "Lombards," who established loan offices in France and England during the thirteenth century. Their "medici" family, which was foremost in the corporation, were three golden balls. The present "three ball" sign is supposed to be derived from that.

Lord Courtney's Wit.
Lord Courtney, who recently celebrated his 75th birthday, has a happy wit. During the time he was a member of the House of Commons he was asked at one of the meetings of his constituents whether he was in favor of a bill to legalize marriage with a deceased wife's sister. "May I inquire," he asked, "whether the question is married?" The gentleman replied that he was and that his wife had a sister. "Is your wife present?" asked the future peer. "She is not."
"Well," said Mr. Courtney (as he then was), "my wife is present, and she, too, has a sister." The meeting saw the member's point and the question was not pressed further.—Tit-bits.

Woman as a Traveler.
When a woman who is traveling is assigned to her room in a hotel she looks up the hotel rules on the door and carefully reads them. When she comes to one as follows: "No washing of clothes permitted in this room," she gives a satisfied sigh. Then she unpacks her trunk, rings for hot water and within an hour has the mirror covered with handkerchiefs pasted there to dry, and has hose, undergarments, waists, etc. hanging over the back of every chair. Then she gets out her diary and notes in it how much money she has saved. "There are said to be some very historic places in this town," she notes after detailing her wash, "but I will not have time to see them."—Atchison Globe.

Fish That Carry Candies.
