Work in the Garden.

SOWING SEEDS.—Prepare a border with a shuteen exposure, by manuring liberally with unfornicated stable manure, dig this in a spit deep, rake the ground thoroughly, then put on a covering of well rotted manure, an inch or two deep, rake this in well, then lay off your border in suitable divisions, to receive the different kinds of seeds that you intend to sow. Your bed being thus prepared, sow early and late cabbage seed, as the Early York, Battersea and Sugar Leaf—the large Flat Dutch, the Drum Head, and Savoy. This embracing early and late varieties, will secure a continuous supply of cabbage for the table or market, as the early kinds may be about being used up, the late kinds will come into play. Having sown your cabbage seeds, of different sorts, sow ashes thereon with a light hand, then rake the seed in, so as to cover them lightly, when you must pat the ground down with the back of your spade. It may be well here to remark that plant beds should not be shaded, but well exposed to sun and air. When the plants come up, if they should be attacked by lice, bugs, or other insects, mix up equal quantities of soot, ashes and flour of sulphur, and give them a very slight dusting with the mixture, two or three days in succession. Having sown your Cabbage seed, in the other divisions of your prepared bed, sow Tomatoes, Egg Plant, Cauliflower, Broccoli, Celery, and Lettuce seeds.

PEAS.—Select a heavy bed, and manure it with well rotted manure, dig that in, rake your peas therein thickly and cover with the hoe, patting down the ground as you proceed. To secure a continuous supply, you can either sow the early varieties at intervals of ten days apart, or sow the early and late kinds at the same time.

EARLY POTATOES.—These may be planted as soon as ever the frost is out of the ground. Sound potatoes must be selected, as it is useless to plant those infected with rot; and, indeed, as a precautionary means, we would advise that (for the garden culture) the seed Potatoes should be immersed in brine before being cut into sets, and when cut, that they should be dried in Ashes, Lime, or Plaster. In planting the sets, after manuring the drills, we would sprinkle a mixture of charcoal dust, lime and ashes over them prior to covering them up. When the potato plants are about an inch high, we would dust over them a mixture of equal parts of lime, plaster and salt, in such quantity as to give the young plants a gentle dusting. We do not say that this treatment will protect the potatoe from the rot, but it may do so, and is worth a trial.

EARLY TURNIPS.—In the early part of this month will be a good time to prepare a bed for early turnips. For this crop a compost made of six parts cow dung, one of lime, and one of ashes, will be found to be the best. Mix the whole thoroughly together by frequently turning over the mass, then spread one-half the compost on the bed, and dig it in the depth of the spade, rake the bed well, then spread the other half a spade deep, and rake the bed thoroughly, when it will be ready to receive the seed. Previously, however, to sowing the seed—which should be Early Dutch—it should be soaked in fish oil for twelve hours, then taken out, drained and dried in ashes or lime, sowed thinly, raked in and the ground compressed, by being patted with the back of the spade. As soon as the plants come up, a mixture of equal parts of plaster and ashes should be sown thereon, so as to dust the plants well. The operation should be repeated daily, each morning, until the plants get into the rough plants begin to belly, they must be thinned out so as to stand about 8 inches apart, and the weeds kept down until the leaves shade the ground. Thus treated, a bed of early turnips may be secured for table and market—and of this, those who live near a market, may be assured, that they will find ready sale and good prices, as but few persons raise turnips this early for market.

CABBAGE PLANTS.—Those who have been so provident as to raise Cabbage plants in a hot bed, should seize the occasion of preparing a bed to set them out in, as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Cabbages are gross feeders, therefore, require a good deal of strong manure. To prepare plants raised in hot beds for transplantation, it is necessary to raise up the lights for several days, to insure them to the weather before setting them out. To protect them from the cut worm, prepare a paste-like mixture of soot and flour of sulphur, moistened and brought to the consistence of paste, and suffered to cool, as you are about to set the plants out, dip the roots and stem of each plant into it up to the leaves, when it must be inserted into the ground. This mixture will not only protect the plants from the attacks of the cut-worm, but serve as an active manure to give them an early start in their growth, a thing of great importance as all gardeners well know.

EARLY BEET PARSNIPS AND CARROTS.—We advise that a bed in each garden should be appropriated to secure an early supply of these excellent table roots. As the same soil will be used should be thoroughly rotted; the bed dug deeply and well raked and laid off into drills 2 1/2 feet apart, which should be sown as thickly as possible, and covered up about 6 inches apart, the parsnips 6 inches apart, and the carrots about 4 inches apart.

The weeds must be cleaned out and the earth loosened two or three times before the crop is laid by.

BEANS.—The Lisbon, Mazagan and Windsor beans may be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Beans delight best in a clayey, or clayey mould soil, which should be moderately manured, dug with care and thoroughly raked.

CULINARY AND MEDICINAL HERBS, of all kinds, may now be planted out.

From the Libs.
ONWARD.
BY AARON DE LANO.

Through life's tempests are beating
With power on your head,
And earth's pleasures so fleeting
Forever seem fled;
Though sorrows surround you,
Temptations assail,
If your watchword be "onward,"
At last you'll prevail.

Though friends whom you fondly
Had reckoned your own,
Have left you, life's current
To stem all alone;
Though hopes so long cherished
May now be one fall,
If your watchword be "Onward,"
At last you'll prevail.

Then cease all repining—
Choose rather to laugh—
For surely that's wiser,
And better by half,
Then should sorrow oppress you,
Or troubles assail,
With your watchword still "onward,"
You never can fail.

Useful Information for Children.

WHEATHER OF LARGER OR SMALLER GROWTH.
NUMBER I.

I have often heard children ask the question,—"What does the Almanac mean by the DOMINICAL LETTER?"—What is its use?" and "Why is there a new one every year?" These are very proper inquiries; and an intelligible answer to them would enable you, to solve a great many other questions, which you would find extremely useful, as well as entertaining. And if you will give your attention to the subject, and not allow yourselves to pass from one sentence to another, till you have fully comprehended the preceding, I will answer these questions, so that you can readily understand and apply the information to many practical uses. I shall number the paragraphs, so that your attention may be directed to each, in order, till you are satisfied that you fully understand them all.

Observe then, I. That our Almanac-makers have chosen to denote the days of the week, by the first 7 letters of the Alphabet;—just as in music the 7 original tones of the octave are indicated by the same symbols.

2. If the year consisted of exactly 52 weeks (or 364 days), you plainly see, that these letters being once applied, would remain invariable from year to year. In that case, if A represented the last day of January, (as it always does,) and the others followed in order, G would denote the 1st day of Dec., and of course the first day of the next year would naturally commence again with A. Thus these letters would severally represent the same day of the week in every year. But,

3. As an ordinary year consists of 365 days, there is one day over a complete week, which makes the last day of Dec. the same day of the week (and denoted by the same letter) as the first day of the previous January. Consequently, the next year must commence one day of the week later than the preceding. And if this order were regularly continued, you plainly perceive, that these letters would severally run through the whole week, in the course of seven years: and then the 1st day of January would recur on the same day of the week, as seven years before. But,

4. You know that, ordinarily, every 4th year is a Leap Year, which contains 366 days; consequently the next year will commence 2 days later than the preceding. Hence the former order is interrupted every 4th year, and the letters indicating the days of the week are deranged; (just as the locality of the semitone in the octave and, consequently, the names of the notes are changed, by the introduction of flats and sharps;) and a return of any day of the year, to the same day of the week, would not take place, till after the lapse of 4 times, 7, or 28.

5. To obviate both of these difficulties, so that the first day of every year may be denoted by A, and the first of each month by its own letter from year to year, (while the days of the week are constantly changing,) a method had been adopted to accommodate these letters to the days of the week, in exact conformity to the above mentioned changes.—Hence,

6. The letter which in any other year stands for the first day of the week, called the Lord's DAY (Dies Domini) is the Dominical Letter for that year.

I will only add here, that it was formerly the practice of our Almanac-makers, to indicate the several days of the week, by these 7 letters in their order; the Dominical Letter, a Capital, and the other Roman. But of late years, they have adopted, with less regard to scheme, the initials of the secular days, using only the Dominical Letter of the year to indicate the sabbath.

In my next, I will give my youthful readers the Rule for finding the Dominical Letter, for any year, which they will find perfectly easy, and applicable to many pleasant and useful operations.

What branch of education do you have chiefly in your school?
A willow branch, sir! The master has used up almost a whole tree!"

HYER'S PILLS.
The American Improved Hygeian Vegetable Medicine.
THESE PILLS are one of the best Medical Compounds in use at the present day.—As a common family physic, for administration in all temporary complaints of the stomach and bowels, head aches, colds, &c. they may be fully depended upon, and a prompt use of them on the first appearance of indisposition will invariably save much sickness. They are peculiarly adapted to all cases of weakness and general debility—any derangement of the system, and especially with females—and a steady uninterrupted use of them, in strict conformity with the directions will very soon restore the organs of the stomach to their natural tone and action, and regulate the bowels, and renovate the whole system.

There is no disposition to give extravagant commendations of them. What is here stated, is the result of actual experience with them, and that through a period of fifteen years. It is not supposed, or pretended, that they will raise the dead; neither are they designed to be used as a freckle, or to use our own words, such as the true purgative is the part of wisdom. If such a Medicine the Proprietor knows, Pills to be used. And he is certain that in forty instances out of fifty, where a fair trial is made according to the directions, they will be used again as a standard medicine. He has never known an instance, where they have been used, in which they have not met with UNQUALIFIED APPROVAL.

Numerous testimonials may be seen at the General Office of sale, and references will be given to substantial living witnesses of their valuable curative properties.

The Pills are purely vegetable, are of two kinds, stimulant and purgative, purifying the blood, and producing a healthy action through the entire system; are a valuable Anti-Bileous Medicine, and eminently useful in all temporary complaints—Weakness, General Debility, Dropsy, Humoral Affections, Liver Complaints, Rheumatic and Spasmodic Affections, Female Complaints, Palpitations, &c.

So Family, after a fair trial, will be without doubt.

They are put up in FIFTY CENT and DOLLAR PACKAGES, each containing a pamphlet embracing a valuable Treatise on Diseases of the Digestive System, and the mode of preventing them, and the mode of curing them. The Dollar packages are sent through the post office. They may be ordered through Druggists, giving the Street and No. of the General Depot.

Sold, Wholesale and Retail, at No. 140 Fulton Street, Second Floor, N. Y., Between Nassau-street and Broadway.
As you value your Health—Try them!
The above Pills are also for sale at the store of BENTLEY & READ, of this place.

The Grape-Vine Cradle.
THE undersigned takes this method of informing the public that he is now engaged in manufacturing one of the most useful instruments for cutting grain, ever offered in market. The structure of this Cradle is such as to enable a man to cut his grain with much less labor than is usually required—thereby almost changing the task into pleasure. A number of citizens of this county, who have used the Cradle during the past season, (whose names can be given if reference is desired) hesitate not to pronounce it superior, by fifty per cent., to any instrument of the kind they ever used.

An opportunity of examining the structure and utility of the instrument will shortly be given. They will be offered for sale by the first of May, at all the principal stores and public places throughout the country.

Prices—according to the article.
For a common article, (scythe included) $4 00
Do Wire trimmed & do 5 00
Do Five teeth and trimmed, do 6 50
Do Teeth plated do 6 00
