DESOLATION."

[Leviticus, 26, 31.]

I trod the hallowed ground that bore A Christian temple tall and proud; When at each wide and lofty door Went streaming in a gorgeous crowd:—
A welcome day hid all rejoice— A fair and ancient festival, And the glad organs might verice Shook the strong roof and Gothic wall.

Full many a token marked the feld. Where rich and high believers meet, The sacred volume clasped in gold, The costly robe, and drowsy scat :-Priest, people, altar, chancel, choir, Arch, column, window, porch and gate -Loked s lemm all and calmly great.

But mark! An old and weary man-A stranger clad fin raimont vile," With failing stope and features wan. Went tottering up the fair broad aisle: -They cast him out -Oh faithless race! On a rude bench unseen-remote,— Found guilty, in that hour and place, Of-a lean purse and threadbare coat !

Yes! and if He who sav'd the lest Steed fainting englist haughty floor, Arrayed in weeds of little cost. -Meek as he sought our world before; In spite of words which none might blaine, And works of goodness freely done, That sordid post of wrong and shame Would greet-JEHOVAH'S ONLY SON.

O, for a prophet's tongue or pen To warn the great in wealth and birth, Who build their God a house, and then Plant there—the meanest pomps of earth-To brand that church which spurns the poor From every vain and venal pew, Where 'Clothed in purple" herd secure, To kneel or sleep the lordly few!

Give me the shed low bare and plain, Where love and limmble truth abide, Rather than earth's most noble fane Defiled by selfish pomp and pride: Give me the damp and desert sed. Walled in by dark old forest trees, Roofed over by the skies of God; But perish temples such as these!
