LEAP YEAR. -Our readers are aware, we resume, that the year we have just entered Leap Year. Every fourth year contains, by the calendar, 360 days, one day being added to the month of February. The calendar of the Roman Emperor, Julian, made the year 365 and one fourth days. As the common year, however, is only 365 days, every fourth year a day is added, which make the common year correspond to the calendar. We may add that it is also called Leap Year, from the fact that the ladies are allowed this In Lenox, on the 3d inst., Mr. CYRUS HARTyear to overleap the social law which prescribes that a maiden shall "wait still she is asked." The reason of this exception to general rules being probably based upon the idea that three years is long enough for a young man to court, without popping the question.— And that, therefore, when the fourth year comes round, the lady so courted should have the liberty of bringing matters to a crisis herself, if she chooses.
