THE CHOLERA.

The cholera has reached Great Britain—well authenticated cases are reported at London, Sunderland, Shields, Hull and Edinburgh. The disease made its appearance almost contemporaneously in Sunderland and in the low lying districts below London Bridge. In both places the first cases were those of intemperate sailors who came from Hamburg, and were attacked by the malady on the voyage. As regards Edinburgh, the origin of the disease is left in doubt. The official report of the Registrar-General, in London, reported 13 cases up to Saturday 7th ultimo, and up to Wednesday there were 30 cases. In Edinburgh there had been 25 cases. As the disease is not stated to be violent, and as we have seen accounts of its diminishing in intensity as it proceeds westward, we have hopes of its either not reaching America at all, or else in a very mild form.

In the London Gazette of a recent date there appears an important notification from the General Board of Health respecting this dreadful epidemic. The Board declare it is there conviction that the disease is non-contagious; and they state that the preventive measures founded on the theory of contagion, viz.: internal quarantine regulations, sanitary cordons, and the isolation of the sick, on which formely the strongest reliance was placed, have been recently abandoned in all countries where cholera has appeared, from the general experience of their inefficiency.

The advice of the Board respecting the use of drastic (purgative) medicine, especially salts of all descriptions, is that they must be abandoned. The document contains many important precautionary directions—keeping the feet and body warm, avoiding damp, foul air, removal of nuisances, &c., &c., and then proceeds to point out the first duty in case of an attack: —If, notwithstanding these precautionary measures, a person is seized suddenly with cold giddiness, nausea, vomiting and cramps, under circumstances in which instant medical assistance cannot be procured, the concurrent testimony of the most experienced medical authority shows that the proper course is to get as soon as possible into a warm bed; to apply warmth by means of heated flannel, or bottles filled with hot water, or bags of heated camomile flowers, sand, bran, or salt, to the feet and along the spine: to have the extremities diligently rubbed: to apply a large poultice of mustard and vinegar over the region of the stomach, keeping it on 12 or 20 minutes; and to take every half hour a teaspoonful of sal volatile in a little hot water, or a desert spoonful of brandy in a little hot water, or a wine glass of hot wine whey, made by pouring a wine glass of sherry into a tumbler of hot milk—in a word, to do every thing practicable to cause a warm general prespiration until the arrival of the medical attendant, whose immediate care, under such circumstances, is indispensible."

Extent of Oregon Territory.

Our readers are probably but little aware of the immensity of our possessions on the west of the Rocky Mountains. To say nothing of the east territories of California and New Mexico, of which we have recently come into possession, Oregon itself is large enough for a separate republic. On the east it skirts 800 miles along the Snowy Mountains, on the west 700 miles along the Pacific Ocean, on the north 250 miles along the North American possessions of Russia and England. This arena or immense valley contains 300,000 square miles—capable undoubtedly of forming seven states as large as New York, or forty states of the dimensions of Massachusetts. Some of the islands on the coast are very large—sufficient to form a state by themselves. These are situated north of the parallel of 50. Vancouver's Island, 200 miles in breadth, contains 12,000 square miles, an area larger than Massachusetts and Connecticut. Queen Charlotte's or rather Washington Island, 120 miles in length and 30 in breadth contains 4000 square miles. On both of those immense islands, that lie between the high parallels of 40 and 50 deg., the soil is said to be well adapted to agriculture. The straits and circumjacent waters abound in fish of the finest quality. Coal of good quality, and other veins of minerals, have been found.

Thrilling Incident at the Menagerie —Noble Gallantry of the Lion.

On Thursday of last week, during the heavy storm of wind and rain, while the extensive collection of wild beasts in the menagerie of Messrs. Raymond and Waring were in the village of Norwalk, a feature was introduced in the exhibition not previously announced in the bills. About four in the afternoon a violent gust of wind blew down the canvass which forms the large pavilion, completely enveloping the spectators and cages of animals in one common mass of confusion.

The accident happened at the time when Miss Adelina, the Lion Queen as she is styled, was performing in the den of wild beasts, and as the fright of the animals rendered them seemingly uncontrollable, great fears were entertained for the safety of that interesting young lady. At this moment a scene of indescribable terror and confusion presented itself. The roaring of the terrified beasts, the screams of women and children, and the "pelt-ings of the pitiless storm" without, rendered the scene truly appalling. The panic, however, was but momentary, as the prompt and energetic measures taken by the managers soon cleared the wreck, no person having received the slightest injury.

But the most intensely interesting incident remains to be told. The uproar among the lions, tigers and leopards in the performing cage, gave rise to a report that they were devouring Miss Adelina. In the next instant the canvass was stripped from the cage, when a tableaux presented itself such as would defy either poet, painter or sculptor to portray with accuracy. In the centre of the den a young and beautiful lion, (the same recently presented to Gen. Cass by the Emperor of Morocco,) in a rampant position, formed the strong feature of the picture, beneath one of his hind feet lay stretched the dead body of a leopard, and struggling within the invincible grasp of his fore paws were the tiger and surviving leopard.

In the opposite end of the cage, transfixed as a statue of marble, with dauntless eye and majestic attitude, the same as when she commands the wild beasts to chrouch at her feet, stood the Lion Queen, Miss Adelina. The young lady states that the two leopards and the tiger made a simultaneous spring for her, at the moment the canvass was blown down, and were repulsed by the noble gallantry of the lion, who bounded between them, and protected her in the manner described. The presence of the keeper, Mr. Pierce, soon reduced the savage group to subjection, and the Lion Queen was happily relieved from a further participation in the extra performance.—N. Y. Evening Post.

RECOVERED LAKE.—A singular accident, says the New York Star, occurred on the Michigan Central Railway. It became necessary to carry a grading or embankment of fifteen feet high across a low piece of ground, containing about 100 acres, nearly dry enough for plowland. When they had progressed with the grading for some distance, it became too heavy for the soil to support, the crust of the earth broke in, and the embankment sunk down into seventy-nine feet of water! It appears that the piece of ground had been a lake, but had collected a soil of roots, peat, muck, &c., on its surface, apparently from ten to fifteen feet thick, which had become hardened and dry enough for farm purposes. Mr. Brooks thought it would have supported an embankment of five feet thickness, and that if it had not been necessary for them to have one much heavier, it would have supported the road, and the fact might never have been discovered that it rested on the bosom of a lake.

Died,

In Lathrop, Oct. 27th Mr. HORACE WRIGHT aged 46 years.

DIED—At Bethany, Wayne Co., Pa., Sept. 18th, 1848, LAURA H., infant daughter of Dr Hamilton F. and Laura E. Whitney, of Jackson, Susquehanna Co., Pa.

Thus is the Doctor bereft of his entire family with the exception of one little girl. His wife Laura E., daughter of Pope and Sally Bushnell died in Jackson on the 15th of June last, in the 27th year of her age. The reading of obituary notices which bring to mind recollections of an endeared friend, naturally excites an inquiry into the cause and circumstances under which such friend left the world.

Mrs. Whitney was married at 19, was a young woman of fair promise, naturally cheerful and prepossessing in her manner, though not a professor of religion, was regular in attendance on public worship. By her friendly deportment, discretion, and prudence, she secured the respect and esteem of a large circle of friends in the vicinity of Jackson. During her last sickness her mind was deeply impressed with the importance of a preparation for death, and it is believed that God for Christ's sake pardoned her sins. She possessed her reason and faculties of speech to the last, to a remarkable degree. We were occasionally at her bed side during the few last days of her existence, and witnessed the alterations in the silent progress of a most complicated disease, which had already baffled, and defied, the healing art of man; and we shall never forget the calmness, perfect composure, and resignation, with which her soul appeared to be fortified at every stage of the fluctuating but resistless tide of death as it came gradually over her until at last in the full possession of her reason, and in the manifest enjoyment of a glorious hope of immortality, she resigned her spirit to Him who gave it.

A few days before her death, Elder Worden was, at her request, called into her room. She said to him, that she had more than once sent him from the bedside with a heavy heart, but that now, she had good news for him—his warnings, and prayers she believed, had been instrumental in bringing her to Christ. Her parents reached her residence in season to witness some of the last exercises of a mind upon which they had endeavored to impress religious truths. A short time before her death, she desired her husband and such other friends and neighbors, as were about the house might be called into her room. She looked upon the friends thus assembled and missed her infant babe, and desired it to be brought in. She then said with a full and steady voice, that on the previous Saturday her merciful heavenly father gave her a death warning to prepare her for her last earthly duty, and that now, he had given her an unmistakable evidence that her time was short. That the beauties of the natural world were fast fading; that neither the countenances of her friends, nor the light of the sun, looked as they once did.

She then made some inquiry in regard to her funeral; spoke of two different places of interment, said it was her dying request, that none of her friends dress in mourning on her account—that death was a dispensation of Providence which she had no desire to avoid—was sure it would be to her a passport to a heaven of rest, therefore her true friends ought not to mourn; said that she could not be sufficiently thankful that her heavenly father had given her such satisfactory evidence of her adoption into his heavenly family. She then bid an affectionate farewell to her neighbors in attendance, to her parents, and her only sister, desiring them to meet her in heaven.

She said to her husband that she had reserved some strength for him. Husband, said the dying and confiding wife, you need no further evidence of the insufficiency of human aid. Death marks his time and makes sure the victim. But be assured my dear husband that there is a "balm in Gilead" and a physycian there with power divine to save, and now that I am about to leave you I give you in charge those two little children. By the entreaties and prayers of a dying mother they have been commended to him who saith "suffer little children to come unto me." The babe will soon be by my side in the grave. But while they are in this world, they will need a father's aid, a father's prayers, and in the day of judgement their souls may be required at your hands. Doctor, my last prayer to God for you is, that you may become a new creature in Christ Jesus, and devote all your powers to the service of God, and these little children. Oh be faithful. She then called for her prayer book, and with her own hand turned from prayer to prayer, and selected a psalm of prayer, and desired it read, which was done. She responded Amen. Her husband had not entirely given her up. He begged her to be quiet, assured her such an effort was exhausting and injurious. Some restoratives were administered, and the enfeebled and flickering light of life brightened at intervals for a few hours; but soon the current of life eddied and ceased to flow, and her soul, as we humbly trust, rested in the Paradise of God. A solemn and appropriate sermon was delivered to a large and attentive assembly at the Baptist meeting house in Jackson, and her remains together with the dust of her infant, have found a resting place in that town.

[COMMUNICATED.

The Printer's Wants.

A load of wood from each of his wood paving subscribers forthwith, very badly. The season of bad roads is fast approaching, and we trust our friends who design to pay the printer in wood will take early occasion to supply our wants, that we may not be under the necessity of paying cash for it—a very scarce commodity with a printer (!) or going without.

ALSO—we want Grain of all kinds, Pork, Beef, Butter Cheese, Lard, Tallow, Potatoes, Apples, (green or dried) and almost everything that can be used in a family.

AND GENTLEMEN'S
OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.
No. 27 Cortland Street, New York.

STRANGERS and citizens desiring to replenish their wardrobes, may be immediately accommodated in the very best style, and at THE LOWEST CASH PRICES, with a choice selection of

of the latest patterns, of superior make and finish, and of the best materials, equal in every respect to the BEST CUSTOM WORK.

Having adopted the cash principle, upon which certain calculations may be made, and which he has pursued successfully for upwards of ten years, in direct opposition to the ruinous system of credit, which imposes the necessity of exacting unnecessarily high prices from paying customers; he continues to provide, and has now on hand one of THE LARGEST, MOST FASHIONABLE, AND

CHOICE ASSORTMENTS OF READY MADE CLOTHING

IN AMERICA, from which gentlemen may depend upon suiting themselves satisfactorily, in regards quality, style, and price. His large stock embraces OVERCOATS and CLOAKS of the most approved styles, DRESS, FROCK, and other COATS. Pantaloons of every desirable pattern, and the richest assortment of black satin, cassimere, and other styles of Winter Vests.

The Fancy Department

Embraces all the new and elegant patterns, and latest and most desirable styles of Fancy, Silk, and Satin Cravats, Suspenders, Gloves and Hosiery, Shirts, Bosoms and Collars, Carpet Bags, etc. etc.

In addition to the above variety of Ready Made Articles, he has for sale by the piece or yard, as low prices as can be found in either of the Atlantic cities, a beautiful assortment of the best quality of Cloths, Cassimeres, and Vestings.

☞ Gentlemen can have their orders filled at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States—and by sending their measures, can obtain clothing on as good terms as though they were present to select for themselves. Address J. O BOOTH.
Sept. 6th, 1848. 27 Cortland-st., N. Y.

☞ For the liberal share of patronage which has been extended to him for so many years, he returns unfeigned acknowledgments, and he promises that no efforts shall be spared on his part in future to continue to serve his customers on as favorable terms as any other house in the trade.

SPEECH.
Hon. D. Wilmot on the Proviso.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, whereas I have received of the latest edition of Scott's American Reports of Fashions, and have again established myself with its varied styles, I again present my claims to my numerous patrons, fully satisfied that I can meet their wishes and expectations, and also tender them my sincere thanks for past favors.

Something worth gazing at—the sequel is surveyed by John Groves that artist here in our garments of every description without an error.

N. B. Cutting done on the shortest notice, and ready pay is expected in return.

Shop immediately over Bentley's store.
Montrose, Sept. 1848. JOHN GROVES

Premium Colored
DAGUERREOTYPE LIKENESSES.

WILLIS GIBBS would inform the ladies and Gentlemen of Montrose and vicinity that he has taken rooms at Searle's Hotel, and is prepared to take Ministures by this wonderful process, daily, without regard to weather. He has at length succeeded in obtaining an apparatus by which he is enabled to produce Life like Likenesses in any weather and consequently without using the direct rays of the sun. Hitherto it has been generally supposed that sunshine was indispensable to the production of Daguerreotype Ministures, but the important improvements just perfected prove that this is a mistake. Those who have never enjoyed the opportunity of seeing a specimen of Photography can hardly form an adequate idea of the extreme perfection, beauty, and wonderful minuteness of a Daguerreotype Picture.

It is a work of Nature, not of Art—and as far surpasses the production of the pencil as all Nature's efforts do those of Man. In the creation of these picturesque light of Heaven alone constitutes the pencil and Nature the Artist.

Also—Likenesses will be taken from Painted Portraits, and from sick or deceased persons.

In no case will persons be obliged to take a Likeness unless it is perfectly satisfactory.

Instructions carefully given. Instruments, Apparatus, etc., for sale at the lowest prices.
