ALL POB THE SPOILS.—Scargely have the shouts of the victorious party died away, and a beautiful intesting war has already broken out among the keen seemted spoil-hunters of the Taylor party which is continually waxing fiercer and floroer, and bids fair, from present indications, to rive the "allied" army into frag- 596; Van Buren, 5,903. ments. Like the Republicans of France, they are becoming divided into almost as many factions as office-seekers and their name is legion or in other words, into "Taylor men of the day," of "the day before," and "the day after"-each faction becoming more and more clamorous day by day for the "spoils," and rigidly insisting that their rivals have no claims to them whatsoever. Their presses, too. have embarked fiercely in the contest, and their great men are dragged out, crowned with honors by the one side, and decapitated as eagerly by the other. It's a beautiful quarrel, beautifully conducted, which Democrats can derive peculiar pleasure in contemplating. Fight away, boys; but keep your eyes skinned, or the Democrats will have the "oyster" yet.

Tariff Facts.

The Reading Democratic Press contains an article headed "Facts for the Coal Regions," which, in reality contains facts for any region where the Federal Tariff panic clamor has reached. According to the figures in the Press, it will be been, that it is not the Tariff of '46 that is at fault in the pretended depression of the Coalsmarket, but if fault there is anywhere it is the over-production of the reckless speculators.

The following are the figures, quoted from a Whig Journal, too, showing the amount of coal imported under the Tariffs of 1842 and , 1846:

Amount imported in 1843, 41,163 Tons. 1844, 87,073 1845, 85,771 1846, 156,853 1847. 140,021

Thus clearly showing that while the importa-Ations of coal increased from 41,000 to nearly 157.000 tons under the Tariff of '42, they decreased to 140,000 tons under the Tariff of among the Whigs, says the Pennsylvanian, to 1846. Does any man in his senses, therefore, get nid of the Independent Treasury, which has still doubt that all this affected panic and de- done so much good for the country, that we pression in the coal interest is the result of feel anxious to know what the Whigs will give Museum.
