An Elequent Passage.

Extract from an oration recently delivered before the Literary Societies of the University of Vermont, by J. T. Headley, Esq.: "I have thus endeavored to make history illustrate my proposition, by watching the appearance of this principle at different periods, and studying its character, and gaugeing its strength. But the present, no less than the past, throws in its testimony; and even now, this strange, unconquerable principle is moving on, dragging the life and energy of the world after it. Oh, it is fearful to behold its strength, and the uphcates ings it has occasioned! Ever since the time of Christ, man has striven more or less resolutely, to get an acknowledgement, of his rights, either in religious or political matters, or in both. Despots have made use of old reverence-superstitous fearstrickery-falsehood-the dungeon-the bayonet and the scaffold, to silence his claims and overcome his arguments. Force has done much, for though

"Truth crushed to earth will rise again." it often requires " the eternal years of God," and men have 'succeeded in burying it fathoms deep. But the one of which I have been speaking, has had two wild resurrection; one in England, when Cromwell shouted over its grave, and one in France when the infuriated populace called it in shrieks from the burial of ages. Oh how man has struggled to be free-free to cat the bread his own hand has sown-free to breathe his houghts over the lyre, or utter them through the pages of his country's literature-free to lay the taxes he himself pays-free to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience .---See England convulsed, her House of Commons in tears, and the torch of civil war blazing over the land, and all for a principle-the principle of personal freedom. Behold this country, pouring out its blood like water-see it clothed in mourning-her children marching barefoot over the frozen ground, leaving their bloody testimonials on every foot of it they traversed ; nay, marching by hundreds into battle, and all for this one principle.

See France rent assunder, her 'streets flowing blood, and the loud beats of the alarm drum and the steady peal of the tocsin, and the heavy roll of the tumbrills going to and from the scaffold-the only music of Paris for years-and millions of men sacrificed, and yet this principle, some how or other, laying at the bottom of it all. Deceived as the fierce actors in this tragedy may have been, nud diverted, though for a while, might have been for personal safety or personal aggrandizement, yet the spellwords by which the storm was directed were "freedom and equal rights." Look at Europe, while the great Napoleonic drama was performing there is something more than the unrolling of banners and the pomp and majesty of arms. Great doad and majesty of arms. Great deeds are wrought, and glory is the guiding star to thousands, yet that long and fearful strug-le notwithstick the article strugthousands, yet that long and fearful strug-gle notwithstanding the various pretenses set forth, was with all its accompaniments. and waste of treasure, and loss of life, and suffering, simply an effort to stop the progsuffering, simply an effort to stop the prog-ress of this one preaciple. Here all the di-plomacy and hypericy of Europe are re-duced to a single element—the world in arms against equal rights. France "threw down the head of a king as a gauge of bat-tle, and the conflict was set. Cromwell's army shouting through the fight, and French patriots storming over entrenchments with testimony, they could bring you in 'not guilty,' is perfectly unaccountable to me.' 'Judge,' said the released culprit with a knowing wink, 'eight on 'em had some of the bacon "

The rascal knew perfectly well that the eminence of the counsel would shelter the jury for bringing in a verdict for the party Giranl for whom he might act.

A LITTLE TOO BAD .- Talking of fulse pretences, a gentleman of this city, recently married a woman reputed to be rich, who turned out to be not only poor, but seven hundred dollars in debt, which debt he had Easton to liquidate! She assured him however, that the debt was contracted for dry goods, which she bought te captivate him. #### " SUGAR COATED" PILLS. Beware ! Caution !

Beware ! Caution ! Beware ! Caution ! The increasing popularity of Dr. G. Benj. Rmithing improved Linkins, Vegetable sugar coated Pills ha induced a number of persons to make something they chill Futt's and 'coat them with sugar, in order to sell them for the genuine, while they do not pos-sess a particle of the goodness, nor even assimilated in application to the original Dr. Smith's Pills. In short, they are an intended FRAUD upon the com-monity. A minister who at first had an interest in an initiation sugar Coated Pill, manufactured in Al-bany, N. Y., has given them up, as he says, on ac-count of the miserable dishonest parties coulerned in manufacturing them. The same party are now industrionally circulating reports calculated to injure Dr. Smith and to affect the reputation of his valua-ble pills; bit rather than notice them in public, Dr. Smith is about to institute legal proceedings against them for their alanders, as he has in another case against'a smillar party, in which he recovered a harge amount of damages. These miserable inita-tors have to resort to the most abom/hable means to palm off their counterfielt pills, as the public know that Dr. Smith's are the original and genuine. Nev-eral instances have come to public notice in which life has been endangered by the infortunate use of the counterfaits, it is Dr. Smith's Pills that are do-ing so much good in the country—as the following plurally shows: Proventing the counterfaits. Here which theres. Pills than all others. This is to certify that I have used the sngar cont

From the Blue Hen's Chicken, (DeL) We call the intention of our readers to the certifi-cateof Rev. S. Williams, Pastor of 1st Baptist Church Pittsburgh, in relation to Dr. Smith's Pills. We cau Weean ourselves beit testimony to the excellence of these Pills, one of us having used them and experienced great relief from them. The above is the best paper in the state of Del.

The "inproved INDIAN. VEGETABLE PILLS." (SH-The "MinROVED INDIAN VEGETABLE FILLS." (su-gar coated.) ase certainly doing much good in the whole country, and are highly esteemed, if one half is true that people write and say about them. They are so easy in their operation that all like them.— The editor of the Northern State Journal! (one of the largest and best papers in the state of N. Y.) writes as follows:

Watertown, May 31, 1846. Dr. G. Benj. Smith-

Dr. G. Benj. Smith-Deur sir: I was haid up with a bad cold some time since my return from N. Y., and during my ill-ness I made trial of your pills, and I must say I found them excellent. They are the best medicine for the purpless they are intended that I have yet seen. I seldom take pills, but I found yours entire-liable. I hope they will continue to be a source of profit to you! as I donbt-not they will be a means of relief to the afficient on a large scale. Yours truly, J. GREEN. Yours truly, J. GREEN,

That a portion of the bacon was found in his actual possession. Under these circumstances, the Judge declined taking the fee, saying that he could do nothing for him, and that his conviction was certain.

'But, Judge,' said the prisoner, 'I want you to get up and talk to them.'

' It would do you no good, my man,' replied the Judge, the testimony cannot fail to convict you. I cannot conscientiously take your money.

'That's my look out, Judge," returned the prisoner. 'All I want of you is to get up and talk to 'em.'

The Judge, being thus pressed, told the man that he would undertake his defence but that it would be entirely furile.

The cause came on next day. The wit-nesses swore point Bank to the identity of the prisoner, his stelling and possession of the bacon. The Judge, according to promise, got up and addressed the Jury-talked to them in any other way than to the purpose, for about fifteen minutes and the case went to the Jury. What was his astonish-ment when they without leaving the box,
