"Out of their own months are they condemned." The Democrat of 4th March asserts, that this $102 54 item of expenditure in the Commissioner's account, "was for work the court generally, became responsible by kind being declined in one week: voluniary subscription-the fault-finding writes in the Advocate among the number. It so happened that the subscription paper got infshid or lost, when lo! those who had volunfeered to pay this, expense refused to pay the first farthing, and this same individual among the rest."

We are authorized to say that the assertion above copied, is a base, wilful and malicious falsehood, without even the semblance of truth for its mitigation, and manufactured by the editors of the "Organ" to screen their masters from an imputation of expend ing the People's money improvidently.

If the above statement were strictly correct, it occurs to us that the Commissioners stand self-condemed; because, if the alterations and improvements referred to were made on the strength of a subscription by the Court and Bar, that paper should not have been "mislaid or lost," but carefully preserved, and the obligors held responsible by the Commissioners, and thus an unnecessary expenditure of a large amount of the People's money avoided.

In Forest Lake, March 7th 1847, Mrs. OLIVE BALL, consort of Perry Ball, aged 66 years.

"The deceased was one of the early settlers of the western part of this county, having with her husband emigrated from Berkshire county, Mass., to the place of her late residence in 1811. She endured with much fortitude the deprivations, toils and difficulties; consequent to the settlement of a new country. In her life she was a pattern of piety, constantly and steadily manifesting that spirit of meekness and forbearance which the gospel of our Saviour so plainly inculcates. For the last thirty-five years of her life she was a constant member of the Baptist church of Middletown. Her loss will be deeply felt, not only by her bereaved husband and children, but by all who shared her acquaintance. Com. months and 11 days. Mrs. Bedeli wasan amiable woman, highly esteemed and beloved by her acquaintances. In her death her husband and 'numerous relatives have sustained an irreparable loss. She was greatly endeared to all her acquaintances, but among that numerous circle few knew her, real worth. Unassuming and retiring in her manners, she shed like the rose the sweetest fragrance of her character around those the most intimate with her. Those who knew her best, loved her most, and feel sorely afflicted in her death. The members of her family in particular have met with a severe loss, and may well grieve " as one that mourneth for his mother.". She managed well the affars of her own house, and her fireside was the abode of happiness. The consolution of the gospel was tendered to the mourners on the 13th inst., in the school house at Dimock Corners, from Mathew 24, 44, by Rev. A Brooks: "Therefore, be ye also ready for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh,"

THE TREASURY OF HISTORY. | Colds, Cocost, 150 Corts AFTION - WRING Comprising a general introductory outline Universal History, ancient and moddern, and a series of separate Histories of every principal nation that exists, their rise, progress, present condition, orc. BY SAMUEL MAUNDER, icrof the "Treasury of knowledge," "Biograph ical Treasury," "Literary and Scientif-ic Treasury," Sci, including THE HISTORY OF AMERICA,

EDITED BY JOHN INMAR, ESQ. EDITED BY JOHN INNAS, ESQ. The republication of this valuable work has been undertaken partly on account of the high favor with which i this been received in England, -but chiefly in consideration of its intrinsic value, arising from the felicitous adaption of the plan to a want that has been long and generally felt and from the judgment and fide ity manifested an its execution.— The idea of giving in a single work, of no very formidable dimensions, and at, a price which brings it within the reach of very moderate circumstances, a sufficient outline of the world's whole history, and similar outlines of the bistory of gevery nation, is so a sufficient obtaine of the works sewhole history, and similar outlines of the history of every nation, is so obviously judicious and appropriate as to require no enlogium. Every person who cares at all for the acquisition of useful knowledge thust desire to pos-sess such a general knowledge opast events, not ony in his own country but in all countries, as shall enable him to understand the perpetually recurring allusions that are found in almostany course of gen eral reading; because for want of such understand g there is always a serious dimination both o pleasure is areas a schous quantities board of such pleasure and profit, even in the perusit of such works as are designed chiefly for amusement. For instance, most of Sir Walter Scatts novels are found-sed open history, and abound will references to his-light events and personages, a want of some ac-quaintance with which detracts sectionsly from the interest and high they are the well or allight to interest, and delight they are so well qualified to awaken; and so of most other works belonging to the better class of what is called light literature.— But the difficulty has been to obtain this general knowledge without going through many books, re-quiring a greater expenditure of time and money than most persons are able or willing to afford; and to obviate such difficulty has been the purpose of Mr. Maunder.

His plan has the merit of completeness, and is un doubtedly the best that could have been desired.— He gives first a general sketch of incient and mod-ern history—a rapid and comprehensive birds-eye view, as it were, of the rise and progress of nations, the most important incidents of their career, and their relations to cach other; and after this he takes up the nations separately, furnishing a concise di-gest of all that is important or desirable to know reoncerning each, and thus affording a sort of key to the changes and events that were more briefly indi-cated, rather by their results than their incidents, in the general sketch of outline. Thus the salient points of bistory are brought within a managable compass; and an excellent foundation is laid for oro thoreugh and extensive reading in reference to any portion of the world, or any epch of which a complete knowledge may be desired. In the execution of this plan the author has been very successful. His notice of historical events, the brief, are lucid and satisfactory ; and he traces the connection of effect and cause with singular acumer and generally with most commerclable freedom from phittaility or bias; thus somplying a very food idea of the philosophy of history as well as the facts which history records. In a word, the work will be found invaluable to the general reader and a very useful balance the critical elp to the student.
