We have tried the Teas imported by the Pekin Tea Company, 75 and 27 Fulton street, and if we live will try them often. They are selling the most delicoius Teas we ever drunk, and retail them at wholesale prices.—Escaing Post.

You may be sure of obtaining at all times pure and highly flavored Teas, by the single pound at wholesale prices, of the Pekin Tea Company, 75 and 77 Fulton at. They have graduably the largest stockard greatest variety of fine Great and Black Teas, of any one stablishment in the United States. They are doing a large husiness, and are a great benefit to consumers of tea.—Miles.

Heretofore it has been very difficult, indeed, in possible, to obtain good Green and Black Teas. But now you have only to visit the wave-greate of the Pekin Tea Company, 75 and 77 Fulton at. to obtain as deficious and fragrant teas as you could wish for Dully Bess.

MISCELLANEOUS ADV'S.

THE TREASURY OF HISTORY. Comprising a general introductory outline Universal History, ancient and moddern, and a series of separate Histories of every principal nation that exists, their rise, progress, present condition, &c. BY SAMUEL MAUNDER.

author of the "Treasury of knowledge," Biographical Treasury," Literary and Scientific Treasury," &c., including THE HISTORY OF AMERICA,

EDITED BY JOHN INMAN, ESQ. The republication of this valuable work has been The republication of this valuable work has been undertaken partly on account of the high favor with which it has been received in England, but chiefly in consideration of its intrinsic value, arising from the felicitous adaption of the plan to a want that has been long and generally felt and from the judgment and fidelity manifested in its execution.—

The idea of giving in a single work, of no very formidable dimensions, and at a price which brings it within the reste of very moderate circumstances. a sunitare to detail to the history of every nation, is so obviously judicious and appropriate as to require no ealogium. Every person who cares at all for the ealogium. Every person who cares at all for the acquisition of useful knowledge must desire to possess such a general knowledge of past events, not only in his own country but in all countries, as shallnable him to understand the perpetually recurring allusions that are found in almost any course of gen eral reading; because for want of such understanding there is always a serious diminution both of pleasure and profit, even in the perusal of such works as are designed chiefly for amusement. For instance, most of Sir Walter Scott's novels are found ed upon history, and abound with references to his-toral events and personages, a want of some ac-quantance with which detracts scriously from the interest and delight they are so well qualified to awaken; and so of most other works belonging to the better class of what is called light literature. But the difficulty has been to obtain this general knowledge without going through many books, re-quiring a greater expenditure of time and money than most persons are able or willing to afford; and to obviate such difficulty has been the purpose of Mr. Maunder.

His plan has the merit of completeness, and is undoubtedly the best that could have been desired.

He gives first a general sketch of ancient and modern history—a rapid and comprehensive birds-eye view, as it were, of the rise and progress of nations, the most important incidents of their career, and their relations to each other; and after this he takes up the nations separately, furnishing a concise digest of all that is important or desirable to know concerning each, and thus affording a sort of key to the changes and events that were more briefly indi-cated, rather by their results than their incidents, in the general sketch or outline. Thus the salient points of history are brought within a managable mon sense, that the natural vegetable productions of every country are, if properly applied, amply sufference to more thorough and extensive reading in reference to any portion of the world, or any epech of which a complete knowledge may be desired.

In the execution of this plan the author has been very successful. His notice of historical events, the brief, are lucid and satisfactory; and he traces the connection of effect and cares with simples expenses. onnection of effect and cause with singular acumen and generally with most commendable reedom from partiality or bias; thus supplying a very good idea of the philosophy of history as well as the facts which history records. In a word, the work will be found invaluable to the general reader and a very useful help to the student.
