NEVER DESPAIR.

Philadelphia, July 26, 1846.

TO THE PUBLIC—I certify that before my remembrance I became afflicted with what the Physicians call Scrolula. It made its first appearance by pain and swelling of the joints—more especially of my ankles, kneed, wrists and elbows, after which the glands of my throat and neck became inflamed and swelled, attended with the most envorcinating pain. I was often confined entirely to my bed, and for weeks tegether could not turn my neck or my head. Several physicians attended me at different times, but they did not appear to do me any good.

About a year ago I was attacked with vomiting, which continued every few minutes all one night. The next day an eruption appeared on the sides of which continued every few minutes all one night. The next day an eruption appeared on the sides of my neck, which soon spread all over my neck, which soon spread all over my neck, which soon spread all over my neck, which destroyed my eye lashes, and caused eye-lids, which destroyed my eye lashes, and caused the heir to fall off my head, and soon the disease appeared all over me-my timbs were one entire scap appeared all over me-my timbs were one entire scap some of my langer nails came off.
