

A STRANGE RUMOR. There are some people in Dublin, who notwithstanding the O'Connell funeral, entertain doubts that O'Connell is dead; and some almost believe that having escaped from the troubles which prevailed in Ireland, he is enjoying himself at a villa on the Lake of Como. The story tells that a letter has been received from Milan, mentioning that a striking stranger of portly dimensions, looking eyes, and huge black mustachios, evidently false, had lately appeared in the vicinity of the Villa d'Este. He goes by the name of Don Diego de Torma, and passes for a Spanish nobleman, a character for which his external appearance and manners seem but indifferently qualified. In Dublin, it is thought that this gentleman may have as much right to the prefix of Dan as Don.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT news from the South.—The following extract of a letter from a very respectable merchant in Washington Co. Va. is dated May 26, 1846.

Dr. D. Jayne—Dear Sir—Our Mr. Jones has been in a very bad state of health for more than a year. He has had the benefit of the best medical advice in our country, and also visited your city during last summer but found no relief. On the 15th of April last, we purchased half a dozen bottles of your Tonic Vermifuge, and half a dozen boxes of your Pain Killer. Through carelessness in packing the articles in a dry goods box, one of the bottles of the Pain Killer, and one of the boxes of the Vermifuge, after taking a few boxes, felt a decided improvement. The three bottles of Vermifuge, which came safe to hand, brought from him, he thinks, not less than one hundred worms, and perhaps many more. He is now in better health than he has been in for many years, and we hope a few more bottles of your Vermifuge and Pills will effect a permanent cure. All our physicians have entirely mistaken the case. Prof. Samuel Jackson of your city at Mr. Jones is most anxious to get more of your Pills and Vermifuge as soon as possible.

Respectfully,
J. B. JONES & Co.

Prepared only by Dr. D. Jayne, Philadelphia, and sold on agency by N. MITCHELL & Co. Drugists, Montrose, where may be had Jayne's Ague Pills, warranted to cure Fever and Ague, Intermittent fever, &c. Also the American Hair Dye, also warranted to change the hair to a beautiful Auburn or jet black color, without staining the skin.

Deaths.

In Bridgewater, Nov. 13th, at the residence of his Grandfather, FREDERIC M., eldest child of Daniel A. Lathrop, M. D., of Bellevue, Ohio, aged 10 years and 6 months.

Frederic left his parents about two months since, and came with his uncle and younger brother, to spend the winter with his relations in this county.—He seemed in good health until about three weeks before his death, when he was severely attacked with the bilious fever, which resulted in his death; thus, most unexpectedly was he taken away. His parents, in their distant home, will mourn their loss, without having the mournful gratification of seeing his inanimate clay. They must grieve—and their grief will be deep. Every parent who reads this will sympathize with them; and pray unto Him who hath smitten them, they may be enabled to say, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord." They will not sorrow as those without hope, for the Redeemer hath said, "suffer little children to come unto me."

—(Com.)

At his residence in Milton, West Florida, on the 24th Oct. last, after a lingering illness, Mr. JAMES CATTIN, formerly of this county, and son of the late Putnam Cattin, Esq. of Great Bend.

Mr. Cattin will long be remembered by his many friends in this vicinity, with whom, in his youthful days, he was wont to associate; and the announcement of his death, at his far-off home, will bring to their recollection many pleasant reminiscences of boyish days. He was a practical printer, and for some time edited and published the "Montrose Gazette," the first paper established in this county. But he has gone at last, "sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust" in the goodness and mercy of God, he has passed from the cares and vicissitudes of life to a purer and happier existence.—[Com.]

There's a stranger, I am anxious to get JOHN GROVES, the greatest TAILOR in the world, to cut me a coat, for everybody in our neighborhood says he is the best Tailor. He has just received the Latest Fashions from the City, and I am not going to wait until everybody else is suited and come out second best; I know that you do, for I am a man of as good taste as anybody, and Groves is just the man to suit me. I have heard the most of folks say that he can cut a coat to fit any one, whatever may be his shape. Do you believe it?—Yes, I believe every body says must be true. A new system of cutting dispenses all foreign and real violation of Nature's laws, and stands upon its own independent basis. Why, I tell you, I am as sure as the four first rates of arithmetic, Well, then, after your recommendation, I will have him cut my coat. I have always had such a hard luck, but with the new proof staring me in the face, I will get with the crowd, and recommend to all who care about good taste and want to be suited, to call at the tailor shop two doors below the Farmer's Store.

NEW WORK.

Chambers' Miscellany

OF USEFUL & ENTERTAINING KNOWLEDGE. Edited by ROBERT CHAMBERS, Author of "Cyclopaedia of English Literature," "with Elegant Illustrations." Price 25 Cents per No.

GOULD, KENDALL & LINCOLN are happy to announce that they have completed arrangements with Messrs. Chambers, Editors of the "Miscellany," in semi-monthly numbers, of CHAMBERS' MISCELLANY.

The design of the MISCELLANY is to supply the increasing demand for useful, instructive, and entertaining reading, and to bring all the ablest literature to bear on cultivation of the mind, and on the improvement of the people—to impress correct views on important moral and social questions—to suppress every species of strife and savagery—their lagging and desponding, by the relation of tales drawn from the imagination, popular writings—the fancy, by descriptions of interesting foreign scenery—a zest to every-day occupations, by ballad and lyrical poetry—in short, to furnish an unobtrusive friend and guide, a lively friendly companion, as far as the object can be obtained through the instrumentality of books.

The universally acknowledged merits of the Cyclopaedia of English Literature, by the same author, connected with its rapid sale, and the unbounded commendation bestowed by the press, gives the publishers full confidence in the real value and entire success of the present work.

The publication has already commenced, and will be continued semi-monthly. Each number will form a complete work, and every third number will be furnished with a full and able volume of contents, thus forming a beautifully illustrated volume of 500 pages of useful and entertaining reading, adapted to every class of readers. The whole to be completed in THIRTY NUMBERS, forming TEN ELEGANT VOLUMES.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

We are glad to see an American issue of this publication, and especially in so convenient a form. It is an admirable compilation, distinguished by the good taste which has been shown in all the publications of the Chambers, Edinburgh, series, and is, in our opinion, a most valuable and interesting work. We hope its circulation here will be large enough to supplant, to a good extent, the many penny and immoral works which have so long been so widely circulated.

From the Mercantile Journal, Boston.

A most valuable work, one that every one should possess. Edited by Robert Chambers, whose industry and talent and upright character are well known, and must secure for the work before us an extensive circulation.

From the New York Observer.

A most interesting and pleasant reading, which we commend to families.

From the Christian Union, Boston.

This is one of the most charming books that has fallen under our notice for a long time. Indeed we feel that we must bid it a most cordial welcome. It is in England there are more such works, let's have them.

From the Westfield Standard.

We are prepared to recommend it without reserve, to every lover of refined and solid literature.

Truly useful and entertaining work. No men are better known than Messrs. Chambers, of Edinburgh, for their happy taste of spreading knowledge before the public—and this is done too, in so cheap a manner that the reading of the work is not only profitable, but also a pleasure. The friends of general education for the interest they have taken in circulating the work of this side of the Atlantic. We trust they may be amply rewarded by the favor of the community.

From the Progress Courier, N. Y.

Our readers will bear us witness that we are not in the habit of "puffing" indiscriminately the periodical and serial publications of the day, but so impressed are we, from such indications as have been afforded, and from the character of the editor and publishers of this Miscellany, that it will prove an entertaining and useful work, and especially valuable to those who are forming their reading habits, and to parents who would cultivate a correct taste in their children, that we cannot refrain from thus in advance recommending it to our readers.

From the Liberator, New York.

The devoted services of Chambers' Cyclopaedia of English Literature has encouraged the publishers to commence re-printing this equally popular series. It is a more desirable and precious than the Cyclopaedia, but is completed and prepared for the press.
