"No pent up Utics controls our powers, But the whole boundless Continent is ours." Oregon is his, the "lone Star" is in our constellation, Mexico appears in the last throes of independent existance, and now Californis, healthy and most desirably located on the Pacific, is fast being colonized and settled by his people. Truly, "Westward the star of Empire takes its way."

I hear that great preparations are being made throughout the country to celebrate the 4th of July among the people, among whom I am glad to hear is Gen. Vallajo, who was formerly commandant of the Spanish troops in California. I have an opportunity of sending this by Com. Stockton, and as the train leaves in a few minutes, I Yours Truly, must close.

Santa Anna's Farewell to the Army. Headquarters, Huamantla, Oct. 10, 1847. The General-in chief to his companions in Arms.

My Friends-When we anticipated obtaining a triumph for our country over our invaders, according to the combinations to which you are no strangers, and while I was exclusively occupied in carrying on hostilities against the enemy, as you well knom, which object alone brought us this way, I received the surprising communication of Don Luis de la Rosa, Minister of State and War, in which he informs me that by order of His Excellency the President of the Supreme court of Justice, charged with the Supreme Executive power, by the appointment which I made to that effect in my decree of the 16th of last September, I am to deliver the command of this body of troops to his Excellency General of Division, Don Manuel Rincon, or to Don Juan Alvarez. holding the same rank. Although against so strange a procedure I could urge many objections, as I will do in due time before the nation, in order to preserve the dignity of the appointment which the Sovereign Constitutional Congress made in my person ad interim, yet delicacy and patriotism induced me to obey without reply the individunl who has just received from my hands the power which the nation had just confided to me, and which I merely relinquished in order to carry on the war against our unjust invaders. I do not wish to furnish a pretext to my implacable enemies to calummate me, nor to have it said that I avoided presenting myself to answer for my conduct as a public man. /

Don't stop me, stranger, I am anxions to get JOHN GROVES, the greatest TAILOR in the world, to cut me a coat, for everybody in our neighborhood says he is the best Tailor. He has just received the Latest Fashions from the City, and I am not going to wait until everybody else is suited and come out second best; you know that won't do, for I am a man of as good taste as anybody, and Groves is just the man to suit me. I have heard the most of folks say that he can cut a coat to fit any one, whatever may be his shape. Do you believe it! Yes-for what everybody says must be true. A true system of cutting disclaims all foreign aid—all violation of Nature's laws, and stands upon its own intrinsic mer-its. Why, I tell you he is as sure as the four first rules of arithmetic. Well, then, after your recomrules of arithmetic: Well, then, after your recommendation, I will have him cut out my cloths—for I have always had such tarnal bad luck. But with such proof staring me in the face I will go with the crowd, and recommend to all who care about good taste and wish to be suited, to call at the tailor shop two doors below the Farmer's Store. Chambers' Miscellany with Mesers. Chambers, of Euthburgh, for the republication, in semi-monthly numbers, of Chambers's Miscellany.

The design of the Miscellany is to supply the increasing demand for useful, instructive, and extertaining reading, and to bring all the aids of liferature to bear on cultivation of the feelings and understanding and the sealest in universe correct views on ture to bear on cultivation of the feelings and uniterstandings of the people—to impress correct views on important moral and social questions—suppress every species of strife and savagery—theer the lagging and desponding, by the relation of tales drawn from the imaginations of popular writers—rouse the fancy, by descriptions of interesting foreign scenes—give a zest to every-day occupations, by ballad and lyrical poetry—in short, to furnish an unobtrusive friend and guider a lively fireside companion, as far as that object can be obtained through the instrumentality of books.

The universally acknowledged merits of the Cyclopedia of English Literature, by the same author, connected with its rapid sale, and the unbounded commendation bestowed by the press, gives the publishers full confidence in the real value and entire success of the present work.

The publication has stready commenced, and will be continued semi-monthly. Each number will form a complete work, and every third number will be furnished with a title page and table of contents, thus forming a beautifully illustrated volume of over 500 pages of useful and entertaining reading, adapted to every class of readers. The whole to be completed in THIRTY NUMBERS, forming TEN ELEGANT OLUMES. Notices of the Press.

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.
We are glad to see an American issue of this publication, and especially in so convenient a form.

It is an admirable compilation, distinguished by the good tasts which has been shown in all the publications of the Messrs. Chambers. It unites the useful

From the Palstyra Courier, N. Y.

Our readers will bear us witness that we are not in the habit of "puffing" indiscriminately the periodical and serial publications of the day, but so impressed are we, from such indications as have been afforded, and from the character of the editor and publishers of this Miscellany, that it will prove an entertaining and useful work, and especially valuable to lishers of this Miscellany, that it will prove an enter-taining and useful work, and especially valuable to those who lare forming their reading labits, and to parents who would cultivate a correct taste in their children, that we fannot refrain from their in ad-vance asking attention to it.
