Religion.

Whatever of excellence is wrought in the soul itsell, belongs to both worlds. Real goodness does not attach itself to-the present life; belongs to another world.

Political and professional fame cannot last forever, but a conscience void of offence before God and man, is an inheritance for eternity.

Religion, therefore, is a necessary and almost indispensable element in any human character. There is no living without it. Religion is the, tie which connects man with his Creator and binds him to His throne.

If that tie is sundered or broken, he floats away a worthless atom in the universe, its proper attraction all gone, its and save it speedily. destiny thwarted, and its whole future nothing but darkness, desolation and death. A man with no sense of religious duty is he whom the Scriptures describe--in so terse hus terrifio manner-as living without God in the world. Such a man is out of his proper being—out of the circle of all his happiness, and away, far away from the purposes of his creation - Dan'l Webster.
