It is Dying Out.—The rebellion is by no means over, but it is fading fast. It has not yet died out, for wickedness of that kind dies hard, and struggles desperately to avert its fate, but it is growing weak and thin.

The conspirators who sought to effect, by the cannon's roar, a dissolution of the Union must be sadly enough convinced, by this time, of the frightful delusion under which they labored.

To all loyal men, this dying out of the rebellion must be a source of satisfaction. We cannot hope to see it expire at once. It may be months before we witness its last gasp.

Articles That Should be Taxed.—As a means of raising additional revenue to meet the expenses of the war, it is suggested that Congress impose a tax of one dollar upon every man under sixty who carries a cane;

The official despatch about the occupation of Washington, North Carolina, has been received. The expedition consisted of two gunboats and eight hundred men from a Massachusetts regiment, but no opposition was offered to their taking of the place.

The rebels prefer drawing up their forces on the highest ground they can find, so that when the running time comes it shall be all the way down hill.

The Advance on Yorktown. Capture of Ship Point—Skirmishing on the Outposts.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Fortress Monroe boat to Baltimore brings information from the neighborhood of Yorktown up to Saturday afternoon.

Ship Point has been taken by our troops, and other places on the route formerly occupied by the rebels.

Some skirmishing and cannonading had taken place between the outposts of the enemy and our forces, in which a number of casualties are said to have occurred.

The following is a general summary of the intelligence received by the War Department up to 10 o'clock this Monday night.

First.—Operations at Yorktown and Fortress Monroe. Yesterday the enemy's works were carefully examined by Gen. McClellan, and were found to be very strong, and the approaches difficult.

Our forces were receiving supplies from Ship Point, repairing roads and getting up large trains. It seemed plain that mortars and siege trains must be used before assaulting the place.

Another dispatch was received at 10.30 this A. M., states that Yorktown will fall, but not without a siege of two or three days.

A dispatch from Gen. Wool states that Gen. Magruder had thirty thousand men at Yorktown.

The Old Flag over the Grave of Jackson.—It will gratify many to learn that the Stars and Stripes again float over the tomb of the old hero who so emphatically declared that 'the Union must and shall be preserved.'

Yesterday General Nelson made a reconnaissance in force towards Lebanon. He took with him the Second Cavalry, three batteries of artillery and five regiments of infantry.

The country between Island No. 10 and N. Madrid, on the east side of the river is being secured by our troops.

The entire rebel force, at and about Island No 10, are either taken prisoners or utterly routed and demoralized.
