

VILLAGE RECORD

WAYNEBORO

Friday, March 13, 1863.

Future Seat—The seat for the first meeting of the Board of Health will be held on Friday, March 13, 1863.

Preaching.—The Rev. Dr. Doney will preach in the Union Church, in this place, on Sabbath evening next. He has accepted a call from the Lutheran congregation composing the Wayneboro' Church, and is shortly to leave to make this his place of residence.

Another Arrival.—F. FOURTEMAN has just returned from Philadelphia with a stock of fresh drugs, medicines, oils, paints, confections, notions, &c. Call and examine his stock.

Auction.—It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that Mr. JOHN HARBAUGH, jr., purposes disposing of his stock of goods at the Marsh store at auction, commencing on the 25th inst.

Furniture Sale.—We call special attention to the furniture sale advertised in another column by Messrs. BENDIX & HENNEBERGER.

Apology.—We have been compelled to print a portion of this edition upon a very indifferent article of paper. The manufacturer has doubled the price of paper and yet imposes upon us an article not fit for use. The reader will therefore excuse the appearance of our sheet until arrangements can be made to remedy the evil.

School.—Prof. T. L. BUDD's school for both sexes, will be opened at the Eastern School House, on Monday the 20th inst.

The Editor in Danger.—Some of the frail sex in this place have a poor opinion of the Record. They want the concern "busted"—the editor "mobbed," "starved and feathered," &c., &c. Some of them swear great oaths and frighten the Devil. They have carried it out on broom-sticks and handles, and have disposed of it in nameless other ways. A communication from our army correspondent will be found in another column which will doubtless prove interesting to this particular class.

Slang.—A man in this place, a most venomous "copperhead," who has been branded with the crime of perjury and that of amalgamation, not long since was overheard fibeling our character in a village store not far from this town. We prefer the abuse of such a beast to his praise, conscious that the former can do us no harm, whilst the latter might.

Disgraceful.—The Pennsylvania Legislature refused by a strict party vote the hall of the House of Representatives to Gov. Andy Johnson, of Tennessee, and Governor Wright, of Indiana, who visited Harrisburg for the purpose of addressing the people.—We doubt not but this act, infamous and disgraceful as it is, will be applauded by the "copperheads" here and elsewhere.

Treasonable Document.—We understand that several of the prominent "copperheads" of this place have recently been engaged in distributing a printed speech delivered by the Ohio traitor, Vallandigham. The Ohio volunteers hung his traitor in effigy and threatened to tar and feather him more than a year ago. Here parties applaud the villain and seek to give him notoriety by disseminating his treasonable documents among the people.

The Election.—The election for Borough and Township officers will be held in this place, on Friday next, the 20th. It is important to select individuals worthy and competent to fill these offices, consequently there should be a general attendance at the polls.

The 87th Pennsylvania.—At a recent meeting of the officers of the 87th Pennsylvania Regiment of Volunteers, held at Winchester, Va., a series of resolutions were reported sanctioning the action of the President and Congress in their efforts to crush the Rebellion, and rebuking Northern sympathizers with treason in the most emphatic language. For the benefit of Vallandigham shirkers in this section we quote one resolution:

Resolved, That the forces now in open armed rebellion are not so much despised, or so thoroughly detested, as the army traitors sympathizing with them at home's locusts, who have sold their birthrights for a cup of session potato, and whose example, it is profoundly hoped, they may abundantly follow ere their vile proclivities lead them into a more open conflict with the Government to which they owe life, liberty and citizenship.

It has been ascertained that a number of Banks in Pennsylvania, since the suspension, have sold gold and silver coin at a premium of three times the par value. The Legislature have very properly passed a law to this effect, by which an act was passed that any Bank that does this...

ARMY CORRESPONDENCE

Quincy, March 11, 1863.

The Copperheads in 1863. The copperheads of 1863 are not the copperheads of 1861. They are not the same men, and they are not the same thing. They are not the same men, and they are not the same thing. They are not the same men, and they are not the same thing.

A grand Review of the 18th Army Corps, took place yesterday. The evening previous we were ordered to be in readiness at 6 o'clock the next morning. The morning broke in beauty; the sun rolled up the eastern horizon like a boiled lobster, and shone in majestic splendor out of a cloudless sky; the air was soft and serene; the spring birds were warbling their choicest notes; everything breathed a brilliant review.

Our camp being located near the spot selected, our Brigade was first on the ground, and draws up by Regiments immediately in front of the position, where the troops were in "march in Review." We were hardly arranged by the 1st Colonel—the Colonel being absent—when from every side, came whistling the martial strains of bands of music; the bright sunbeams blazed from thousands of polished bayonets and sabers, and the appearance of the regiments, as they came marching rapidly into view, the cavalry flashing along in full array, and the artillery whirling off in proper order, was magnificent beyond description. Now the artillery thundered a welcome to Gen. Foster and staff as they flashed into view; the bands struck up "Hail to the Chief, and the long roll thrilled along the line. Forthwith the regiments broke into "columns of companies," and the "march in Review" commenced. General Foster is a noble looking officer, portly, but erect, and seemingly in the prime of manhood. His countenance is expressive of firmness and decision; ex-ordinary qualities in a commanding officer, while his polished address and suave manners, bespeak the well bred gentleman. When the company of his undersigned passed the post, himself and his elegant Lieutenant moved first, as mullen-stalks; and a smile waved over the General's rufous face, when saluted. Though Reviews are wearisome in consequence of the fact, that one must remain standing about six hours, in line; yet the ever-changing scenes; the brilliancy of display, the dashing, hither and thither of aids, beguiles one's attention so completely, that he "takes no note of time." Reviews generally indicate movements; but as we belong to Brigadier Brindle's Brigade, the impression is general that we will remain here.

COOK WANTED.—On the departure of our lively servant Napoleon Hannibal Jackson, we immediately advertised for another; but a day elapsed before an applicant presented himself, with strong self-recommending appeals for the position. Externally he was clean and eligible. I told him that we had lately been unfortunate in having a servant who was densely inhabited by apices of a most obnoxious species; he avowed that he had "none of them." I told him he must undergo an examination. He consented. I gave command; Draw coat off came the coat shirt; He was about to obey when my first Lieut. observed an outsider big as a grain of wheat; I raised the curtain and commanded, backward march! with the precautionary command to step lightly, fearing the detested creatures would drop off.

Now we abominate these little apices equally with those bimanous wretches, that infest the North, and drag their slimy length along the body politic, to irritate and madden, to beslime and render foul, the whole mass, so that it may easily fall under like apples of Sodom, at the first blast of Treason's storm, so assiduously attempted to be raised. Hence friends of your country! patrons of Liberty do not allow yourselves to come in contact with these miserable wretches, who throw themselves in your way, whenever possible; who, though generally of the whiskey drinking, "mud-sill" order, yet sometimes endeavor to worm themselves into respectable society, and with head erect strut your streets to insult, if it be possible, those who are infinitely their superiors. Professing disciples of Jeff. Davis, they seem to imagine that an aristocratic air is thereby reflected upon them, forgetting that without that and virtue there is no greatness; and that a borrowed effulgence serves but to exhibit more strongly negative deformity, to illuminate the hideous blackness that is painted upon them by the pencil of that arch-traitor, the Devil. Instead of carefully concealing their traitorous passions, as wisdom would dictate, this fallacious pride stimulates them so completely, that they are unable to control them.

In my last I showed them up; constitutionally now I learn from private sources that they have, pro-tem, laid aside that threat, to vent their spleen upon the Emancipation Proclamation. They will doubtless busy themselves in fabricating and propagating such stories as they formerly did, respecting the status of the army; which as a uniformly and unqualifiedly false; for the army is willing to see any step taken that will serve to crush the enemy. The soldier will not foolishly oppose the marching of a negro Brigade against the enemy; especially when he is wearied by constant fighting and marching. Oh! but say these miscreants, the negro will be put on an equality with the white; the old song now have not their miserable sheets argued the last five years that this thing of equality is impossible? No man, nor any body of men can effect this. But they say, the whites should be brave and patriotic enough to do this themselves! Then why are they not engaged? The miserable cowardly One company of ordinary niggers, would whip a whole regiment of such jackasses; for you know reader! what pretensions this breed of whelps may make to courage, who unfortunately curse your surroundings; and take them all in all, are they equal in virtue, sobriety, and courage to the same number of niggers, you have or do not know? Oh! but you must not subordinate the Rebels! By the eternal, we must stand with them too. The faithful niggers' baser than open Rebels, whose allies they claim to be, and yet are too dastardly to join them through mere cowardice! A baser, meaner, more ignoble, more woful and therefore more contemptible set of North-peds, than these copperheads of the North, were never begotten in Africa. And, moreover, what shall I say of the woman, whose silly heads have been turned by the Southern air? It is said that when woman falls, her course into the lowest depths of degradation, is rapidly run; all the barriers erected by society to restrain her are dashed antithetically down; she plunges into utter darkness like a blinding ship! Hence, she speeds upon the very gales of treason! Thoughtlessly she buys up programs for the

Battle of Spring Hill

Surrender of Col. Coburn's Brigade

Depot at the evening of the 11th inst. (Saturday), and the 12th inst. (Sunday) at the recent fight at Thompson's Station, near Franklin, Tennessee, there was evidence that Col. Coburn omitted any precaution to guard against surprise. On the contrary, there was no surprise or ambush.

The rebel General Van Dorn was known to be in force in front, and the brigade of the Union forces was slowly advancing when the rebels appeared in overwhelming numbers.

They engaged us in front and on both flanks.

The 12th Wisconsin, 69th Michigan, and 38th and 88th Indiana were completely surrounded and compelled to surrender.

On the following day under a flag of truce, Col. Opdyke learned from the rebel court that they had buried about 30 Federal privates, killed outright, and that some 20 had died of their wounds. The Federal loss was from 250 to 300 wounded.

No Federal officers were killed, and but one colonel, J. F. Baird, of the 80th Indiana, was wounded, and his injury was slight.

The rebels admit having had a force of from 15,000 to 20,000 men belonging to General Van Dorn's division. They say sixteen rebel brigadier generals were on the field. The actual rebel force was twelve thousand; engaged, they acknowledge a loss of one colonel, together with several line officers. Their loss was 180 killed and a proportionate number wounded.

Colonel Coburn surrendered his command in person to General Forrest. The 22d Wisconsin lost 159 privates and commissioned officers, including Colonel Gilbert.

The 38th Indiana lost 440 privates and commissioned officers, including Lieutenant Colonel Henderson. The 85th Indiana lost 260 privates and commissioned officers, including Colonel J. P. Baird, slightly wounded. Adjutant H. B. Adams, of Col. Coburn's staff, was in the rear, urging forward the ammunition wagons, and was cut off by the rebels and escaped capture.

Exciting News from Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 9.—A collision between the military and the Mormon citizens is imminent.

Governor Harding and Associate Justices Wurtz and Drake, it is understood, have called upon Col. Conner to arrest Brigham Young and Counselors Kimball and Wells.

The Judge of the District Court can serve any civil process, but the citizens are in arms, determined to prevent the arrest of their leaders.

Other Federal officers and the Mormon citizens have telegraphed General Wright to restrain Col. Conner till an investigation can be had.

A colonel of the United States Army, who had left for Washington, has been arrested by Colonel Conner, and brought back.

It is presumed that his intentions were unfavorable to Colonel Conner's military interference.

Brilliant Affair at Unionville.

CINCINNATI, March 9.—I learn from Nashville, that a division of cavalry, under Acting Brigadier General Minty, attacked Russell's rebel cavalry at Unionville, ten miles southeast of Murfreesboro', on Saturday, the 7th inst. They captured twenty-one wagons, twenty-five tons, eighty-five mules, five horses, all the camp equipment, and the uniform of Colonel Russell, together with two captains, three lieutenants, and fifty-three privates. Two Federals were slightly wounded. The rebels lost fifty killed and one hundred and eighty wounded, all by sabre strokes. The 7th Pennsylvania and 4th Michigan did the work.

Army of the Shenandoah

Contradiction of a Ridiculous Rumor—No Rebels in the Vicinity of Winchester—Gen. Kelly in Command.

HARPER'S FERRY, March 10.—Great surprise is felt here at the reports in Washington and elsewhere of a disaster at Winchester by the return of the rebels in force to the Virginia Valley. There is not only no preparation exists in that quarter, as well as hereabouts; that they defiantly invite any attempt the enemy can make upon us, unless his whole army in front of Fredericksburg should be moved up; which is well known that General Hooker will not permit, even if the bad roads would.

General Kelly is still in command, under General Schenck.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 7.—Mr. Gilstrap introduced a bill in the Senate to-day for the gradual extinction of slavery in Missouri, which was read twice, and ordered to be printed. The bill provides that all children born of slave mothers after the 4th of July, 1868, shall be born free; all such children to be apprenticed to the owners of their mothers till they arrive at the age of 21 years; and all children born of such apprentices shall be apprenticed to the master, or person to whom their mother is apprenticed until such mother reaches the age of 21; the terms of apprenticeship to conform with the general act concerning apprentices passed 1855.

A correspondent with General Grant's army writes—"Negroes are coming in great numbers to the portion of our army at Lake Providence. Not less than a thousand have made their appearance, all telling fearful stories of the brutality of their masters. Four hundred came into our lines in a single half day, and the influx has not yet ceased. The proportion of able-bodied men among them is larger than usual, and we have but few decrepit Africans in the entire lot. The negroes display a willingness to perform all that is asked of them. It is now said to be in contemplation to organize two or three regiments from the colored material at hand, and the prospect is that it will soon be done."

The old emigration fever, which carried off so many of our Washington county people, has been remarkably revived by Maryland's proximity to the seat of war, and during the ensuing spring a number of our substantial citizens will follow the "star of empire" in its Westward course.

Decided.—T. J. C. M'GRATH, son of ex-Sheriff M'Grath, of this county, died in camp, near Front Royal, Va., of Typhoid fever, on the 5th inst.

ECONOMY NEWS SHEET.

May 22, 1863.

The meeting which was held at New York City, on Friday night, and addressed by such men as James T. Brady, Judge Post and Van Buren, is one of the most significant signs of the times. Mr. Post expressed his hearty support of the President, and approved of the acts giving him full control of the purse and the sword. There should be no outcry against extraordinary measures taken from fear that they would be necessary to suppress the rebellion, and that the Union would be destroyed by the rebellion. He would sustain this war to the bitter end, and that by united action that might be reached in this crisis.
