The first battle took place on the 7th, in vhich the Union cavalry, after skirmishing with the enemy and driving them for fourteen miles, until they got two miles beyond Pleasant Hill, came upon twenty-five hundred rebel cavalry, posted in a strong tion, under General Greene. They were charged upon by the Federal cavalry, and, navy the Commanding General tenders his after a spirited contest, driven off the field thanks for their hearty co-operation with the Our losses were about forty-killed and wounded; that of the enemy about as heavy.

THE SECOND DAY'S BATTLE. On the 8th, Col. There was brisk skirgranted an unconditional pardon by Govern- mishing, and finally the rebels came on in force, Generals Banks and Ransom being upon the field. Franklin was sent for, but before he came up the rebel successes had been great. They made desperate charges in mass, and were desperately resisted. The losses on both sides were frightful. Finally, after Franklin had come up, the whole Federal force was driven back three and a half miles. but the enemy were checked, with fearful slaughter, by two brigades under Gen. Em ory. Night ended the contest. The Federals were under Banks, Ransom, Stone, and Lee. Many guns were lost. On the rebel

SURRENDER OF PLYMOUTH. CAPTURE OF THE GARRISON.

Another Massacre of Prisoners.

FORT MONROE, April 24 .- Capt. Weathorbee, of the 23d Massachusetts Regiment,

NEWBURN, N. C., April 22, (via Fortress Monroe, April 24.)—Plymouth was captured by the enemy at 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning:

General Wessels and his brave force of Tuesday, driving them back with severe loss in every assault, but was finally obliged to surrender to superior numbers. Two full companies of the 2d North Caro-of the deepest sorrow the Commanding General announces the fall of Plymouth, N. C., and the capture of its gallant commander, Brigadier General H. W. Wessels, and his command.

This result, however, did not obtain until after the most gallant and determined resistance had been made. Five times the enemy stormed the lines of the General and as many times were they handsomely repulsed DALENA STRITE, aged 83 years, 1 month with great slaughter; but for the powerful assistance of the Rebel iron-olad ram and the floating iron shurpshooter battery on the Cotton Plant, Plymouth would still have been in our hands.

For their noble defence the gallant Genthe warmest thanks of the whole country, while all will sympathize with them in their misfortunes. To the officers and men of the army, and the bravery, determination and coolness that marked their part of the unequal contest. With sorrow he records the death of the noble sailor and gallant patriot, Lieutenant Commander C. W. Flusser, United States Navy, who, in the heat of battle, fell dead on the deck of his ship, with the lanyard of his gun in his hand. The Commanding General believes that these misfortunes will tend not to discourage but to nerve the Army of North Carolina to equal deeds of bravery and gallantry.

Hereafter, until further orders, the Headquarters of the Sub-Districts of Albemarle will be at Roanoke Island. The command devolves upon Colonel D. W. Wardup, of the 99th New York Volunteer Infantry.

Newbern, Saturday, April 23, 1864.-Reports from Playmouth have it that our flag still floats over our fortifications in that place, though the enemy have possession of the town and river. On the arrival of more gunboats we shall be able to reach Plymouth, and ascertain the facts.

Washington and Newbern are much stronger fortified than Plymouth was. With few more troops and gunboats, which are said to be on the way, they can be held against 2 ladders, 1 counter, 1 Bowwindow, 3 show all the Rebels that can present themselves.
