The planters in the lower counties have agreed to pay their former slaves wages ranging from sixty to one hundred and twenty dollars anhually. If this scale is too low, the competition of industry will raise it. It is enough that in two weeks the great principle of compensation for honest labor has been established in a great State, wherein for two hundred years society had existed on a basis of legalized robbery.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S SPEECH: On Wednesday morning, between two and finding that the President was at the War serenaded him. Mr. Lincoln acknowledged the compliment in the following remarks:

"Friends and Fellow citizens-Even before had been informed by you that this compliment was paid me by loyal citizens of Pennsylvania friendly to me, I had inferred that you were of that portion of my countrymen, who think that the best interests of the nation are to be subserved by the support of the present administration. I do not pretend to say that you who think so embrace all the patriotism of the country. But I do believe and I trust without personal interest, that the welfare of the country does require that such support and endorsement be given. I earnestly believe that the consequence of this day's work—if it be as you assume, and as now seems probable-will be to the lasting advantage, if not the very salvation of the country. I cannot at this hour say what has been the result of the election; but whatever it may be, I have no desire to modify this opinion, that all who have labored to-day in behalf of the Union organization, have wrought for the best interests of their country and the world, not only for the present, but for all future ages. I am thankful to God for this approval of the people. But while deeply grateful for this mark of their confidence in me, if I know my heart, my gratitude is free from any taint of personal triumph. I do not impugn the motives of any one opposed to me. It is no pleasure to me to triumph over any one.-But I give thanks to the Almighty, for this evidence of the people's resolution to stand by the free government and the rights of GOOD ADVICE.—The Phila. Ledger says, now that the election is over, and the event decided for four years, there is no reason in keeping up the animosities, the heart burnings and hatred which a heated political excitement engendered. The man whose political opinions have not been sustained by the people, should quietly submit to the popular verdict, and those who have been successful should have magnani mity enough to be satisfied with the victory. without offensively parading it before the eyes of a political opponent. The strifes of the campaign should be forgotten, and with them should go into oblivion all the nicknames and bitter expletives applied so thought lessly and so harshly by political partizans upon each other. We should all remember that we are Americans, interested in the honor of our country and the stability of our government; and from this time out set aside our party estrangements, to unite in a common support to the measures necessary to restore the one to peace and the other to authority. Then will the nation prosper.
