There is a heap of good sense among the members of Congress after all. Mr. Co. burn, of Indiana, attered some of the best of it in the House of Representatives the other day, in a debate on a bill to remove political disabilities from a lot of Southern gentlemen. "The true reptesentative of the South," said Mr. Coburn, "is the laboring man, the man of vigor, the man of verve, the man of business, the man of enterprise, the self-reliant, independent, active, hard-working A merican; not the impotent, arrogant, lazy, pampered, conceited child of slavery; too groud to work, too feeble to shift for himself, just the man to hanker for official position. 10 A Washington letter writer says that the committee appointed to investigate the alleged frauds in the Pay Department unearthed a startling piece of rascality in the Second Auditor's office. Under the law of Congress all the colored troops mustered into service were to receive $300 for bounty and allowances. Subsequently a law was passed providing that no part of this money should be paid to the owners of slaves who entered the service. It appears that the Clerk in the Second Auditor's office has, in defiance time they were mustered in,
