

VILLAGE RECORD. WAYNESBORO, Friday, September 10, 1899.

Dan Rice is building a barn at Girard, Pa., which is to cost $20,000.

Ex-Governor Worth, of North Carolina, died at Raleigh on Sunday.

An extensive conflagration destroyed sixteen business houses and several hotels at Goldsborough, N. C., on Saturday night.

On Monday night there was a very destructive fire at Richmond, Va., several manufacturing and business establishments being consumed, involving a loss of $200,000.

It is estimated at Pottsville, Pa., that by the 1st of December the supply of coal will be fully six hundred thousand tons over that of last year.

Hon Edward McPherson, Clerk of the House of Representatives, has arrived safely in London, in improved health, and expects to spend a few weeks in Great Britain, before visiting the continent.

A convict in the Maryland Penitentiary, who has three years to serve as a cattle thief, has fallen heir to $80,000 by the death of a relative in Ohio, and some very disinterested persons are endeavoring to procure his pardon.

A new professorship has been established in Dickinson College, Pennsylvania, supported by a gift of $25,000 from Thomas Beaver, Esq., of Danville. The incumbent of the chair is to have charge of the Department of Biblical Literature.

The Convention to consider the subject of removing the National Capital from Washington to St. Louis meets with but little favor except in Missouri. Governor Geary has refused to appoint delegates from Pennsylvania, and Governor Baker, of Indiana, will not send representatives from that State.

The official figures at the Treasury Department show that the South has more money at the present time than any other agricultural portion of the country, North, East, or West. The crops in that section are, as a general thing, excellent.

Secretary of War, Gen. Rawlins, died on Monday morning in the city of Washington after a lingering illness. His death is reported as being peaceful and quiet, and his loss will be generally felt, owing to the strength of his personal attachments. President Grant was warmly attached to him, and deeply regrets that he was not able to attend him in his last moments.

The Pittsburg Gazette says that the Boys in Blue of Pennsylvania will invite their comrades from every State in the Union to assemble in that city some time in September, to consider some of the dead issues, and it promises that every corps, brigade and regiment which ever rallied around the old flag shall be fully represented there, from every State, and under almost every distinguished leader.

James L. Brooks, an United States officer at Philadelphia, was fatally shot on Monday by a party of ruffians in that city. He was in charge of a whiskey establishment seized by the government. The United States District Attorney at Philadelphia has offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest of the assassin.

A letter from Jeff. Davis, received in Montreal, Canada, states that the accounts of his health, recently published, are greatly exaggerated, and adds that he will probably remain in Great Britain during the rest of his life. Jeff is wise. He would find the United States very unhealthful for his complaint. Having ruined his old friends in Mississippi by the inauguration of his crazy ideas in favor of "Secession" and "State Wrongs," he has no notion of returning to his old home of "Brierfield," to receive the curses of those whom by his suicidal policy he reduced from affluence and happiness to poverty and misery.

SIX MONTHS' SAVINGS.—The Public Debt statement for August is unexpectedly good. Even with the heavy extra disbursement of eleven millions of dollars for the payment of pensions, the statement shows a reduction of the public debt in the amount of five millions six hundred thousand dollars during the month. For the half year that General Grant's Administration has had the control of the finances of the country, the reduction has been over forty-nine millions five hundred thousand dollars.

The Cincinnati Chronicle says:—"The breastworks in front of Petersburg, thrown up by the confederates during the late war, extending to the left toward Richmond about twenty miles, and to the right about twenty-five miles, for the defense of the city, has grown up in one continuous line of peach trees of every variety, yielding an abundant crop the present year. This is the only legacy left by our poor fellows who wore on the advance line within one hundred yards of the enemy. Having eaten the fruit while on picket duty, they cast the seed aside, and now they appear in one continuous line of forty five miles in beautiful trees, yielding the greatest of the finest fruit."

The report of an appalling casualty comes from the coal mining regions. The coal breaker and out-buildings of the Avondale mine, at Plymouth, Pa., caught fire on Monday, and 200 persons, men and boys, who were working in the mine beneath were cut off from all mode of escape and were suffocated. At last accounts the fire was still burning, and the black damp prevented any attempt being made to open a way to the victims. Two men who went down the shaft to find a way were almost instantly suffocated, and were found dead by two others coming after.

SPRANTON, Pa., Sept. 7.—11 A. M.—The latest intelligence from the awful fire in the Avondale mine works, up to this hour this morning, holds out but very slight hopes for the safety of the two hundred or more men who have been shut up in the earth since yesterday morning. The escape of gas and choke damp precludes the possibility of any further attempt at exploration being made. Until the steam fan, which is now being set up, is finished, nothing can be done to aid those in the mine, or ascertain if any one is living. It is feared (but no one dares express it) that not a human being is now alive within the horrible pit.

Numerous theories as to their safety or death are advanced. It is asserted by some that the almost instant suffocation of Williams and Jones, who went down seventy feet last night, pronounces beyond a doubt the awful doom of those who are hundreds of feet below, and cut off from all supplies of air. Others assert that if the doors leading to the principal avenues and chambers were shut, the choke and fire damp could not reach them, and no gaseous matter would be generated when entirely cut off from the fire. Old and practical miners shake their heads, evidently afraid to venture a prediction of what the investigation will bring to light.

There is now no fire in the main entrance or shaft. All possible haste is being made in getting the steam fan into position. It will be ready about 3 o'clock this afternoon, perhaps sooner.

Thousands of people are flocking here. The scene of affliction among the wives and children, fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers, of those below, is heartrending in the extreme. They have waited and watched all night, without sleep or shelter, praying for the deliverance of those most dear to them, and bemoaning the awful calamity which threatens to desolate their households.

Operations in the neighboring mines have ceased. A gloom pervades the whole community.

PLYMOUTH, Pa., Sept. 7.—Two parties of miners have descended the shaft. The first was compelled to retreat after going twenty-one feet into the gangway. The damp was two to three feet deep at the bottom of the mine. The second party returned safely, having penetrated the gangway ninety-five feet, and found the large door wide open. They then went one hundred feet further in one of the passages, and found a small door closed. After opening this door to give a circulation of air, they returned. Had this small door been open, there might be a shade of hope, as the gas, smoke, and fire would have had free passage around the circuit, and out again. As it is, fears are entertained that the smoke has penetrated the inner mine, and suffocated all the men.

At 7.10 P. M. four men went down to fix the hose, and returned in about twenty minutes, reporting that they had been at the furnace, and found everything all right except the fire in the furnace, which was still burning. They could not arrange the water hose until it was raised a little. They were not seriously affected by the foul air.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.—A writer in Hunt's Merchant's Magazine calls attention to several points which deserve to be considered in forecasting the financial future of the country. To specify, he insists that there is no lack of capital in the loan market, that this capital is in few hands; that larger profits are made on capital in New York than in any other market we have; that a very considerable share of the floating capital comes from the country national banks, which their managers find it more profitable to run in Wall Street; that, owing to the frequent monetary spasms, and the uncertainty of the future, large sums are being embarked in permanent investments, while legitimate business in other forms is suffering and trade is embarrassed. Hence, three inferences are drawn, each of which seems to us to be just: 1st, that there is plenty of money in the country, to avert any real danger of a financial crisis; 2d, that mercantile and industrial enterprise should be carefully restrained within the limits of sound prudence and bona fide means; 3d, that the country may thus speedily recuperate, and, aided by an unusually bounteous harvest, will soon find itself entering upon a career of more general prosperity than it has ever yet known.

The case of the United States against the extensive distiller, E. J. Ullman, owner of the Southside distillery, on Washington road, which was seized some weeks ago for violating the internal revenue laws has been compromised by Ullman paying twenty thousand dollars.

The demand for fractional currency at the Treasury is so great that no less than the issue of $200,000 a day for one year will satisfy it.

Last week a corps of engineers was engaged in running a route or routes for the proposed Railroad from Mercersburg to connect with the Cumberland Valley Road at or near Greencastle. This looks encouraging for Mercersburg.

FOR PIC NICS.—Persons attending picnics should supply themselves with cheese, crackers, and oysters bought from Reid & Waynant.

EATING MATCHES.—A little girl, daughter of Harry S. Myers, of Fayetteville, died on Saturday last from eating off the heads of several matches. Parents should take warning and be careful with their match boxes.

A man who will bring a horse to town and leave it tied up in the hot sun all day, without a bite to eat or a drop of water to drink, while he is in a saloon gussling beer and "sich," deserves to be kicked out of town.

The Society has appropriated a very liberal sum to be awarded as premiums for trials of speed, which will doubtless attract a number of the best horses. Competition is open to all.

The noisy controversy of the "kitty didd" reminds us that the harvest is past and the summer is ended.

General Longstreet, the surveyor of the port of New Orleans, has appointed several colored men to positions in his department.

A BOLD VILLAIN.—The Shippensburg News says: On Tuesday night of last week, near midnight, a stranger knocked at the door of the residence of Mr. Solomon Farmer, near Orrstown, and having awakened Mr. F. requested a bandage and some camphor to apply to a wound which he said a friend had received by falling from his horse in the wood near by. Mr. Farmer arose and complied with his request. The stranger was gone about ten minutes, when he returned and as he handed Mr. F. the bottle he had received from him, he told him, in a business like way, that in a certain cupboard in the house there was a quantity of gold secreted, and he must have it. Mr. Farmer pretended to have no knowledge of this, but the bold rascal threatened to shoot him if it was not coming forthwith. Mr. F. at last brought the money from the hiding place, when the thief insisted that there were also several small pieces of gold in the clock on the mantel, and forced Mr. Farmer also to produce them. Having thus secured in all about $50, he left the house, but not without giving Mr. Farmer a sound cursing. There was but one other person in the house at the time, but as Mr. Farmer is an aged man he could offer no resistance, and the other inmate was soundly sleeping. Who the daring scamp was is unknown, and his knowledge of the affairs of the house seems not a little strange. It was certainly a bold undertaking, and the pity is he got away with his life.

LARGE ENGINE.—Our attention was the other day called to an Eighty-horse Power Steam Engine just being finished by our ingenious Foundryman, Mr. Geo. Frick. This piece of machinery is designed for J. A. Eyster's Paper Mill, at Halltown, Va. The weight of the engine complete is over ten tons, the fly-wheel is twelve feet in diameter and weighs over four tons, and is turned on the face for belt to run on. It has the finish of a first class piece of machinery. We doubt whether there is another place of manufacture in the three counties with the machinery to put up such an Engine. It will be sent Mr. F. is prepared to manufacture engines from two to one hundred and fifty-horse power.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Miss Esther Heffner, an aged lady, died suddenly at the residence of Mr. Leonard Senger, near Leitersburg, on Sunday evening last. It appears she was on a visit to Mr. S. to wait on his wife, a near relative, who was lying ill at the time. In the morning she ate a hearty breakfast, and to all appearances, was in the enjoyment of good health. About 10 or 11 o'clock she was suddenly prostrated by an attack of paralysis and remained in an unconscious state of mind until some time in the evening, when death ensued. On Tuesday her remains were conveyed to, and interred in the Snow Hill burying ground.

ROADS.—The last Repository in reviewing the action taken by the Court in relation to roads in this county refers to the following cases presented from this township: From the Wharf road, to the Waynesboro and Greencastle turnpike road, at or near a point where the lands of Frankie Miller adjoin lands of Robert McIlvaney, in said township, and to end on the public road leading from Waynesboro, by way of Mt. August 10th, 1899, court appointed A. B. Stoler, John H. Johnston Jacob Forney viewers.

DEAD.—Mr. Geo. Mitchell, an elderly and well known citizen died suddenly at his residence near Greencastle, on Thursday of last week. He was in Greencastle in the evening and returned home in the enjoyment of his usual good health, but before 9 o'clock was a corpse. The Echo attributes his death to paralysis. He was in the 58th year of his age.

Five swarms of bees attacked a horse at Racine, Wisconsin, on Friday last, and stung him to death. The horse lived only about an hour and his agony was fearful to behold. In China if a young man is not married by the time he is 20 years of age he is drummed out of town. No doubt the young ladies of this country wish such custom prevailed here.

We cannot understand why people should any longer buy the miserable preparations advertised as hair restorers, when the Alisma, which is really the finest article for the hair in use, can be procured for so reasonable a price as one dollar a bottle. Prominent over all other medicines is Seward's Cough Cure.
