

VILLAGE RECORD. WAYNESBORO, Thursday May 5, 1870.

The 13th of May—Decoration Day—has been made a national holiday. The House passed a bill on Monday to pay the widow of President Lincoln a pension of $3,000 per annum.

Mrs. McFarland Richardson is now the occupant of the cottage at Woodside, a part of the estate of her late husband. A general Indian war is thought to be inevitable. Large bodies of troops are moving toward our western frontiers.

Henry S. Reichert, who plead guilty of perjury in Philadelphia, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and be imprisoned in the Eastern Penitentiary for seven years. Thirteen and a half tons of pigeons in one week passed through Harrisburg this Spring on the way to the New York market.

The General Committee of the Grand Army of the Republic have designated May 30th as the day on which soldiers' graves shall be decorated. Mercer county claims a survivor of the war of 1812, Mr. Andrew Breat, of Jefferson township. During the late war he had five sons and eight grandsons in the Union army.

The sun's spots are now numerous and interesting, and can be seen with a smoked glass. The planet Saturn is in a peculiarly favorable position for observation, with the ring at the fullest opening. The Democrat, published at Bloomfield, Indiana, says: We are satisfied, from observations made in different sections of our country, that the wheat crop this season will be heavier than for many years past, the fields present a magnificent appearance.

In accordance with the decision rendered in the United States Circuit Court for the Maryland District by Judge Giles, the Baltimore City Passenger Railway Company are not required to carry colored people on the lines of their railway in the same class of cars provided for all other persons. The Company give notice, therefore, that separate cars will be provided for the accommodation of colored persons.

A new sect has arisen in Boston, who call themselves "Bible Christians," and who hold that they have a new insight into the Bible that none other before them have learned, and that Saturday is properly the Lord's day instead of Sunday. A converted Methodist minister is preaching to them, and a lady teacher in one of the public schools has resigned because her school is required to be open on Saturday, and she cannot, in accordance with her new belief, teach on that day.

The ninth census of the United States will be taken on the first of June next.—Citizens can do much to forward the work and insure its thoroughness by preparing statistics beforehand for the deputy marshal.

"PARIS BY SUNLIGHT AND GASLIGHT."

A work descriptive of the Mysteries and Miseries, the Virtues, Vices, Splendors, and Crimes of the City of Paris.—By James D. McCabe, Jr. National Publishing Co., Philadelphia.

A large and attractive volume of over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated with 150 fine engravings by the best French artists, constituting the most attractive book ever issued upon this subject. It is as instructive as a history, and as thrilling as the best sensation novel ever written. The extent of ground over which it ranges is remarkable, for there is nothing in Paris worth seeing or hearing of that is not discussed in it.

It takes the reader into places where he would not dare venture himself, and leads him from the splendors of the Imperial palaces to the horrors of the Catacombs. It introduces him to virtue and vice in the gay City, and shows how the latter quality leads all classes after it. It takes us "behind the scenes," and tells us many a queer story of the "aristocracy," and peeps with us into the "fatal register" in which the "lost women" are inscribed. It shows us the riotous joys of student life, and tells us the secrets of the great pawn broker establishment.

It tells of adventures and adventures, and shows how they fasten upon and bleed their victims. It initiates us into the mysteries of the "Secret Police," and carries us to watch the "Can-Can at Mabile." It takes the masks from the faces of the revellers at the Carnival balls, and shows us a fearful scene of demoralization. It abounds in the most brilliant and spicy descriptions of the secrets and mysteries of the wicked City, and is full of the most thrilling interest.

It is overflowing with solid information, and history and biography are served out to us with all the attractiveness of romance. To those who contemplate a visit to Paris now, or at some future time—and there are but few Americans who do not cherish this hope—the book is invaluable. To those who cannot go, it is most also very valuable. It will afford them an accurate and very extensive acquaintance with the leading objects of interest in the gay capital of France, pursued often into the most minute details. The book is sold by subscription only.

CAMERON VS. DAVIS.—The ex-President of the late Confederate States having written a letter denying the statement of Senator Cameron that he once told Davis that his seat in the Senate would one day be occupied by a colored man, the Philadelphia Press refreshes his failing memory with the following reminiscence: "In 1861, about two weeks before Mr. Davis left Washington to join his fellow traitors in the South, Senator Cameron met Mrs. Davis on Pennsylvania avenue. In reply to her question as to why he did not come and see Jeff," the Senator said, "Why does not Jeff, ask me?" "Well, I ask you to come and breakfast with us to-morrow morning." "At what hour?" "Nine o'clock." "I will be there."

At the time mentioned Senator Cameron made his appearance, and after breakfast the conversation naturally turned upon the then attitude of the South. Davis was, as usual, outspoken in his secession views, and threatened that if it came to the worst, and blood had to flow, war would be waged in the State North of Mason and Dixon's line.—As may well be supposed, such words were not pleasing to the Pennsylvania Senator, and he answered in effect that the rebellious secession would be brought back into the Union, and that he firmly believed that, if the South persisted in its course, not only would the slaves all be set free, but that "one day a colored man will occupy your seat, Mr. Davis, in the United States Senate!"

Davis, in great anger, turned to Senator Cameron and said that the North, not the South, would suffer from the coming war, and that he himself would "lead a party to burn to the ground your property, Mr. Cameron, in Pennsylvania."

Valentine was hauling a one horse load of hay to Hagerstown. A short distance from that place on the Fanketown turnpike a boy endeavored to ride on the hay, but was several times driven away. After his last attempt the hay was discovered to be on fire, which was entirely consumed with the ladders, the wagon also being considerably damaged by the burning.

HORSES STOLEN.—On Saturday night last two horses were stolen in this neighborhood, one from the stable of Henry Barr and the other from the stable of Joseph Mentzer. The next day, Sunday, the thief was apprehended on the Mountain in Frederick county, not far from Wolfsville. The horses were recovered, but the thief succeeded in making good his escape. SLOW SPECIMEN.—A chap who has not paid anything on his subscription account since the breaking out of the late Rebellion was in town the other day, presenting a rather "seedy" appearance. We have concluded to cut his acquaintance and give him an opportunity to sponge in some other quarter awhile.

He who throws at every barking dog must pick up a great many stones, and he who turns aside to chastise every empty-headed blatherskite who throws dirt at him will have little time to attend to legitimate duties. The Spirit says the stock of the 1st National Bank of Waynesboro' has been assessed for taxable purposes at $116, that of the 1st National Bank of Greencastle at $115, and that of the National Bank of Chambersburg at $68.

IN ERROR.—In noticing the death of Jos. Garver, Esq., in our last issue, we was wrongly informed. Mr G was stricken down with paralysis about 7 o'clock in the evening and died at 3 o'clock in the morning. He was in the 67th year of his age.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—Friday afternoon, Mr. Obed Gaell, in going from Marion Station to Marion, in a light wagon, was accosted at the former place by three men, who asked permission to ride to Marion, which was given by Mr. Gaell. At Stotler's the three men got out, Mr. Gaell driving on to Eiter's Hotel, where having occasion to use some money, he found that he was robbed of some thirty dollars. He immediately made known his loss to the community, when several parties started in pursuit of the robbers who went in the direction of Greencastle. Up to this writing—Saturday afternoon—he has received no information of their apprehension. He offers a reward of Twenty Dollars for their arrest. These facts we got from Mr. Gaell in person.—Public Opinion.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—On Tuesday, a colored man named Addison Streets, from Waynesboro', arrived at the Adams House and gave the hostler, Philip Weirich, some orders in regard to his saddle and bridle, but in such an insolent manner that Weirich told Streets that he had charge of the stable and took care of things in his own way, whereupon Streets pulled a revolver and fired at Weirich, but missed him. Streets attempted the second shot, but the hostler was too quick for him, and struck him on the side of the head with a shovel handle, inflicting a frightful wound.—Valley Echo.

Streets was arrested but afterwards released on bail, and has since been on duty as usual at the livery stable of W. H. Funk. BARN BURN.—The barn of James Gilmore, near Strawsburg, was burned on Sunday last, about 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The fire was the result of an accident. Some boys were playing about it and it is thought that by some means they communicated fire to it. About 500 bushels of oats, 1,300 bushels of corn, ten tons of hay, all the farming implements, wagons, harness, &c., were consumed. No live stock was burned.—Loss is estimated at near $2000. No insurance.—Repository.

TO THINK OF.—He who would feel his utter nothingness in the universe, let him read and ponder these truthful lines: We all within our graves shall sleep, A hundred years to come; No living soul for us will weep, A hundred years to come, But other men our land will till, And other men our streets will fill, And other birds will sing as gay, As bright the sunshine as to-day, A hundred years to come.

TERRIBLE DISASTER AT RICHMOND! SIXTY-SIX LIVES LOST. RICHMOND, April 27.—About 11 o'clock this morning the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia was crowded with eminent citizens, who were drawn there by curiosity to hear the result of the late hearing of the question of the Mayoralty of Richmond. Among the most prominent persons present were ex-Gov. Wells, ex-Congressman Nelson, Judge John A. Meredith, Patrick Henry Aylett, L. H. Chandler, and others.

At 11 o'clock the gallery of the court room, which was crowded, fell in and the floor below, which was the floor of the House of Delegates of Virginia, on which some few members of a caucus were waiting around. There was a general crash of all the timbers, and the falling of the inside wall, resulting in the death of about sixty persons and the injuring of over one hundred others, many of them seriously. Among the killed are Captains Charters, Chief of the Fire Department, Dr. Brock of the Richmond Equiper, P. H. Aylett, an eminent member of the bar, N. P. Howard lawyer, Gen. Wilcox of the Rebel army, several members of the Legislature, prominent merchants, &c. Among the seriously injured are ex-Gov. Wells, Mayors Elyson and Calhoun, Judge Meredith, Hon. Thomas S. Boone, formerly speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives (leg. amputated.) Gov. Corse of the Rebel army, and over 100 others, many of them occupying high social and business relations. The disaster is one of the most appalling which has occurred in Richmond since the burning of the Theatre, in 1811, when the Governor of the State and some eighty to one hundred others, including many men of prominence and ladies of high social position, lost their lives. The City is filled with mourners.

OGDEN, May 1.—A circular ordering the brethren to convene at the ward school-houses for drill was privately circulated through Salt Lake on Friday. Drilling and arming continue throughout the Territory. Fifty Danites are said to have been enrolled since Brigham Young's return. Meanwhile, Brigham declares Mormonism is peace.

At a dance in San Francisco, a young lady, who was particularly accommodating in the dressing room about assisting other good looking young girls in fixing up, putting on slippers and facing corsets, turned out to be a young man. As soon as the girls found it out they "interviewed" him, and he now uses hair restorative and court plaster, and carries his nose in a sling. Keep your boys off the street after night. It may save you much shame and confusion. Jacob Stauffer an old citizen of Dayton, Ohio, committed suicide by taking strychnine April 7. Miss Sallie Jeff, the oldest inhabitant of New Jersey, died at Elizabeth on the 23d, aged 105. It is estimated that the reduction of the public debt will be over five millions for the month of April, and may be six millions. In Toledo, Ohio, on Wednesday, A. J. Bender, a clerk in the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad office, shot and killed his wife for infidelity. FARM HAND wanted. See advt.

A Philadelphia lady and her daughter belonging to the wealthiest society of that city, have been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for shop-lifting. A little child at Ebetsburg has been dead nearly a week and yet the body is warm and life-like. Physicians pronounce the child dead, but of course the funeral will be delayed until the matter is beyond doubt. A brother and sister in an Indiana town weigh respectively 593 and 980 pounds, and the eldest is only 21 years of age. A young lady at Burlington, Iowa, who went away from home, leaving her waterfall on the open window sill, found a blue-bird sitting on two eggs in it, on her return. The salary of the Governor of this State is five thousand dollars. A hen in Elizabeth, N. J., hatched seven-teen chickens from fifteen eggs.

The school commissioners in Iowa prohibit "lady teachers" kissing schoolboys over eighteen years of age. Mrs. Caroline Neil is now judge of the Court of Oyer and Terminer in Wyoming. Little Minnie Warren is reported hopelessly ill. A bill has been introduced into Congress to tax dogs $2.50 each. In Russia only five lives were lost on all the railroads last year.
