WAYNES BORO!

Thursday July 14, 1870.

Congress adjourns to-morrow. J. W. Wickersham, Esq., Pennsylvapia Superintendent of Schools, has strong supporters in Lancaster county for the Republican nomination for Congress. On Friday last the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania refused to reopen the Paul Schooppe case on the motion for a new trial under the law passed at the recent session of the Legislature of the State. If Governor Geary does not interpose, Scheeppe will be .executed,

It has been generally believed for "J. I. Y., 1650." many years that a feather bed was a sure protection from lightning. A circumstance which recently accurred in Greenfield, Conn. scatters this belief to the winds. Lightning entered the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Banks, tore open the feather bed upon which the parties mentioned, with a small child, were sleeping, and set the bed clothes on fire, singed off the hair and eyebrows of Mrs. Banks, blistered her chest from the neck down, and knocked her completely senseless. Mrs. Lincoln's Pension Bill, providing for a pension of three thousand a year, was up on Saturday in the Senate, the question being upon its passage. During the debate on the bill Mr. Yates, of Illinois, declared farmers being nearly over we advise "harvest that he didn't core what others might say; hands" and all others, to call at the picture ovater in Washington county, Md. he knew that Mrs. Lincoln and all her fami-gallery of Brackhill, on the Dismond, and sely (the Todds, of Kentucky) sympathized care a life-like photograph. On Wednesday evening or last week, says Hagerstown Twice a Week, a son of Mr. George Lefferman, aged two years, residing near the Broad Fording Mill, lost his life by falling into a well and drowning. Sometime during the evening the child, in playing in his father's yard, ran across the top of the well which was, as usual, boarded over, and had a trap door, the door giving way beneath the little fellow's leet, precipitated him to the bottom of the well, and, before assistance and he had disappeared beneath the water, Search being shortly afterward made, the body of the unfortunate child was found in a hole at the bottom of the well,
