SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1861.

It is stated that one of the sons of Ex-Minister Faulkner-a boy of 17fought in the rebel ranks at Bull Run. Mrs. Faulkner, also, it is charged, convesed information of the movements of Gen. Patterson's army to the rebels, when our forces were encamped near her residence. Mr. Faulkner's residence is in the vicinity of Martinsburg, Va .-When our troops were there a foraging expedition, under the command of Lieut. of corn, for which Mrs. F. received a. draft and drew the money in gold. She | Father at Washington. remarked that she was very glad to sell her corn to the U. States; and we have no doubt of it, for had it fallen into the hands of the Confederates, she would have been paid in Confederate Script, worth just as much as the paper on which it is printed .- Lancaster Express.

By It is stated that Gen. Lyon, during the battle which cost bim his valuable life, wore a peculiar kind of threecornered hat, but in other respects was dressed like a private. This hat was well known to the enemy; it distinguished him from thousands, and hence he was a "shining mark." There is no doubt of this one great fact, that Lyon was at the head of a column of assulting troops, leading them on, and was more exposed than any other man. This is lamentable. No commanding officer has a right to expose his life thus. He was bound, while directing his troops, to be in a place of comparative safety.-His life was worth thousands of the rank and file, for it may not be replacedtheirs can be.

The first taste of autumn came a few days ago, seemingly before the time. The air of early morning, now, and the dows of evening, are marked by the charactoristics of fall. Already the foliage is losing its verdure, and the tints of autamn are warning the landscape. Agriculturists again tell us that we shall have an early winter and a long one .--They base this prediction upon certain signs said to be unmistakeable. Among others, they say that the husks upon the growing-corn crop envelops the ears to the very ends, and is thick and close wrapped. When the reverse is the case, they say the following winter will be a mild one. As it is, if our farmer friends are correct, coal and wood dealers may anticipate a brisk business.

A son of Ross Winaus, who is visiting the birth-place of his father, Vernon, the Newark (N. J.) Advertiser says, has been making himself obnoxious to the people of that part of the country, by drinking, whatever asked to, to the health of Jeff. Davis. On Friday last, an honest-hearted but two-fisted countryman, named Adams, invited Winans to join him at the bar of a tavern, and feeling himself insulted when the windy Secessionists announced his usual toast, set down his glass, took off his coat, and gave Mr. Ross Winans, Jr., a home made drubbing; one that it is said he will be kept in memory of by his mirror for many a day.

Richard Wallach, who has been appointed mayor of Washington city in place of the traitor Berrett, was a candidate before the people for the same position last fall but was defrauded by the partizan friends of Berrett, and defeated by the assistance of the full force of the Buchanan adminstration. He is a thorough Union man, a clever gentleman and will do good service in his present position for Constitutional liberty.

Col. Coffee, who was a prisoner in the Union camp, and released on a parole by General Lyon, a short time since, broke his parole, re-entered the rebel army, was in the battle of Wilson's creek, was wounded, and has since lost a leg. Such a scoundrel should have lost both his legs. This is the way the rebel allegiance-takers, and parole-givers almost invariably serve us.
