COUNTY TICKET: In these "at try men's souls," we can ill afford to make any sacrifice of patriotism for the mere sake of...

When intelligence reached us, we were prevented by sickness from being present at the time we intended to be in common with the great majority of our party...

As a natural effect of the Convention held at Marietta, a Mass Meeting of all who are in favor of the Union, the Constitution, the Government, and the support of the Rebellion is to be held in Marietta on Monday next...

We have thus expressed ourselves in reference to the most important matter to be filled at the October election, and we sincerely trust that our fellow citizens of all parties, will...

"A Returned Volunteer"—Again. COL. BAKER—You say you could not close your paper against the "reply" (?) of "A Returned Volunteer"; "but indeed this shall be the last of it."

2d. His "reply introduces new matter. He now attacks me—mistakes the circumstances and motives under which my defence of the slandered was written.

3d. If you would exclude "vile personalities," exclude him, (as he, only, used them) by requiring him to sign his name to his articles—which he will not dare do; for assassins of reputation, as of life, are proverbial cowards.

But as you published his "vile personalities" at the first, and now, again, against me, (without requiring retraction of the old before publishing the new slanders,) I respectfully submit that common justice requires you to publish my defence against this stabber in the dark.

As the public generally believes even his signature ("A Returned Volunteer") to be untrue, the facts I have stated will probably be believed against any professed assertions of one who dare not give his name to back his charges. Those facts were known to me before his charges appeared, and were written without the knowledge of the parties—deliberately written, and, on a subsequent day, carefully prepared for publication.

The Editor sees apologetically to suggest that his attacks were "playfully begun." But he who "scatters firebrands, arrows and death," is not excused because he says, "Am I not in sport?"

To conclude—His selection of his position, vocation and weapons—his repetition of slanders after their refutation—his empty sneers and false ascriptions of unworthy motives to a defence of the innocent—all show that he is hardly entitled to his (probably false) signature; but rather belongs in character to those other volunteers who assail defenseless women rather than armed men, and prefer masked batteries and other cowardly advantages to an open field and fair play.

On receiving the above communication we looked over the correspondence referred to, to ascertain wherein we had shown any partiality to "A Returned Volunteer" so as to merit the castigations which "A. B. G." would wish to inflict upon us, and in doing so, we were utterly unable to charge ourselves with any indiscretion whatever, and we certainly had no desire to apologise for either party.

In the first place "A Returned Volunteer" simply enquired whether a rumor, to the effect that one of the Relief Committee was in the habit of deducting a dollar a week, from one of the claimants on the funds, for rent, due relative, was correct. To this the Secretary of the Committee replied with considerable bitterness, and in his reply introduced a good deal of what we considered irrelevant matter, still we gave his communication at full length, which we did not do to that of the "Volunteer." And though there was a distinct denial of the dollar a week being deducted, yet, as we understood the matter, it was admitted that there was an arrangement, by which a portion of the fund was appropriated to the paying of the rent; and on this it would have been no difficult matter for Madam Rumor to have fabricated a much more formidable affair than the one under discussion.

By referring to our advertising columns the reader will find one of the finest residences west of Philadelphia, for sale. This fine dwelling was erected only a few years since, and has every convenience attainable in a country town; it was built without regard to cost, and is now offered on very accommodating terms. Read the advertisement.

Among all the bounteous gifts with which our Heavenly Father has filled this earth are flowers, beautiful flowers. And beautiful as they are all can enjoy them, none are so poor they cannot have flowers if they choose.

Messrs. B. J. McGrann and James McGonigle, a committee to whom was entrusted the duty of selecting a horse for Col. Hambricht, by a number of the citizens of Lancaster who contributed liberally for that purpose, performed their duty last week. With the steed the committee conveyed to the Col. the sentiments of high esteem in which that gallant officer is held in that community, in a letter couched in appropriate terms. The horse is a very fine animal, and well adapted for military purposes.

A few of the personal and military friends of the veteran Capt. Duchman, now in command of a company in Col. Hambricht's Regiment, have purchased and presented to him a handsome sword, belt, sash, and gauntlets. The sword is of the field officer pattern, metal scabbard and splendidly ornamented. The sash, belt and gauntlets, are of the finest quality.

In consequence of our protracted illness we have neglected our friend Fulton's letter until this week.
