For The Marietta. THE DREAM OF THE YEAR. By Grantellus. (THE FIRST QUARTER.)

'Twas at the midnight hour With feelings wan and sad— When on the couch of slumber The busy world was laid— I watched the dying embers Upon the useful hearth, And thought of days gone, and those That may be mine on earth.

And then there came a stalwart man Dressed in an ample garb, Around him hung the nor-west winds, His features, cold and hard. His mantle lined with ermine His scull-cap edged with fur, His beard was white and prickly, as The autumn chestnut bur.

I quickly turned myself away From his cold silent gaze And sought companionship with one Of a more generous phase, A hale and short set burley man That looked the soul of humor, And seemed to be as urbane as A fancy French perfumer.

Now who I ask'd, in this weird world Will harken to my prayer? A gentle voice bourne on the breeze Said 'see! look over there; He with the helmet and the shield With glittering sword and crest, The gentle south-wind will command And give the peace and rest.

'Mid heavy darkness I awoke— With stiffen'd limbs And aching brain I sought my couch From wind and rain That through the casement broke; Then in the rosy numbers Of the approaching dawn, I woo'd refreshing slumbers, And with a languid yawn Embraced the sleep of Hope.

THE TRAITOR'S CURSE. BY THOMAS MOORE.

O for a tongue to curse the slave Whose treason, like a deadly blight, Comes o'er the counsels of the brave, And blast them in their hour of might! May life's unblest cup for him Be drugg'd with treachery to the brim, With hopes that but allure to fly, With joys that vanish while he sips, Like Dead Sea fruits that tempt the eye But turn to ashes on the lips. His country's curse, his children's shame! Outcast of virtue, peace and fame; May he at last, with lips of flame, On the parched desert thirsting die, While lakes that shone in mockery night Are fading off untouched, untasted, Like the once glorious hopes he blasted.

FORTIFICATIONS AT BALTIMORE.—The fortification which is in the course of construction in the eastern suburbs of Baltimore, by the Seventh Maine Regiment, is rapidly progressing.

A "good one" is told of a Quaker volunteer who was in a Virginia skirmish. Coming into pretty close quarters with a rebel, he remarked—"Friend, it is unfortunate, but thee stands just where I am going to shoot," and, blazing away, down came the secesher.

HOW TO KEEP EGGS.—Here is a recipe, which is itself worth the price of subscription to any housekeeper, and we give it to our readers gratis.

Recipe.—To 3 gallons of water add 1 pint quick lime and 1 pint salt, and stir till well mixed and dissolved.

RECRUITING IN IRELAND.—The Dublin Evening Post, of the 17th ultimo, asserts that there are persons at present in that country, agents from America, who are endeavoring to enlist men for the Federal service.

MILITARY.—Five companies of the Pennsylvania Regiment guarding the bridges on the Northern Central Railroad, are encamped in the Sherwood Grove, near Cockeysville.

FUNERAL OF A PUGILIST.—The funeral of the late pugilist, Bon. Caunt, was attended by Bendigo, ex-champion of England, with whom Caunt had fought two battles, and who appeared much affected.

AN ALLEGED MURDERER RECOGNIZED.—On Saturday afternoon, upon the arrival of some cavalry at Baltimore from Washington, a negro, who accompanied them, was recognized and pointed out by a person in the crowd of lookers-on as the party who killed a youth, named Skinner, on Federal Hill, some years ago.

ANNITY CONFISCATED.—Colonel McNeil, Assistant Provost Marshal at St. Louis, has notified the "St. Louis Building and Savings Association," that the sum of thirty-two or thirty-three thousand dollars, part an annuity paid the Cherokee Nation by the Government of the United States, and deposited in the above named institution by the agents of said nation, is forfeited to their use and benefit.

CAMP CHESTS LOST.—The camp chests, belonging to Colonel McKnight's Pennsylvania Regiment, were lost in Baltimore on Thursday, while being transported to the Washington depot in that city, and have not since been found.

Why is Virginia sure to come right? Because she keeps Wheeling for the Union.

"Leg bail" is a limb of the law.

WISE AND FLOYD: The Richmond Enquirer significantly says that the relations between Wise and Floyd "are painful enough" to account for all the confederate reverses in western Virginia.

POPULATION OF THE GLOBE: A Professor of the Berlin University has been making curious researches respecting the population of the globe.

LETTER FROM MRS. JEFF. DAVIS: It is said that in June last Mrs. Jefferson Davis wrote a letter to a colored woman in Washington, in which she stated that before the end of July the rebel Government would be inaugurated in Washington, and she be installed as mistress of the White House.

EX-PRESIDENT VAN BUREN.—On the 23d ult. the village of Canandaigua, N. Y., was visited by ex-President Martin Van Buren, who had been staying for some weeks at Clifton, accompanied by his son, the Hon. John Van Buren, and other friends.

MILITARY QUARRELS.—The warmth with which Mrs. Fremont, espouses the General, her husband, in the military disputes which agitate the Department of the West, reminds us of the pertinacity displayed by her father, Col. Benton, when in command of a regiment of volunteers in the War of 1812.

TOO BAD.—The following statement appears in the Atlas, London weekly journal: We understand that one of the most efficient modes by which the American government attracts our young soldiers in Canada across the frontier is to send over a deputation of the fair sex, armed, in addition to their personal charms, with pockets full of dollars, twenty of which they are authorized to offer to each soldier as a premium for desertion.

Few people except those who have been at the spot have any idea of the immense quantities of heavy guns and ordnance stores which are accumulating at Cairo.

Ezekiel Woodmans of Chelsea, Massachusetts, "got off" the following prize conundrum at Boston last week: "Q.—Why is a waterily like a whale? A.—Because it comes to the surface to blow"—which so tickled "a committee" that Ezekiel received a hundred dollar gold watch as a reward of merit.

RETURNED.—Dr. Russell, of the London Times, who went out to the West to shoot prairie hens, returned to Washington as savage as a meat-axe, in consequence of having been jerked up by some Illinois Dogberry for gunning "on the sabber-day."

Another little circumstance happened to the Doctor on his western trip, which perhaps did not tend to improve his temper.

A KENTUCKY GIRL: Capt. Claypool, living about ten miles from Bowling Green is commander of a company of Home Guards.

SMART BOY.—A Western New York correspondent of an exchange mentions a neat little speech of a "four-year old."

THE WAGES OF SIN.—Ex-Secretary Floyd, by whose stealings the Southern rebellion was set up in trade, is abused in the roughest manner by the Richmond Enquirer, because he demands the names of certain correspondents who have written severely concerning him.

Gen. Wool is expected shortly to proceed to the west on a tour of inspection. The idea started by several journals that the moment General Wool arrives within the Department of the West he will take the command of it because he outranks Fremont is a great mistake.

A case occurred in Buffalo lately, in which a husband who refused to pay a bill for some $112, brought against him by a dry goods dealer, for articles furnished his wife, was sued.

The Board of Directors of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad Company have agreed to the proposition of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, for the lease of the Philadelphia and Erie road.

Moving for a new trial—courting a second-wife.

For The Marietta. A WORD TO MOTHERS.

BY MRS. A. P. MAURY, M. D.

Who can stand unmoved and witness pain and suffering in a child, especially, if it be one of years so tender, as to be unable to give utterance to the distress that it feels in intelligible sounds.

The truth is, the more intelligent of those who administer drugs, have little or no confidence in them.

But to return to the child in hand.—A gentle bath, such as every good nurse knows how to give, will work wonders.

Now permit me to whisper (aloud) a few words on Hygiene, by observing which your child hardly need be sick.

Look well to its food, allowing no grease, nor seasoned food. Give it milk, and if of the proper age, add bread and ripe fruits.

Let it eat only at regular periods. Give it a good chance to sleep, both day and night.

Briefly, fit the dress to the child, and do not attempt to fit the child to the dress.

Oh, if mothers but realized the royalty of their mission, and would make themselves intelligent and practical on these subjects, then might they rest well night secure from the "pestilence that walketh in darkness," for the destroying angel when commissioned to go forth with the rewards of disobedience, would pass them altogether, or but brush them with the tip of his expanded wing.

Shut not up a brood of evil passions in your bosom; like enraged serpents, they will bite their cage.
