Another Arctic Expedition: Since the return of Hayes's Arctic expedition, some anxiety has been felt in regard to Mr. Hall, who started at about the same period on an exploring tour in Arctic regions. Mr. Hall, it will be rememhered, went out as a passenger in the whaling ship, George Henry. He had formed the idea that he could adapt use among the Esquimaux, and thus spend years, if he chose, in Arctic explorations.

Concluding that some of Sir John Franklin's party were still alive, he decided to make the attempt to discovertheir location and aid them, if possible, in their return. He was to leave the George Henry at Cumberland inlet, intending after that to live entirely as the Esquimanx do, using the dog, sled and ice boat, which he took with him in journeying over the ice and open water.

He was to be accompanied by the Exquimaux only. He intended to winter near Cumberland inlet, and pursue his journey in the early spring. He spoke with no certainty as to the period of his return, and stated that no alarm should be felt if he should not be back in five

Hon. E. D. Baker, U. S. Senator from Oregon, who was killed a few days' rince, near Leesburg, Virginia, at the head of his California regiment, which, by the way, was composed principally of Philadelphians, and he held his commission as Colonel from Governner Curtin, is thus spoken of by Forney's Press: From the positions of a poor newsboy and of a struggling weaver in Philadelphia, he rose to be one of the most distinguished members of the United States Senate. He distinguished himself as an officer in the Mexican war, and was one of the Representatives in Congress of Illinois from 1849 to 1851. He soon af--terward removed to California, where at the time of the great Lecompton struggle, he was one of the most able and resolute defenders of the right. His eulogy on the lamented Broderick was one of the finest oratorical efforts ever delivered. Emigrating to Oregon, he was elected one of the United States the very zenith of his noble career he has all the work. been stricken down.

A Washington correspondent says: It is well known that the sale of spiritous liquors is strictly prohibited in all the camps. The sutlers are not even allowed to sell it to the officers. But the bright precepts of John B. Gough, and the Maine Law of Neal Dow, have been set at defiance. The enemy has assumed a new shape in the form of "The Soldier's Friend." It is handsomely and elaborately labelled and put with the euphonious title of "The Soldier's Friend," and accompanying directions to take a teaspoonful three times a day. A Colonel, who has tried it, assures me that it is the closest imitation of a brandy cocktail that he ever drank. He says that he found out that nearly every man in his regiment had a bettle of it, and some, so fearful were they that they might catch the fever and ague, would not follow the directions, but took a teacupful of it at a time.

The Philadelphia Press and the Washington correspondents of some of the other papers, credit the exploit of the capture of Mrs. Jackson, the mother of the murderer of Ellsworth, by Capt. Hess, of this county, to Capt. Keller, of | man. the Fourth Penna. Reserve. This is evidently an usurpation of an honor which belongs to another, and a most worthy citizen of our own county, Capt. George H. Hess, of Safe Harbor. All the first reports of the affair awarded the credit to him, and we last week published an extract from Charles R. Grosh's letter to his father, in this borough, who participated in the arrest and onel of a regiment, and will be commisis a member of Capt. Hess' Safe Harbor

PRESENTATION OF A HORSE TO GENERAL Scott.-A few days ago Colonel P. Kerr, of Clarion bounty, Pennsylvania, years old, weighing fifteen hundred pounds, and measuring seventeen hands high. The horse the General has been using is rather broken down with age, having carried his distinguished owner, who is no light weight, for many years; so the generous present came to the warworn, scar-covered veteran in good time. The horse is a noble specimen of his race, and was raised in Clarion county much pleased, and although he cannot been burned. now mount him very well, he can use him in his carriage. Clarion county is doing very well furnishing horses for military heroes. Napoleon III. is now riding a horse raised in that county.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—This monster vessel left England for her third voyage to America, 10th Sept. Two days afterwards, the rudder-pin broke, the helm became useless, a storm came on, and the huge hulk lay at its mercy-its inhimself perfectly to the habits of life in stores crashing from side to side so as to break the bones and bruse the persons of 15 or 20 individuals, while much of the stores &c. was smashed into minute fragments. By Saturday, the storm abating, and a temporary helm being made, the proud Eastern turned back and reached Cork harbor, a mammoth floating wreck.

> ARMY CHAPLAINS .- At the solicitation of the Army Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of Philadelphia, the War Department has issued an order for the discharge of "any person who has been mustered into service as a chaplain who is not a regularly ordained clergyman of a Christian denomination, without pay or allowance, and requiring that every one mustered in hereafter must be certified to be a regularly-ordained clergyman as above stated. The object of this is to rid the the army of immoral and unworthy chaplains, > COSTLY TO SLAVEHOLDERS .- A Leavenworth paper says it has information to the effect that one hundred slaves leave Missouri every day for Kansas. At this rate, should this rebellion hold on for a year or so, it will need no emancipation proclamation to make Missouri a free State. In fact, her "manifest destiny" is already clearly foreshadowed. much for secession in Missouri.

> A FAMILY OF DRUMMERS .- The family of Franklin A. Priest, of Steubenville, Ohio, must have a large amount of patriotic music in their souls. The father was a drummer in the war of 1812, and his four sons and one grandson are now in the army in the same capacity.

[FOR THE MARIETTIAN. "X" to "A. B. C."

MR. EDITOR: Your Alphabetical correspondent, has at length reached the confessional, by giving utterance to his terror of the emancipation of the slaves; herein is found the sequel of the desire to paralize the tongues of those who declaim against the inconsistency, immorality and pernicious effect of Slavery.— A fearful vision haunts their brains, lest the bondman, freed, should come north. spreading vandalism in their path; this ague fear should no longer cause them to grow "week kneed," for there are no slaves in the south that would prefer migrating north, if it were not to escape from the shackles that bind them; the home of their birth: the scenery of their boyhood, and all the social attachments are as deeply engraved in the African as in the Anglo-Saxon heart. They love too dearly their kindred, and cling too strongly to their native heath to bid to it adieu for ever, unless driven by the severity of their master, or by a longing after liberty; to tear assunder the ties that bind them and fly to the less genial climate of the north. Give them freedom where they are, and but few would roam abroad as long as they were paid for their labor, and protected in their for their labor, and protected in their salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorights at home; as an illustration of the rously tonic, without being exciting and overhappy effect of emancipation, I need only refer your correspondent to its results in the West Indies, and more particularly to the very liberal offer recently made by the Haytian government.-"But how," he inquires, "are you going to Free the Blacks?"-" Stop the war," And "quiet the Country?" to which I reply:

1st. The powers of Congress enable it Constitutionally to confiscate the property of all who are in rebellion against the government, or the invading army, can, under Martial law, declare every bondman free and deprive the rebels of everything they call property.

2d. The war can be stopped just where the people of the north want to see it stop, by prosecuting it vigorously, until the rebels are overwelmed and beg for peace upon such terms as may be thought wise to give them; in short, it can be stopped by conquering a peace, this, and this only, will effectually end it.

3d. The Country can only be quieted when the great pundora box of mischief is removed; destroy the fountain of trouble, and peace and quiet will reign supreme; apart from slavery and the rancour it begets, the friendship of Maine would this day be as warm for South Carolina as it is for Minnesota; cast aside forever that source of all our trouble and sectional feelings would soon be buried in oblivion.

Garrison and Beecher may have written much that might penetrate the obtuse brain of A. B. "The question of the Abolition of Slavery is becoming with us a practical auestion in a sense been. States, which has for its object, not so much the dissolution of the Union, or the separation of the South from the North, as the reconstruction of the Union on the basis of Slavery, or, as the Vice-President of the Confederate States has it, with 'slavery as its cornerstone,' and therefore the extension of Slavery over the whole country, cannot fail to force this question upon the grave attention of every citizen of the loyal States, who loves his country, and believes in the practicability of freedom. The Slave States, by their rebellion and war on the Union, are compelling us to regard this question as one which must soon be practically met, and are forcing all loyal citizens to make their election between the preservation of the Union of the South from the Union of the Uni much the dissolution of the Union, or The Banks of Washington city between the preservation of the Union whatever the Federal Administration, whatever individuals or parties in the Free States, with or without Southern or Pro-Slavery proclivities, may wish or desire, is pretty soon to be the inevitable issue of the terrible struggle in which our glorious and bitherto peaceful Republic is now engaged.

An Aperient and Stomachic preparation of cron purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Iombustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States, and prescribed in thei.

Practice.

The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions, indicate its necessity in almost very conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrafulous Tuburculosis, Salt Rheum, Mismenstruation, Chlorosis, Whites, Liver Complaints, Chronic Head aches, Rheumatism, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the face, &c. In cases of General Debility, whether the re-ult of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this testorative description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighbor-hoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers, emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sand guineous exhaustion, crittical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptiaversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be heating; and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness with-out ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In Dispersia, innumerable as are its causes, a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendent Costiveness

In unchecked Diarrhea, even when advanced to Dysentary, confirmed, emaciating, and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In Rheumatism, both chronic and inflammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—

In Internitient Fevers it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and use-

COMMENDATIONS:

From Hon. Lewis D. Campbell, M. C., Ohio.

My family and friends all concur in the opin-ion that the (Newell) Picture is more life-like than anything they ever saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by artists in various ways, but I have never yet had one which pre-sents so true to nature, all the features and ex-pressions of countenance as this.

From Hon. E. Joy Morris, late Minister to Italy. The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your portraits, conjoined with their durability of color and faithfulness as likenessess, cannot fail to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who appreciate true art. From Col. James Page.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a miniature in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by htm, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommend him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.
