PROF. McCoy's LECTURE: Professor Amasa McCoy delivered on Monday evening last, his justly celebrated Oration on the "London Times and the Rebellion," before quite a large number of the citizens of Marietta, assembled in the Presbyterian church. After an earnest prayer by Rev. Geo. M. Clawges and an "ode to Washington" sung by the young ladies attached to the High School, the speaker was gracefully presented by Rev. A. B. Gnosch, President of the Marietta Literary Society.

The oration, in subject matter, grace and force of delivery, was all that has been claimed for it. The Professor is truly master of the subject, and finished in his profession. During the delivery, which occupied fully two hours, the audience were fixed by the power of his eloquence; and upon the close of his apostrophe to the "Flag of our Union," the depth of feeling, and intense sympathy he had called forth from the audience was told by the murmur of their sighs. "Washington's Grave" was then sung by the young ladies, when, on motion, the President appointed Barr Spangler, J. W. Clark and John J. Libhart a committee to prepare resolutions expressive of the sense of the audience, and have them published. The committee furnished the following:

Resolved, that the citizens of Marietta and vicinity, will ever cherish for Prof. A. McCoy, a lively sense of the obligations they owe him for his efforts in behalf of our distracted country, and beg leave to offer this token, not as a measure of praise or adulation, but as the willing tribute of grateful hearts for the magnificent treat furnished us.

Resolved, that the citizens of Marietta and vicinity, will ever cherish for Prof. A. McCoy, a lively sense of the obligations they owe him for his efforts in behalf of our distracted country, and beg leave to offer this token, not as a measure of praise or adulation, but as the willing tribute of grateful hearts for the magnificent treat furnished us.

The Ladies of our Borough who have been operating, through a Committee only, for the aid and relief of our soldiers, met on Thursday evening last, and organized in due form under the title of the "Ladies Patriotic Circle of Marietta," and appointed Mrs. P. J. Timlow, President.

Mrs. A. B. Grosch, Vice President; Mrs. Geo. W. Mehaffey, Secretary, and Mrs. S. P. Sterrett, Treasurer. Executive Committee, Madames Benjamin, Hinkle, Abraham Cassel, S. F. Eagle, Rudisill, Doyle, Zell, Grove, Croot and Theo. Hiestand. The Ex. Committee were instructed to purchase materials for work, and have the same ready for operations by Thursday evening next.

A pressing cordial invitation is hereby extended by the Ladies of the Association to all the Ladies of the Borough and vicinity, to meet and unite with them in their patriotic and humane labors, at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Grove, on Thursday evening next, at 6 o'clock.

We understand that the young ladies are also moving in the patriotic labor of furnishing mittens, &c., for our soldiers in the field. We have not received information of the particulars of their organization, or plans of operation, but will be pleased to publish them.

The death of Mr. Frederick Mehling, one of the Town Council, on Thursday last, drew together that body when the following resolutions of condolence were passed:

Resolved, that we shall feel greatly his loss in our deliberations; and as the affliction falls still more heavily upon his bereaved family, we beg to extend to them our condolence in this their period of affliction.

Resolved, that we will attend the funeral of the deceased, and wear the usual badge of mourning.

A large and highly respectable meeting was held at Bainbridge, in this county, on Saturday last, to take the necessary steps to compel the Tide Water Canal company to alter the Columbia Dam as to permit fish to ascend the Susquehanna river. Mr. Emanuel Nagle was called to the chair, and General A. Hiestand Gletz, of York co., appointed secretary. Committees of Correspondence for Lancaster, York and Dauphin counties were appointed by the chairman. There appears to be no doubt that a vigorous effort will now be made to compel the company to conform to the law of 1851, requiring sluices to be made in the dam. So it should be.

We are unavoidably compelled to defer until our next several articles intended for this week's paper.

Professor McCoy's Oration.

MR. EDITOR: I went with the crowd on Monday evening last, to hear the celebrated lecture of Professor McCoy, and was, I confess, somewhat disappointed. The lecture, as a piece of composition, was certainly good, and was delivered, I presume, according to the most rigid rules of rhetoric, and there was in it some good and close reasoning. Still, it was not, by any means, the best specimen of consecutive thinking that one could wish. It was not in this respect however, that it came short of my expectations. The Lancaster committee who wished to have the Lecture repeated in other towns and cities, desired by it, to excite the patriotism of the people, to a more generous support of the Government. Did it not occur to them, that higher motives might be presented, than mere veneration for a constitution, that was written in the time of our immortal Washington, and which, in some respects has long since, served its day and generation?

The hydra-headed monster SLAVERY, that is to day preying on the vitals of our country, and like an insatiate Vampire, is struggling to extract the very life blood from the nation's heart, has been nurtured and raised to its present hideous proportions under the fostering care of this very Constitution, which, to preserve, we are called on by Professor McCoy, to offer our Sons, as so many sacrifices on the altar—of Liberty?

This Constitution, which first went into operation more than Seventy years ago, is a striking evidence of the liberality of our Revolutionary Fathers. The mere incidental recognition of Slavery, shows that it was simply tolerated in 1789, and when we remember that this was forty years before it was abolished in the British colonies, we may well be proud of our ancestors, while, at the same time, we cannot but blush for the degeneracy of their sons, who, from mere mercenary motives, should have perpetuated an "Institution" that, every day of its existence, gives the lie to our professions of liberty.

True, it is asserted by some, that the Constitution gives no countenance nor encouragement to Slavery, and yet the highest judicial authority of the country, construed the third clause of Sec. II, Art. IV. of this self same Constitution into a Fugitive Slave Law, thereby making the Northern States, a Constitutional hunting ground, and Northern men Constitutional Slave catchers to Southern masters. I am aware that there are differences of opinion regarding Judge Taney's version of Constitutional law, but why should there be any dubiety about a matter of such paramount importance? All men of intelligence are agreed that the present war is the fruit of slavery, under the old Constitution.—How long then is this crying sin to be endured? It is sheer political quackery to say, that the preservation of the constitution will prove a sufficient panacea for the political evils under which we suffer, and it is astonishing to think that there are so many men of intelligence, and undoubted loyalty, in the same questionable category with Professor McCoy, and the Lancaster Committee. I might instance the case of an old and very highly respected citizen of Marietta, now of Lancaster, who sports the following motto over his business advertisement in the Express, "Our whole Country as it was." Yes, "As it was!" Slavery and all, with the antiquated Constitution into the bargain. Is the Union that we enjoyed but yesterday, under our venerable Constitution, so very desirable, that rather than lose it we would again become the brothers and bosom friends of Southern Slaveholders, and continue to cherish the viper whose venomous fangs have laid so many of our noblest citizens cold in death, and which at no distant day, might demand another and a still greater sacrifice? No Sir, let the Constitution be so amended that under itsegis, slavery cannot exist. Let the property of the rebels be confiscated, and their slaves set at liberty. Let Congress provide for the immediate emancipation of slavery throughout the whole land. Let the negroes be colonized, or otherwise personal liberty. Then—and not till then—will we have any sure guarantee of a permanent and desirable peace. If Professor McCoy would only incorporate these wholesome doctrines in his otherwise magnificent lecture, he might assist materially in leading the people to prepare for the higher, and better state of national existence that awaits them when slavery—American slavery shall be numbered with the things that were.

William M. Gormley, Constable of Lancaster township, died suddenly at his residence of apoplexy. On Monday Mr. G. attended to the duties of his office, enjoying his usual good health, and in a few hours afterwards was stricken down by death.

Captain A. J. Neff, Lieutenants O'Rourke and Hook, have been reinstated to their former positions, and are now on duty with their respective companies in the First Pennsylvania Reserves.
