🐼 Our patriotic circle have set in in downright earnest. There is much to be done, however-work and room for all who can find heart and time thus to labor in the cause of humanity. Let those noble hearted women of our community who can meet with their sewing implements, prepare to make their needles as potent, in their sphere, as the sword and the bayonet, in putting down rebellion and sustaining the defenders of the Union, now come forth, as they did in Revolutionary times. We are informed that mittens made of good cloth are very servicable and desirable. We would suggest that cloth of those portions of garments that are very little worn-as inside of coats, &c.,-might answer this purpose. Have the ladies considered this matter ? If so, tell the men to look up their cust off garmentslet there be no waste in these days. We are also requested to state that soft hats are much needed to furnish soles for hospital slippers. Every gentlemen, therefore, young, old and middle-aged, will please look after all his cast off "tiles," and hand them over. The silk hat will not do so well-it needs a stout, well felted mater.al. Let all the men take due notice and have the article hunted up and handed over-the sooner the better. The last attendance at Mrs. Grove's was quite fall, but room-ample room for more. Come one, come all, to Mrs. Timlow's, on Thursday evening next, at six o'clock. Now that the good work is begun, let none be behind her neighbor.

The developement of the Van Wyck investigating committee, tell an awful tale against the management of the War Department. This does not at all surprise us, knowing the grand head and front-the "old chief" himselfto be ready for anything that may "turnup" to make a nimble shilling-and then -and then-his camp followers-such a horde of leeches would damn any Administration. The sooner the President re-constructs his cabinet the better, and particularly the removal of the port folio of the War Department to more competent and more honest guardianship. By the way, that dinner to the I have been repeatedly stigmatised as an "Chief" did not come off, for reasons

ABOLITIONISM !--- ABOLITIONIST !! Col. Baker:-- A few weeks ago you designated the preaching of our preach-The morning train cast at 7:20. The mail train though you commended their views, yet west at 12:17. The evening train east at 5:06. the word is of such horrible import to some of our people, that I think a little explanation may be useful.

[FOR " THE MARIETTIAN."

An editor in this county, who probably does not differ from the views you commend, lately said that he was in with the bullet ; and, when the rebellion not use the word to express the same meaning-and "who shall decide when" Editors "disagree ?" This word, "abolitionist," is yet a terrible war club among demagogues, wherewith to "floor" an opponent, when reason and logic fail. Even here, at the north, it has not lost its fearful power over ignorant and misinformed people : as is evident about election times, and from the columns of some of our newspapers who see editors act on the maxim, "only throw plenty of dirt; some of it will stick !" And at the south-all through Secessia, especially-its application to any individual endangers reputation property, liberty and life. Better be called Atheist, Anarchist, or any ether most odious and horrible name, than be branded as an Abolitionist in most of the Southern states. Why i Because the further south you go, the more horrible and awful and abominable is the meaning attached to the word. In short, so many changes have been rung upon the word-so many and such bad meanings have been attached to it at different periods, in different localities. and by different parties, that it has lost all definiteness and precision of meaniog; and is taken by its sound only, associated with every evil remembrance.

name ;" this has become "a name without's deed" to match it in horror-used equally to scare the master and the slave.

Last fall-I give the story as it was told me-a mun objected to a candidate. that he was "an abolitionist." "Abolitionist !" said a friend, "what is that ?" As the man was unable to give a clear definition, the friend continued-"Well, what is it like? Is it most like a mule, or like a wheelbarrow?" The objector, thought it was something most like a wheelharrow ! Now as there are not a few blethering demagogues, even in Pennsylvania, who freely apply the word to every man they wish to render odious, and who could not, probably, give any clearer definition, is it not time that editors stop it from being "trundled around," by defining clearly what they mean by the word when they use it ? abolitionist, and been urged by friends best knows to the "select ring." Our to deny it; but what shall I deny? In reforter regrets exceedingly not being the sense in which Franklin, Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry, and other revolutionary sages were abolitionists, I, too, am one. But certainly, as meaning that I would violate all constitution and law, and urge slaves to cut their master's throats. I are not an abolitionist. In the same degree that our leading Union Democrats, the President and his Cabinet, are abolitionists, I am one: but as meaning a man who declares that the negro is socially or politically me such, after hearing my public addresses last summer, and reading my articles within the year past published in your paper. But, to a few definitions of the terms. In the rebel states, all Republicans and nearly all northern Democrats are called Abolitionists. Any opposition to slavery-to its extension or perpetuity-to its aggressions, or to it as an evil of any character or degree, is Abolitionism.-In the border slave states, where many its supremacy in government, and its unlimited extension or perpetual continuance, this meaning is denied. An cann abolitionist means one who would "run off slaves," or otherwise illegally, or unconstitutionally, or violently interfere with the institution. But this definition has so many shades and degrees of meaning, that it is very vague and indistinct in most minds. In the border free states the same vagueness, as we have seen, prevails. One means by it, merely interfering with slavery in the slave states by writing or speaking against it-while another means, inciting the slaves to insurrection, robbery and murder to obtain their liberty-and others mean all or any shades of meaning between or beyond these definitions! As we advance North and East the terms are confined mainly to the organized associations of anti-slavery men and women, and lose nearly all odium when applied even to these people.

Gerritt Smith holds that slavery has no constitutional or legal existence. is simply a usurpation and outrage on all senger trains leave "Upper-station" as follows: ers in this borough, as abolitionism; and government, human and divine. Not being named in the U.S. Constitution, it has no existence there, and conse-quently no "compromise" in its favor.---And hence, were all constitution and law construed literally, and according to the principles of "Common law," slavery would not be; and freedom would at once be the recognized right and inheritance of every human being who had not lost it by crime.

> Wm. Llcyd Garrison and his friends hold that slavery exists only by power of the U. S. Constitution-against all right, human and divine, moral, social and political-so that were the government changed aright, and the Union dissolved, slavery would die. Hence they will not vote, hold office, or own allegiance, or in any wise countenance our government, lest they become partakers in its iniquity; and in all peaceable ways and proper means they feel bound to free every slave, break every yoke, and set all the oppressed free. Up to the outbreak of the rebellion, (for I know not what changes, if any, the war may have made in their opinions and feelings) both these Anti-slavery parties were non-resistants-opposed to the use of brute force, and especially to shedding blond, to advance their opinions or to free the slave. Hence much of the horror mistakenly felt and expressed against the latter especially, may safely be abated, except by those who suppose our Union to be "a bag of cotton at one end, and a negro slave at the other."
