Borough Election: The election for Borough officers came off yesterday with considerable animation. Two tickets were run—dubbed the "Abolition" and "Breckinridge." The old war-worn veteran leading the former, which was partially elected, but he, unfortunately, left behind, which again verifies the truth of the old saw that boroughs as well as "Republics are ungrateful."

The Council, which was really the most important part at issue, will be filled by five most excellent men—four republicans and one national democrat. Whilst politics was pretended to be ignored in this domestic struggle, we still could not fail to observe the same old political backbones of yore busily engaged in boring almost every voter who presented himself on the park of the Town Hall grounds. But, in a word, the result is truly gratifying; a better Council could not possibly have been elected, and we hope the newly elected officers will go on in the good work commenced by their immediate predecessors, until every sidewalk is possible and every lamp post contains a lighted lamp. We append below the names of the elected as far as we could obtain before going to press.

- Chief Burgess, H. S. Libhart. Ass. Burgess, Frederick Manlick. Town Council, O. C. P. Grosh, John Kline, Alex. Lyndsay, S. C. Heistand, Franklin Hipple. School Directors, John K. Fidler, Dr. James Cushman. High Constable, Absolom Emswiler.

Considerable bitterness was manifested in getting up a Borough ticket. A meeting was called for Thursday evening for the purpose of forming a Union ticket, but some dissatisfied with this arrangement, met on Wednesday evening and nominated the following ticket:

- Chief Burgess, H. S. Libhart, Asst. Burgess, Frederick Manlick, Town Council, Samuel C. Heistand, Franklin Hipple, Alex. Lyndsay, John Fulk, S. S. Nagle. High Constable, R. K. Mosey. Borough Judge, Girard Roth. Inspectors, Thomas Barnes, Henry Sucher, Town Clerks, A. Erisman, T. Heistand. School Directors, J. M. Larzallier, James Cushman. Assessor, David Roth.

According to previous announcement a meeting was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening to select a Union Borough Ticket. Before the hour for convening had arrived, a baker's dozen of Hessians took possession of the Hall and, Sanders-like, commenced to re-nominate the Breckinridge ticket of the night before.

The peace-loving Unionists, disgusted with such proceedings withdrew from the Hall to one of the school rooms on the first floor of the building, and whilst there, quietly preparing a ticket, the plug-uglies came from their perch above, and attempted to break up the meeting. A ticket was perfected notwithstanding, however, a copy of which we attach, and a large portion of which, will be found on observation, has been elected:

- Chief Burgess, S. D. Miller. Ass. Burgess, Thomas Stence. Town Council, O. C. P. Grosh, I. Goodman, Thomas Zell, John Kline, S. C. Heistand. A. Emswiler. Borough Judge, J. M. Eberman. Inspectors, J. M. Anderson, C. M. Foulk. Town Clerks, A. Erisman, Theo. Heistand. School Directors, J. K. Fidler, Dr. J. Cushman. Assessor, I. Reisinger.

FOR "THE MARIETTIAN."]

Breaking Laws. When Dr. Trall, in his lectures, last Summer, declared that it was absurd to say that man could break a law of God or of nature, and ridiculed the idea of violating the law of an omnipotent Being, I supposed his hearers would look on it as a hypercritical whim of the speaker. But I find, by a debate which was held in our Literary Society, on the 3d inst., that his declaration is believed by some of our citizens, and defended as a philosophical truth, and as strictly and philologically correct—and that all who speak of breaking or violating law, utter what is false and absurd.

Unwilling to give up a "form of sound words," heretofore deemed correct by all writers and speakers of our language; or to be considered as an utterer of false and foolish sentiment, I beg leave to offer a few remarks in your columns, showing the proper meaning and best and general usage of the phrases in question.

Of course, no one uses the words "break," "transgress," "violate," or their equivalents, when applied to laws or commands of God, in the sense of "abrogate," "annul," "nullify" or "repeal," which is only one sense of the many in which some of these words are used. By referring to any of the dictionaries in common use, it will be seen that these words have many meanings, and that among these meanings is that of disobeying, or acting contrary to, the injunctions of law.

The authorities and examples I shall adduce are from authorities not in such common use, (except the Bible,) and interesting from their rarity or quaintness and antiquity. Richardson's Dictionary, after giving the various definitions of the meaning of the word "break," says—"This word is of most universal application (metaphorical or literal) to any separation; particularly when made with suddenness, violence, injury."

Again—"Adultery, in our old writers, is called spouse-breach," as in Wiclif's translation of Matt. xii: "Whiche answered and saide to hem, an yvel kindrede and a spouse-breker, sekith a tokene, and a tokene schal not be given to it; but the tokene of Jonas the profete."

Among the instances given by Richardson are the following from old English writers:—"To breke ys trewe covenant, the kyng was loth thereto, "And natheles ys conseyl hym gef that he moste yf. nede do."

R. Gloucester, p. 25. "Therefore be that brekith oon of these leeste mandementis and techith thus men, schal be elepid the leest in the rewme of hevenes."

Wiclif, Matt. v. 19. "Whosoever breaketh one of these commandements, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the lest in the kyngdome of hevenes."

Bible of 1551, Matt. v. 19. "And likerous folke, after that they been dede, Shall whil about ye worlde, alway in paine Till maay a world be passed."

Chaucer. "As thou seest blesynges, or cursynges follows the breakyng, or keepyng of the law of Moyses; euen so naturally do the blesynges, or cursynges followe the breakyng, or keepyng of the law of nature, out of which spryng all our temporal laws."

Tyndall's Works, p. 10. Under the word "violate," Richardson gives the following examples. "They saw the dumme beaste myght lawfully ben drawn out of the hole, lest it shoulde peryshe, without any violation or breache of the Sabbath; and would in no wyse see, that it was lawfull to prynde for mannes health upon the same day."

Udal, on Mark iii: "Notwithstanding a greivous penalte of money being imposed upon the violaters of the same statute."

Hackluyt's Voyages. "When any thing may be either done, or not done, equally without the violation of truth, that thing is indifferent."

Wollaston's Religion of Nature. "How do they then challenge and object against Providence, and think neither God nor man severe enough, in punishing the violaters of right and truth!"

Clarke on the Evidences. "Our Common Version of the Bible furnishes many instances of the common use (and meaning) of the words "break," "transgress," "violate," and their derivatives, as applied to commandment and law. We give a few.

Ezra ix: 14—Should we again break thy commandments," &c. Psalm lxxxix: 31—"If they break my statutes," (which is explained by the parallelism following) "and keep not my commandments."

Matt. v: 19—"Whosoever, therefore, shall break one of these least commandments," &c. Rom. ii: 23—"Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonorest thou God?"

Rom. ii: 25—"But if thou be a breaker of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision."

Ezek. xxii: 26—"Her priests have violated my law, and have profaned my holy things."

Zeph. iii: 4—"Her priests have polluted the sanctuary, they have done violence to the law."

Psalm. cxix: 126—"It is time for thee, Lord, to work; for they have made void thy law."

For instances of "transgress," &c., See Num. xiv: 41, Deut. 26: 13, Isa. xlv: 5, Dan. ix: 11, Mat. xv: 3, Jno. vii: 23, Jas. ii: 8, 11, 1 John iii: 4.

But it is needless to quote more.—The phrases in question are found in every writer of the language, and to strike them out would riddle our entire literature; and to fill the gaps with such substitutes as are proposed, would change, not only our forms of expression, but also of thought and feeling. For the same reasons such phrases as "Sabbath-breaker," "law-breaker," "violations of honor, honesty, truth, right," &c., would have to be omitted. And for similar reasons, the ordinary inquiries as to health, the hour, and many other common and domestic phrases, must follow; and cumbersome, circumlocutory and pedantic forms of expression take their place.

The truth is, words are designed and used to express ideas and feelings, whether of fancy or fact, of imagination or reality, of poetry or prose. And to confine us to words which express that which is strictly, literally and philosophically true, would banish all secondary and accommodated meanings of words—all metaphors and poetic figures—all descriptions of the seeming, as of the rising and setting, (and other appearances and movements) of the sun, moon, stars and other heavenly bodies.

But in reference to laws, natural and moral, there can be no doubt that the secondary if not the primary meaning and usage of the words "break," "violate," "transgress," &c., are proper in speaking of disobedience to them.

FISHERY MEETING.—A meeting will be held in the public school house, Bainbridge, on Tuesday next, for the purpose of pressing or compelling the Tide Water Canal Company to alter their dams so as to permit the free passage of fish up the Susquehanna river. THE TIMBER BUSINESS.—The Raftsmen's Journal, referring to the timber business in Clearfield county and the region in that vicinity, says that from inquiries made during the last ten days, and the information obtained, it inclines to the opinion that the quantity of timber taken out this season will fall considerably short of what it has been for several years past.

The Directors of the Poor on Monday last elected Drs. Wm. Compton, of Lancaster, and H. B. Bowman, of Neffsville, (Allopathic) and Dr. Benj. Barr, of Lancaster, (Homoeopathic) Physicians of the Poor House and Hospital for the ensuing year. Dr. Stehman (Homoeopathic) was chosen at a former meeting. So that the end of the war has been that both systems are equally represented. The Lancaster papers, however, say Dr. Compton will also resign. If such a course is pursued by the Doctor, we hope the directors will put an end to this controversy by electing four Homoeopathic physicians at once.

On the night of the 25th ult. the post office at Wrightsville, Pa. was entered by robbers, and money and postage stamps to the value of fifty dollars taken therefrom. The burglars took everything of value they could lay their hands on. One of the letters contained fifteen dollars, sent by a volunteer at Port Royal to his mother at Wrightsville.
