Saturday, July 5, 1862.

We have a very interesting article sent us by our former townsman, Capt. S. S. Rathvon, in type, which will appear in our next. It is a description of a three months campaign in Missouri, from the pen of a son of Mr. Llewellyn Zabin, formerly of Marietta.

Dr. F. Hinkle has returned from Washington, where he had gone to report his condition to the Navy Department. He is gradually gaining strength and will soon be able to resume his position—wherever it may be—in the service of his country.

We are informed by the assistant Postmaster of this borough, that 7,744 letters have been mailed from this place, within the last quarter. Quite an extensive correspondence for such a town.

The County Superintendent will examine the teachers in the Marietta High School Room, on Thursday morning, July 10th.

Lancaster Cotton Mill No. 1, will go into operation on Monday next—Nos. 2 and 3 are now running.

Harry Brooks, a graduate of the Philadelphia Institute for the Blind, and the son of the late Washington Brooks, gave a concert—vocal and instrumental—on Saturday evening last, at the Town Hall. We were sorry to see the son of a Mariettian have so slim an audience, and more particularly so as the object was worthy of better encouragement.

The music was very fine, at the conclusion of which, Harry gave a brief but very interesting lecture upon the manner of educating the blind.

By permission of Mr. THOMAS C. CHILDS, we are permitted to make some extracts from a letter received from his son in Col. Welsh's Forty-fifth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers:

JAMES ISLAND, S. C., En route Charleston, June 19, 1862. Dear Father:—As my last may have created some anxiety for my safety, I will endeavor to dissipate your fears, by giving you a brief outline of our doings and whereabouts since our departure from the land of Isaac—Otter Island.

We left Otter Island, May 21, and proceeded to North Edisto Island and remained there until June 1st, awaiting the arrival of more troops, when we went on board the steamer Planter, a small gun-boat taken out of Charleston harbor by 3 cottonbats, and landed at daylight on John's Island; after taking breakfast, we marched 6 miles through a sandy path under a scorching sun without any water. I never suffered so much from thirst before in my life.

The heat and dust combined seemed to parch our tongues like fire, and many drank water two parts mad. This is one of the failings of this part of the State, the streams being all salty; the springs which are found at the few scattered plantations, are all or nearly all, out of repair, having been so long deserted. It commenced raining on the 3d and continued pouring—for I never saw it rain so before—until the 8th. Our line of march was resumed at midnight on the 5th, amid a drenching rain, after a march of 13 miles we halted at Legaresville, a very pretty village which must have been the summer resort of the rich planters. Here we lay until the 9th, employing our time in drying and cleaning our clothes and accoutrements. We went aboard a steamer on the afternoon of the 9th and crossed over to this (James) island and were quartered at dark, near the wharf. The rebels endeavored to shell our camp all night, but could not get the balls falling within thirty yards of our camp, but doing no harm, however, but during the afternoon a brigade of theirs attempted to capture our pickets, but were repulsed with considerable loss—our pickets gallantly standing their ground until the artillery were brought up, which soon put the rebels to rout.

Two companies of our regiment were in the hottest of the fire and behaved like veterans and were highly complimented by the General; their loss, 150 killed and wounded. Whilst we were marching over the battle field to go on picket duty, the dead and dying all around us gave us some idea of the horrors of war.

This is written on my tin plate with a pencil, amid the noise and confusion of sixteen messmates, so excuse the imperfections.

Matters between Turkey and Russia are taking a serious appearance.—The Czar has addressed official letters to Russian merchants, warning them not to commence any important undertakings with Turkey, as serious events are soon to occur. When we remember that the same precaution was taken just prior to the last war, the conclusion is important.

We are permitted by Mr. Johnston, of the "Lower Station Hotel," to make some extracts from a letter received from JAMES FIELDS, better known as "Jim Douglas," now in Col. Hambricht's Lancaster County Regiment.—Fields was in the three months service, and was one among the first to enlist for the war, and we know he makes a brave and a useful soldier.

Camp "COOPER," Shelbyville, Tenn., June 25, 1862. Dear Sir: I write you to let you know that I am well and still in the land of the living. I have just come off of a sixteen days march of over four hundred miles over the Cumberland and the Walden Ridge mountains. You may imagine what a time we had; an army of ten thousand infantry, fifteen hundred cavalry, two hundred wagons and six pieces of cannon. We had two fights during the sixteen days march; the first at the foot of the first chain of mountains—in a valley called Sweden—between two mountains. Our scouts first discovered the rebels encamped at the foot of the mountain and informed us—we then came on them by surprise—sending two pieces of cannon and three companies of infantry to draw them out, which had the desired effect, for no sooner did they see our skirmishers than their cavalry—about 800—mounted their horses and fixed in battle array; thinking, no doubt, they would make a nice thing of it—not expecting more of us were in waiting—the moment they began the work we let drive and showered them in earnest from our cannon, which made them look two ways for Sunday, and as the shot came thick and fast amongst them, they began to think about getting out of reach, and then our cavalry came rushing from the bushes and on them—and such getting away you never saw—they ran as if the devil was after them, dropping canteens, swords, sabres, guns, pistols, haversacks, overcoats and some even jumped off their horses and made for the bushes toward the mountains, but we soon captured all such fellows, and followed the main body and overtook them about three miles from where the surprise first took place, and here we had it right sharp for a while, killing fifty rebels and taking over forty prisoners, together with any quantity of army and camp equipage, together with fifty horses.

Our loss was two killed and three wounded. We returned and passed the night on their camp ground and had a gay and happy time over our victory. In the morning we buried our two killed, and theirs the next day, when we continued our march over the mountain chain, toward the city of Chattanooga at the foot of the great Cumberland mountain, where the rebels were laying with the city well fortified and entrenched with rifle pits and in readiness for us—but all this was of no avail, for we knocked them into a three-cocked hat when we came. We planted six cannon pointing right into the rifle pits and then we got reinforcements of the Ohio 5th, of four cannons, making ten pieces, which enabled us to give them brisk work. The Colonel then employed skirmishers to go down to the river's edge to shoot them from the rifle pits while the cannon would fire on their entrenchments. I was one of the number to skirmish, and we fired at them all afternoon while the cannon blazed away at them until their guns were disabled. We could see them all afternoon carrying out their dead, and at sundown they ceased firing and evacuated the place, which we soon took possession of. So after eight days hard work, we took some rest, feeling used up in every sense, but now I feel as good as ever, but many of our men are completely worn out. We took in all one hundred prisoners, 200 head of fat cattle, 100 horses and about twenty thousand weight of pork and provisions.

Truly your friend, JAMES FIELDS.

Gen. Shields, it is understood, has resigned his position of Brigadier, in consequence of his rejection as Major-General by the Senate. Gen. Shields is as brave a man as ever breathed, but probably too rash and incautious to command a division.

Mary Vickers, Emeline Vickers, Rose Vickers and Kate Vickers, were arrested in Baltimore on the 17th inst., for "plying their vocation" of waving Secession flags. These girls threw vitrol on the officers who arrested them.

The Protestant clergymen of Nashville having declined to take the oath of allegiance, Gov. Johnson has sent nearly all of them to the Penitentiary, as prisoners of war. The Roman Catholic clergy are all loyal.

We neglected to mention a few weeks since, that "The Herald of Progress," one of the best papers on our exchange list, has come out with a new and beautiful head and otherwise typographically improved.

At the suggestion of governors of eighteen states, the President has called for three hundred thousand more volunteers.

A rebel prisoner was shot at Camp Douglas, Chicago, on Friday night while attempting to escape. He was first fired at while scaling the fence but escaped uninjured. Subsequently while running across a garden lot in that vicinity, he was again fired at, and fell pierced by a half-dozen bullets.

The Miasma and foul vapors generated by the hot sun will be far more deadly to our Volunteers than the enemy's bayonets. In the Indian and Crimean Campaigns, Holloway's Pills were used in enormous quantities. They kept the troops in perfect health. Only 25 cents per box. Soldiers supply yourselves.
