GEN. SCOTT ON O. P. F .-- The New York Herald in speaking of Gen. Winfield Scott's letter to James Buchanan on the origin of the war, holds the following language : "It throws a flood of light upon the trembling imbecility and ing in all history to compare with it in in behalf of strong garrisons in our Southern forts, been adopted by President Buchanan, he could have crushed this great rebellion in the bud, as Gen. Jackson uipped the nulification experiment of South Carolina of 1832-33. This letter of General Scott, with its valuable memoranda and their dates and specifications, clinches the nail of Mr. Buchan an's shameful moral cowardice and snivelling dotage. His responsibility for this war will follow him through a thousand generations, in darkened contrast with the shining patriotism of General

Scott."

We clip from the Washington Star the following notice of the 135th Pennsylvania Regiment, Col. Porter, in which regiment the "Marietta Braves," Capt. Samuel G. Miller are in : "This fine regiment has been doing provost duty for some time in this city, and the general good conduct of the men, and the soldierly qualities of the officers have been remarked by all. Col. Porter is a strict disciplinarian, and under his management, the regiment, although a new one, has attained great proficiency, and the good effects of a stringent enforcement of needed rules and regulations is visible everywhere. The regi ment is encamped in the barracks, east of the Capitol, formerly occupied by the 86th Regiment, New York Volunteers, and the encampment is kept in so neat a condition as to make it a desirable residence. When the 135th took possession the ground was in a miserable condition, covered with filth, badly policed, roofs of barracks defective, boards torn off from the buildings, and everyic management of Quartermaster Cushman, all this was at once remedied, and the general health of the men fully attest the advantage of cleanliness. The buildings are warm, dry and comfortable, and present a really inviting appearance. One of the buildings has been fitted up as a chapel, and Divine service is held every Sabbath by the Chaplain. The different companies of the Old Capitol prison, the Central Guardhouse, and as a street patrol, and in the performance of all their duties they are remarkably efficient, so much so that the citizens much desire the retention of the 135th in this duty, and the interests of the Government cannot be better subserved than by retaining
