The Yocal Mariettian.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1863.

▲ A new railroad time table will go into effect on Monday next. The morning train east, as usual, at ten minutes before eight; the mail train west, 11:38 instead of 12:09; the Harrisburg accommodation train east, 5:09 instead of tomac R. R.) running from Acquia Creek 2:16; the same train westward at 6:55, as heretofore. The mail train east at 6:26 will be withdrawn.

The Susquehanna has been, for the past week very high, so high indeed as to make it unsafe to run and hence, our town has been quite dull during that period. The river is, however, now falling and in a few days we may look for a crowd of both rafts and raftmen.

Henry A. Sultzbaugh, of this borough, Miller's "Marietta Braves," and who died in camp, near Bell Plains, Va., was brought to his home in this borough, on Wednesday morning last and will be buried to-morrow (Sunday) morning at ten | ing of trees in lines along their streets. o'clock. The company had him embalmed and it is said he looks very natural.

On Monday evening next, at six o'clock, at the Linden House, the borough real estate of the late Judge Grosh, will be offered at public sale .-Here is a chance for the purchase of a fine business location and an excellent residence.

Mr. Rickert's concerts came off on. Tuesday and Wednesday evenings last, in the Town Hall. The Hall was crowded on Tuesday evening, but the increant rain on Wednesday prevented many from attending. The entertainments were very chaste and refined and the music delightful.

The remains of Lieut, Mishler, son of Benjamin Mishler, of Lancaster, who was killed at the Indian battle of Valverds, New Mexico, in February, twenty four hours with them in regular 1862, are to be brought to Lancaster for | camp style, exceedingly agreeable.final interment.

Read Spangier & Patterson's ad vertisement in another column; they tions being made in their division to rehave just received a new invoice of ceive the President who had been visispring and summer goods, which they will soll at a small advance.

An election for County Superin tendent of Common Schools, will take place at the Court House, Laucaster, on Monday, May 4th.

The Union League of Lancaster has erected over the National Hotel building the new sign of "Union League Rooms."

Dr. Isaac Bowman, of Elizabethtown, has been appointed assistant surgeon of the 167th Pennsylvania volun

The charter of the Lancaster County Bank has just been extended for five years,

The Patriotic Circle will meet on Friday evening next, at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Hinkle.

The Prothonotary of this county has received a letter from Portland Or egon, asking for information in regard to the family of Rudolphus Townley .-If any of the heirs of the said Townley are living, they may hear something to their advantage by addressing Mr. S. Oregon.

The Union League of Lancaster marble panels shall be inscribed the name of every citizen of Lancaster county who has fallen or may hereafter fall, in the prosecution of this war for the preservation of the Union and the Constitution of our fathers."

The Pennsylvania Canal is now filled and boats are running. The poor fegged-out mules of last season have recuperated during the winter and now look as fat and sleek as Christmas pigs; ready for another nine months' abuse and hard fare.

The new borough council organtzed on Saturday evening last, by electin the following officers:

President, O. C. P. Grosh. Treasurer, John Auxer, Assessor, F. L. Baker, Town Clerk, T. Hiestand, Regulators, John H., and Israel Good

Supervisor, Samuel Hipple, jr.

We neglected to mention in our last that David Armstrong, jr., an industrious colored blacksmith whose shop was broken into several times and his bellows ripped up, has at length found out the melicious perpetrator. Dayid had long suspected a rival blacksmith -- a german named Coonley -- doing business immediately opposite, and he set a trap to catch him and had the satisfaction of finding that he was right in regard to the person blamed, and also of inflicting a pretty severe punishment. The trap was a gun loaded with shot. and se arranged on the anvil that upon any attempt to open the door, the weapon would be discharged, and upon the attempt to repeat the destruction of the bellows, the person undertaking the task received the load in his hand and other portions of his person, and for his trouble less three of his fingers at the shop door.

Correspondence of The Mariettian.

Acquia Creek, April 8, 1868. Mr Editor:-Thinking it might be agreeable to the readers of "The Mariettian," who have not had an opportunity to visit the Army of the Potomac, the following description of a trip via the U. S. Military Railroad, (formerly the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Poto Falmouth Station, has been attempt-

Being a deck passenger on one of the high box cars, nothing was left to obstruct the scene, which together with the beauty of the day, was indeed grand. The country is almost a regular succession of hills, or rather knobs; evidently, once thickly covered with pitch-pine timber, is now thickly studded with tents in every direction, far and near. Many Peter Sultzbaugh, son of Mr. of the regiments have displayed exquisite taste and ingenuity in the laying out who was a member of Capt. Samuel G. and building of their miniature city, while no pains seem to have been spared to beautify their departments with such as hedge fences, arches and festoons of evergreen, even to the plant-

Having arrived at Falmouth Station, prevent the interchange of words between the pickets that guard their respective posts, without interference, save by way of occasional taunts and slurs that serve to break the monotony.

After a walk of about six miles from one encampment to another, I succeeded in finding the 122d P. V., and also many friends and acquaintances from Marietta and Lancaster county, who spared no pains to make a sojourn of Part of which time was rendered still more interesting by the grand preparating the troops for several days before.

On every high ground could be seen the Star Spangled Banner proudly floating to the breeze-high above the heads of its protectors as they stood in line, with their polished bayonets glittering in the san-light-together with the white tents that dotted every hill and slope-produced in all an effect, easier imagined than described. About four P. M, a train of horsemen was seen advancing, which proved to be the President, accompanied by Gen. Hooker and staff, escorted by Rush's Lancers .-The 122d P. V. and 86th N. Y. V. were drawn in line, with Berdan's Sharp Shooters to the left; as the President approached in front of the line, the command was given to present arms. which was done as he rode along a few paces in the advance, while an honest mile lighted up his care-worn count nance; as he reached the end of the line he was saluted with three cheers, followed by all the whoops and yells that characterizes breaking ranks-making the Old Dominion fairly howl.

I saw some of the boys of the Marietta company who report them in good Dailey, Portland, Multnoma county, health, and in comfortable quarters; in fact the whole army (by what the soldiers say themselves) is in a better conhas resolved to erect a monument in a dition than it was ever known to be; public square of the city, "on whose having plenty of the necessaries of life, not excepting good fresh bread and beef. Having confidence in their General, there seems to be nothing now wanting but good weather.

CAMP McCullough, VA.,

April 6, 1863. MR. EDITOR :- As you have already said in your paper that the health of Company H,-Captain Miller's-135th P. V. has far exceeded that of any other in the regiment, which was true, but since we arrived at this point, death has laid his hand upon one of the most robust of our companions and assigned him to his long home. In his last hours, although in delerium, his only talk was of his home, his family and his aged parents.

At a meeting of the company, the following committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the company at the loss of our companion-in-arms.

The following was read and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Almighty God, in his mysterious providence, has taken away from our company, Private Peter Sultzbaugh, who had forsaken all the comforts of home and friends to serve his country in her struggle against rebellion. Therefore, be it Resolved, that in the death of our brother in arms, Peter Sultzbaugh, we have lost a faithful companion and a noble soldier, and that we greatly mourn his loss, and that we deeply sympathise with his kindred at home, but especially with his widow and his aged parents, who still have the comforting assurance that his life was sacrificed in a good and noble cause, which shall, and must eventually, triumph over all its enemies. Resolved, that a copy of these reso-

his widow and parents, and be published in "The Mariettian."

On Thursday morning of last week a fatal accident occurred near Landisville, on the Harrisburg and New Challies, Pennsylvania railroad, which resulted in the death of Mr. H. G. Herr, a farmer living in that vicinity. As the fast line, east, was approaching, some pigs belonging to him were on the track, and in his anxiety to drive them off, he was caught and struck by the locomotive on his left side, which knocked him from the track into a fence corner, where he was found dead. He was not mangled or disfigured, only a little blood being visible on one of his hands, the blow from the bumper having caused death from internal injuries. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his untimely death. the distress of his wife upon receiving the shocking intelligence was heart-rending in the extreme, and for a time it was feared her reason would be dethroned.

There was quite a spirited meeting of the Union League on Thursday walk of a few hundred yards afforded evening. The cath of allegiance was a fine and almost birds-eye view of the administered by Esquire Auxer, to all ancient and once aristocratic city of the members and quite a number signed Fredericksburg-now, reaping the ben- the Constitution. The committee returned to the hall with the answer of the burgess that he would not grant them a license. We were glad to find a law abiding course would answer, but rather than have such a scene as was had at Columbia, we would have advised the throwing of the party-"tooth and nail"—from the hall.

> On the 4th of April, an unknown colored man was found floating on the Susquehanna River in the neighborhood of Felix Sweigart's Tavern, known to the rivermen as "Pfeitz's Eddy," in Drumore township, holding on a log, with his head above water. He was taken out by some men, but died within an hour afterwards, apparently in a fit.
